"MISS WILSON," QUESTIONED AGAIN IN ELWELL CASE, DENIES THREAT

Owner of Silk Garments Found in Gambler's Home Disputes Former House- keeper's Story She Said She'd Kill Elwell if He De- serted Again.

"BOOTLEGGING" ON BIG SCALE BARED

W. E. Barnes, Secretary and Friend of Slain Turfman, Admits He Recently Bought and Sold $4000 Worth of Liquor.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Efforts to solve the murder of Joseph B. Elwell, whist expert, gravitated today toward "Miss Wilson," supposed owner of the silk garments found in the dead man's bedroom.

Her acquaintance with the sportsman has caused her to be questioned six times by the district attorney's office. The latest interview was held in order that she might be confronted with a cablegram quoting Anna Kane, Elwell's former housekeeper now in Ireland, as stating that "Miss Wilson" had threatened to shoot Elwell if he deserted her again.

Following the examination, District Attorney Swann said "Miss Wilson" had "denied categorically that she had uttered any threat against the life of Elwell."

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Unceasing activity on the part of investigators, other than official, in the Elwell murder mystery resulted yesterday in four important developments. The first and by far the more significant was William E. Barnes, steward of the Studio Club, Elwell's quondam secretary and his best friend, as a confessed "bootlegger."

The other has imbued with point and purpose renewed inquiry by the district attorney's office into Elwell's relations with the "pink-kimono girl," whose real identity, for some unexplained cause, has been permitted to remain veiled under the name "Miss Wilson."

William E. Barnes, in an examination by prohibition officials in the custom house yesterday, recanted former stories he told the officials and admitted, under oath, the recent purchase of $4000 worth of "El Bar," which he sold to a number of prominent men.

Stress was laid by the district attorney's office on the fact that they were questioning Barnes along those lines, not with any idea of enroaching on the prerogatives of the prohibition agents, but to gain knowledge that would either substantiate or disprove reports that had reached them that Elwell, as the center of a "whispering ring," had been living in daily contact with desperate men, playing a desperate game for high stakes, one of whom might have killed him had there been the slightest hint on Elwell's part to "double cross."

While Barnes was being examined by prohibition agents in the custom house, District Attorney Swann was informed newspaper men in the Criminal Courts Building that, as a result of startling disclosures by Anna Kane, former housekeeper for Elwell, he had summoned "Miss Wilson" to appear at the Criminal Courts Building this morning, for her sixth examination by the district attorney's office since the murder on June 11.

The district attorney will ask "Miss Wilson" today for her version of Miss Kane's statement to the effect that she ("Miss Wilson") once threatened to shoot Elwell if he ever deserted her again.

"Miss Wilson" is said by the authorities to have admitted that she spent the night at Elwell's home at 244 West Seventeenth street on the Wednesday before the murder. The district attorney said two days ago that it was "Miss Wilson" who spoke to Elwell at 2:30 o'clock on the morning of the murder. Whether "Miss Wilson" and Elwell spoke over the telephone, the district attorney refused to state.

6 MARRIED BROTHERS, CHILDLESS, LOOK FOR FAMILY APARTMENT

Men, Reunited After Long Separation, Would Establish Themselves Under Common Roof.

APARTMENT WID.—Six brothers, six wives, six children, will lease six-family, 2 to 4 rooms, suitably furnished, north, south or west, 3 to 5 years. Box A-226, Post-Dispatch.

Undismayed by the difficulty, these days, of finding one apartment for one family, K. A. Stockhardt, of 100 North Eighth street has undertaken to find a six-family apartment for six families, consisting of six brothers and their wives.

Circumstances have caused these six brothers to be scattered most of the time since they married, but now the circumstances have changed and it is possible for the first time for them to live in the same city. Not satisfied with that, they want to live under the same roof. So they have commissioned Stockhardt to find them a six-family apartment.

Stockhardt has been looking high and low, but has not found a building that meets the specifications. His hope is that the inducement of model tenants and long leases will encourage the owner of such a building to make other arrangements for present tenants in order to acquire the six brothers and their wives for a long stay.

Landlords are asked to take notice that there are no children. Stockhardt is not at liberty to disclose the names of his clients.

AMERICAN WOOLEN CO. MILLS TO SHUT DOWN INDEFINITELY

Establishments Now Operating Three Days of Week Will Be Closed on July 10.

ANDOVER, Mass., July 2.—Principal mills of the American Woollen Co., now operating only three days a week, will be shut down for an indefinite period on July 10, President William M. Wood announced yesterday.

Cancellation of orders filled or ready to be filled, and curtailment of orders for next season's goods, he said made the stoppage necessary.

BONES OF WOMAN DISCOVERED BENEATH KANSAS CITY SALOON

Police Try to Identify Them as Those of Maude Bonstedt, Missing Twenty-Six Years.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 2.—A wine case containing a woman's bones was found today buried under 12 feet of earth in the rear of what was formerly a saloon at Fifth and Walnut streets here. The bones appeared to be those of a young woman, as the skull showed two rows of perfect teeth.

The police are attempting to connect the finding of the bones with the disappearance 26 years ago of Miss Maude Belle Bonstedt, daughter of a Kansas city physician.

URSULA BRODERICK SENTENCED

Convicted Slayer of Stepmother Out on $10,000 Bond Pending Appeal.

URSULA BRODERICK, 16 years old, was sentenced by Judge Klenz to the juvenile court today, in accordance with the verdict of a jury which fixed her punishment at 10 years in the penitentiary for shooting and killing her stepmother, Joseph Woodlock.

After sentence was pronounced she filed notice of an appeal, and the court gave her 90 days in which to perfect the appeal. Pending the appeal she was released on $10,000 bond.

BRYAN THINKS WET SENTIMENT IS ALL MOONSHINE.

BUSINESS REASONS NOT ENOUGH TO GET CITIZENSHIP

German Applicant, Who Has Lived in U. S. 25 Years, Turned Down When He Has No Other Reason.

SAM BRANDSTEIN'S PETITION DENIED

Secretary of Chemical Com- pany, Traveling On Swiss Passport, Also Refused Naturalization.

The application for citizenship of Louis Alfred DuBois, secretary of the Monsanto Chemical Co., was dismissed and his declaration of intention to become a citizen annulled today by Judge Paris in United States District Court upon statement of Naturalization Examiner Tobin that DuBois now is traveling in Europe on business under a Swiss passport.

Tobin stated that to obtain the Swiss passport, it was necessary for DuBois to swear allegiance to the Swiss Government, an oath, he said, which was incompatible with his application to become a citizen of the United States.

The examiner further stated that DuBois had gone to Switzerland from St. Louis in 1914 and had joined the Swiss army. He returned, Tobin said, and in December, 1914, made declaration of his intention to become a citizen of the United States. His second return to Switzerland was after the close of the war, Tobin said.

German Also Refused.

The application of Louis Reinhard Eppler, 1122 McLaren avenue, president of the Eppler-Meyer Lumber Co., a German, was denied after he had stated that he had made it "for business reasons." It was shown that Eppler came to the United States in July, 1895, and did not make declaration of your intention before the Naturalization court Feb. 8, 1917.

"How is it that you were in this country nearly 25 years without making declaration of your intention to become a citizen?" Tobin inquired.

"I was too busy," Eppler replied. "Why do you make application at this time?" Tobin asked.

"For business reasons," Eppler answered.

"No other reason?" Tobin inquired.

"Yes," Eppler said, "I want to become a citizen."

Turning to Judge Paris, Tobin said: "I don't think this applicant's reason for his desire for citizenship are sufficient."

"I agree with you," Judge Paris replied. To Eppler, the judge said: "A man who has been in this country for 25 years should have a good reason for becoming a citizen other than business expediency. I deny your application."

Sam Bronstein Turned Down.

Shmelki Bronstein, who is known as Sam Bronstein, a money lender, also was denied citizenship after he had admitted that he had paid a fine of $100 on a charge of usury in 1910. A similar application by Bronstein in 1918 was rejected by the Chief Naturalization Examiner when Bronstein made known his arrest and conviction for usury.

Bronstein has an office in the Central National Bank Building and resides at 715 Locust street. In response to a question, Bronstein stated his occupation as "manufacturer and discounter of commercial paper."

Tobin inquired if "discounter of commercial paper" did not mean money lender. Bronstein admitted that it did.

"Have you charged usurious rates since your arrest in 1910?" Tobin asked. Bronstein shook his head negatively.

"I want to know whether you are willing to state here that you have charged no usurious rates since 1910," Tobin insisted. Bronstein replied that he had charged no usurious rates.

His character witnesses, Collector of Internal Revenue Moore and Joseph McAluff, managing editor of the Globe-Democrat, were not called. Tobin asked the judge to deny Bronstein citizenship as soon as he had admitted the conviction for usury.

ABSENCE OF PROHIBITION PLANK SATISFACTORY TO CANDIDATES' MANAGERS

Bryan Only Real Force in the Convention Making a Determined Stand for Ex- pression in Platform.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—By implicit but not explicit action the Democratic national convention is moist or dry on the prohibition question—just as you please. The Platform Committee wrangled all night and finally decided to omit any reference to prohibition.

Since the wets were unable to get an affirmative statement, they preferred omission of a dry plank. The Anti-Saloon League itself, regarding the constitutional amendment, was not in favor of either the Republican or Democratic convention.

Everybody, therefore, is satisfied to let the matter rest except William Jennings Bryan, who worked until the early hours of the morning on a minority report which is to include his dry plank. This he proposed to carry to the floor in the hope that the dry delegates would not dare vote against it. But this convention is anxious to get to balloting and will support the majority report of the Platform Committee.

Wets' Attitude on Plank.

A turnaround of Bryan would be welcome to wets because it would help give the impression that the Democrats in convention assembled refused to go bone dry, but left it to individual states and individual candidates for Federal and state offices to say that modifications in existing law they favored. One part of the country now can vote wet and another dry without embarrassment to the presidential and vice presidential nominees.

The delegates were elated by the omission of the plank on the prohibition question. They have been telling the delegates from wet states that, with Cox on the ticket, Cox himself would be the platform. His inclinations toward the wet side of the argument have been held forth to Easterners as the commanding reason for his selection.

Of course, the absence of a prohibition plank helps both Palmer and McAdoo, for each is a pronounced dry, and could not have run on a wet platform. The supporters of Palmer, Cox and McAdoo all had more to gain by the action taken by the Resolutions Committee in leaving the prohibition plank out of the platform than by trying to write a compromise that might prove embarrassing to each. The pressure came from the leading candidates, but from the wet states, like Illinois, New York, New Jersey and Maryland.

Wets Always in Minority.

None of these States cared much about the leading candidates or the effect of the prohibition plank on their respective chances. Those who sought a wet plank were therefore always in the minority. Senator Glass, chairman of the Platform Committee, there has been a plethora of speech-making—two days of it. So, as soon as Bryan is disposed of, the balloting will begin. The leaders are still undecided as to whether to support the majority report and adjourn or to keep on balloting throughout the night until a nomination is made.

WOMEN CANNOT SERVE AS POLL OFFICIALS

Election Commissioners Rule Judges and Clerks Must Be Men.

The Board of Election Commissioners today decided that women cannot serve as judges and clerks at elections, even though they be qualified to vote for President. The reason for this ruling is that section 619 of the Revised Statutes of Missouri says that election judges and clerks "must be men of good reputation and character."

Mrs. Hecker's letter said the league construed the word "men" literally and not as a generic term applicable to all members of the human species. The vote was taken after Mrs. Eugene A. Hecker, executive secretary of the League of Women Voters, had written to Miss Emma Bobb, assistant secretary of the Board of Election Commissioners, asking her to lay the question before the board.

Mrs. Hecker's letter said the league was anxious that women be given an opportunity to serve as election officials and that the league had been told "on reliable legal authority" that the law permits the appointment of women as judges and clerks at the primary elections and at the registration in September.

FRAZIER RENOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR OF NORTH DAKOTA

Gronna Leads Non-Partisan League Candidate for U. S. Senate in 738 Out of 2064 Precincts.

By the Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., July 2.—With the gubernatorial contest virtually conceded a non-partisan victory, interest in Wednesday's primary election turned today to the contest for the United States senatorial nomination on the Republican ticket.

The early lead established by Senator A. J. Gronna was dwindling somewhat at noon, his total in 738 out of 2064 precincts in the State being 20,822 as against 18,724 polled by Dr. E. R. Ladd, the League candidate.

Predictions today by the Fargo Forum which has supported the candidacy of William Langer for Governor, placed the estimated majority of Gov. Lynn J. Frazier, the League choice, at from 5000 to 7500.

SENATOR ROBINSON AND CLERK 'MIX' WITH FISTS

Chairman Loses Temper When He Is Asked What Candi- date He Is For.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Senator Robinson, permanent chairman of the Democratic national convention, Wednesday called at the rooms of the National Committee to ask for 25 tickets. A clerk named Schwartz was in charge.

"Who are you supporting?" the clerk is declared to have asked. "My knowledge and belief," Robinson answered, "is that you are supporting who they are with."

Robinson's answer was to punch the clerk heartily. Later, Attorney General Palmer was called in and the matter was explained to him. Schwartz admitting that he had told Robinson he could not have tickets unless he told where he stood.

TWO INDICTED FOR SELLING STOCK IN MISSOURI LEAD MINE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Joseph A. Herron, president of the Southwest Zinc, Lead and Mining Co., and Fred W. Sanghorth, a broker, were indicted here today on charges of promoting an alleged fraudulent mining company. Both were admitted to bets to anybody without asking who they are with.

Robinson expressed regret at having lost his temper. Insisting, however, that in his country a question of that sort was nothing short of an insult.

This was the view taken of the matter by others, and Robinson was at last night's session, although the convention hall was packed, more than 5000 people with properly issued tickets could not get in. How their places came to be filled by others was not explained.

Sidelights on the Big Show in San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Vice President Marshall today found a 5-cent cigar in a restaurant near the convention hall so good that he thinks the millennium is at hand—other than having hardening of the arteries, the cigar is passing fair.

Secretary Joe Daniels is not worrying about crowded housing conditions here. He is sleeping on a battleship out in the bay. Secretary Colby, leading the wet fight, is stopping in town but he finds himself more at sea than Joe who is just looking on.

While the Resolutions Committee was drafting a highly moral platform, a colored janitor in an adjoining room dropped $75 in a craps game.

Hal Flood and his red buttonhole bougie so impressed the California delegation that it presented him with a bouquet of red flowers that a horse could not eat in a day.

Gov. Smith of New York admits that he did not hear any of the demonstration for him yesterday. He was very comfortable in a nearby damp and friendly atmosphere at the time, however.

Senator Dubois is out strongly for the overall movement. In a mad rush to get here he failed to transfer the family trunk from rail to steamship at Portland, with the result that he and Mrs. Dubois are here traveling very light.

When it was announced from the platform today that everybody could ride free this week on the municipal railway, the taxi bandits in the lobby reeled.

Junior and special officers had to drive delegates from the hall after the early adjournment. Feet are getting very tired and delegates do not like to be set walking again once they set down.

AMERICAN DESTROYER SENT AFTER MISSING MISSIONARIES

Turkish Hostages Held Pending Release of Mr. and Mrs. Nilson of Illinois.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—In a concerted effort to bring about the release of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nilson of Illinois, missionaries, who are held by Turkish Nationalists, an American destroyer has been dispatched to Mersina, and the French authorities are holding Turkish hostages, Admiral Bristol, at Constantinople, reported today to the State Department.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 2.—A dispatch from Mersina under date of June 30 reiterates that Paul Nilson and his wife, American missionaries, who recently were captured by Turkish bandits, were taken to Silevik from Tarsus, Asia Minor, but the Turkish officials here deny any knowledge of the whereabouts of the missionaries. The American destroyer Parker has sent an airplane to Tarsus and Adana, demanding the release of Mr. and Mrs. Nilson. Officials here believe that Gen. Sinan Pasha and other Turkish officials know the whereabouts of the missing missionaries.

BERLIN, July 2.—Charles Laurent, French Ambassador to Germany, presented his credentials to President Ebert today. He declared he would do his utmost to bring about the economic rehabilitation of Germany and would assist in carrying out the Versailles treaty, but stated the Berlin Government must help him in accomplishing his mission.

Before leaving the presidential office, Mr. Laurent conversed cordially with Herr Ebert for 20 minutes.

THOUSANDS OF HARVESTERS IDLE

KANSAS CITY, July 2.—Promises of 10 cents an hour for harvest field labor, which dwindled to 50 cents an hour when the wheat cutting started in Kansas and Oklahoma and now has dropped to 40 and 45 cents, attracted thousands of prospective harvesters, who now are stranded in the wheat belt without funds and with little or no possibility of obtaining sufficient work to earn money to return to their homes.

This situation yesterday was called to the attention of Labor Bureau and American Legion officials by war veterans. It is estimated there are more than 2000 idle men in Kansas City who came here on the way to the wheat belt.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—The battle of the wets and drys got under way in the Democratic national convention this afternoon after the platform had been read without making mention of a prohibition plank and William J. Bryan was recognized to offer a bone-dry plank as a minority report.

Bryan presented his own five planks and a prohibition plank by former Congressman Hobson, and then W. Bourke Cochran of New York presented a substitute for Bryan's prohibition plank, and declared that since Bryan had presented the question of prohibition, "thank heaven, the convention can no longer dodge it."

reading and paused many times to wipe the perspiration from his face. "It's a hot job," he remarked, just after he had read the agricultural plank.

"It's a hot platform," shouted a delegate, and there was a ripple of laughter and cheers. So far the convention was going smoothly enough.

One of the biggest demonstrations was given the suffrage plank, calling on the Legislatures of three Southern States to ratify the suffrage amendment. Led by the women delegates, virtually everyone on the convention floor got to their feet and cheered, while the standards of Tennessee, Florida and North Carolina, the three states specifically named in the appeal for ratification, were carried to the speaker's stand and held high up before the delegates.

Soon nearly every other standard was brought up and put into the cluster, while the band played "Oh, You Beautiful Doll."

There was a disagreement over both the New Jersey and Louisiana standards, but after a little shoving and tussling, both of them were carried out of place and put with the others up in front.

Mrs. John Sherwin Crosby of New York got the Louisiana standard started forward over the protest of some of the Louisiana delegates, but after she had carried it a little way a man took it and put it into place with the big assemblage around the platform.

15-Minute Demonstration.

A parade in which practically all of the standards joined was organized when the demonstration had been going for five minutes. The marchers tramped around the hall to the tune of "There'll Be a Life Time in the Old Town Tonight," and then the organ dropped into "Smiles" and most of those on the floor took up the words of the song.

It was a 15-minute demonstration when it had concluded, but the suffrage leaders declined to regard it as a bad omen.

Missouri was one of the first states to join in the suffrage demonstration and parade. Judge John A. Farrington, of the Springfield Court of Appeals, carried the Missouri standard.

When order had been restored, Senator Glass again took up the reading. There was some more cheering.

PLATFORM COMMITTEE'S FINAL REPORT SILENT AS TO THE LIQUOR QUESTION

All Planks Favoring Wet or Dry Indorsement Are Defeated by Vote of 30 to 12—All Other Planks Agreed Upon.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—The Platform Committee of the Democratic national convention completed its labors at 12:15 this morning with the decisive defeat of both wet and dry planks. The committee draft of the platform which will be submitted to the convention, contains no mention of the prohibition enforcement issue.

After the committee voted, 30 to 12, against all planks offered which attempted to write a declaration in regard to enforcement of the Volstead act, William J. Bryan, field marshal of the dry adherents, announced that he would carry his fight for a bone-dry declaration to the convention floor.

Bryan further stated that he had amendments to offer to the platform as adopted by the Resolutions Committee, affecting other matters. He did not state what planks he would attempt to alter on the floor, saying: "I did not feel it liberty to disclose," his plans, as the committee draft of the platform had not been made public.

Subjects Beer and Light Wines. Shortly after 11 o'clock the Platform Committee voted 39 to 11 to reject a light wine and beer plank. Bryan had not talked on his bone-dry plank up to that time. The action narrowed the fight down to two points, whether the platform would contain a provision for rigid enforcement or remain silent entirely on the prohibition question.

The subcommittee's plank on Armenia was rejected by the full committee. The plank is understood to have declared that the United States should consider it a duty to see that complete independence and order was guaranteed to the new Armenian republic.

Prospects of a convention floor fight on the League of Nations diminished when it became known that some of the administration supporters were willing to accept without further opposition the reservations proposed in the league plank by the Resolutions Committee.

This proviso, proposed by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts and endorsed by the committee, declares that the party does not oppose any reservations which may be deemed necessary to clarify the nation's obligations to its associates in the league. It follows that the plank, as amended, is a declaration that ratification is favored without reservations impairing the essential integrity of the covenant.

None of the administration spokesmen on the ground would make a public statement of their views, but it was learned that they were inclined to regard the modified language of the plank as acceptable. Chairman Cummings of the National Committee said that so far as he knew no word had been received on the subject from President Wilson.

JENKINS REFUSES TO EXHIBIT COX LETTER

Admits Having One, Written About Ohio Governor by Cincinnati U. Head.

By Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—The Rev. Dr. Burris Jenkins of Kansas City, who placed W. G. McAdoo in nomination before the Democratic national convention, was accused by Ohio delegates with circulating scandal about Gov. Cox of Ohio. E. Goddard, secretary of the Democratic State Committee of Ohio, said he saw Jenkins whispering to delegates and talking of candidates to Jenkins who, he said, told him that he had a letter from Charles W. Dabner, president of Cincinnati University, which revealed Cox as an "impossible candidate."

Goddard called on former Gov. Campbell of Ohio and related the circumstances. Campbell afterward said he told Jenkins that any letter from anybody questioning Cox's private life was a lie and demanded that Jenkins read the letter from the floor to give the Cox supporters an opportunity to answer it. Jenkins refused to do so, and would say nothing more about it.

Jenkins told a Post-Dispatch correspondent he had the letter, but refused to exhibit it.

He said Goddard was the only delegate to whom he had talked about the letter and that he had not attempted to use it against Cox.

applicant would seek permission to change it. At the conclusion of the morning hearing Xenodemetropolis came forward and demanded to know why his name had not been called. He was told that the examiner had called it.

"I did not recognize it," he said. After citizenship had been granted the applicant was given permission to change his name to Gust Danon. Maer Landau, a Russian, residing at 4533 Chouteau avenue, after stating that he was married and had several children, was asked if he believed in polygamy. He replied: "No, sir; one is enough."

Applications of 25 will be opposed by Naturalization Examiner Tobin on the ground that the applicants avoided military service during the war by claiming exemptions as aliens, despite the fact they previously had declared their intention to become citizens. Those to be opposed are natives of Germany, Austria, Hungary and Russia. Baltrus Stalskakis, 3636 Finney avenue, a tailor, was denied citizenship when Investigator McLaughlin of the Department of Justice testified that the applicant was an organizer for the I. W. W., and had been active in other radical organizations. Stalskakis, who was an honorably discharged soldier, was not present.

BRYAN PRESENTS HIS BONE-DRY PLANKS TO THE CONVENTION

Within a few minutes later when Senator Glass, at the end of the long list of things the party proposed to do for women, said, in another aside, to those near the platform:

"If we have omitted anything, we mean that, too."

Chairman Glass read the Mexican plank to some applause and, when he came to the Irish plank there was a preliminary demonstration by the Irish sympathizers among the delegates and in the galleries.

"I'll have to read it in my own tongue," said Chairman Glass to the accompaniment of a roar of applause and cheers.

When the applause did die down he added:

"My American brogue."

There was another wave of applause to that.

The plank, merely expressing sympathy for the aspirations of Ireland for self-government, made no mention of recognition of the Irish republic and was read and passed without any great demonstration of approval or disapproval.

Shouts of "Okeh" and "good" answered the reading of the plank on Armenia.

Then, when Chairman Glass struck some of the routine planks, he read them over like a congressional reading clerk disposing of a President's message three lines at a time. The audience caught the humor of the burst of speed and returned with shouts of "go to it" and "more speed" as the chairman tumbled the sentences over one another.

The reading of the platform was completed at 12:47, 2:47 p. m. St. Louis time, two hours and seven minutes after it began. At the concluding words the band started up again and the delegates stood and applauded with a crash of applause.

Then there were more cries of "Bryan" and clamor for the fight over the adoption to begin. Senator Glass moved that the platform be adopted as read, and Bryan bounced out of his chair on the platform to begin his fight for his minority planks. He was greeted with a minute of cheering in which very few delegates took prominent part. Opening his speech diplomatically, with praise for the platform, he declared it one of the strongest ever adopted by a political party.

He added that whatever differences of opinion there had been in the Platform Committee had been over the means and not the end to be accomplished, but it was one of the prerogatives of a Democrat to speak his own views.

"I am glad to come to you and say that I am ready to indorse almost all that is written there," he continued, and an uproar of approval and disapproval interrupted him.

"Make it all, make it all," yelled several of the delegates.

Under the rules, Bryan was required to read all of his proposed planks before the discussion of any of them could begin. The bone-dry proposition he presented first and then followed the declarations he had drafted for publication of a Government bulletin, for dealing with profiteers, and to put the party on record as opposing compulsory military training in times of peace. When he came to the last of his five planks, which dealt with the League of Nations, Bryan prefaced its reading by saying that nothing contained in it was intended to conflict with majority platform's words of praise for the President.

MRS. FRANK B. LUCAS, DAUGHTER OF THE VIRGINIA DELEGATION.

The peace treaty, he added, was "better than any one had a right to expect" considering the circumstances, and he said the party proposed to read a half hour before the hour set for convening its harmony surged out into an almost empty auditorium.

For a while the organist confined himself to opera, but as the crowd began to gather a suggestion that a livelier air and got some of the early arrivals singing and whistling. There seemed to be a holiday spirit in the galleries as they looked forward to a real show.

The hour of 10 came and went with hardly a handful of delegates on the floor and with great emptiness in the galleries. Only a few of the big leaders had come in.

Bryan came to the convention hall prepared to offer five planks as minority reports.

Behind the scenes, the trouble that was brewing behind the scenes, the delegates themselves seemed good-natured as they gathered on the convention floor. They filed in joking and laughing as they asked one another what the fireworks were going to be like. Meantime the band, the organ and a women's trio joined in "Smiles."

Ten fifteen saw most of the delegates assembled, but on the platform there was not a sign of the convention officials. They stayed in the background working out details of procedure with the opposing leaders.

The music kept up, but the crowd manifestly was fast losing interest in it and kept up a rumble of speculation about the coming fight.

MRS. J. D. MAHONEY, DAUGHTER OF GOVERNOR COX OF OHIO.

The band quieted it by striking up "Over There."

Apparently the plan of procedure had not yet been completed, and Senator Robinson and the others on the platform gathered in a little circle and put their heads together, while the impatience of the delegates gathered in the hall broke out again in loud demands for action.

12 CASES OF LIQUOR STOLEN FROM JAMES E. NEWELL'S HOME

Burglars Remove Private Stock, Valued at $3600, While Owner Sleeps.

Burglars took 12 cases of liquor, constituting the private stock of James E. Newell, president of the Newell Motor Car Co., and his son-in-law, Dr. H. S. McKay, from the basement of the Newell home, 3826 Casselman avenue, early today.

Newell and Dr. McKay were sleeping on the second floor of the house last night, other members of the family being away. They heard no noise, although from the amount of goods taken it would seem that the thieves must have used a conveyance of some sort.

The burglars entered the basement by a rear window, and, breaking a padlock, took nine cases of Old Stone whiskey, one case of cognac brandy, one case of cocktails and one case of Steinwender green label whiskey. The owners valued it at $3600.

M'ADOO STILL FAVORITE, ALTHOUGH OPPONENTS ARE SIZING UP DARK HORSES

Ambassador John W. Davis Is Second Choice and Receives More Attention Than Marshall, Colby, Cummings or Smith.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Political forecasters continue to be divided into two schools of thought, those who believe that the McAdoo drive will succeed and those who believe that it will be stopped. There is apparently no change in the standing of the candidates.

As the time for a showdown draw near, it becomes increasingly difficult to separate the wheat of genuine information from chaff of propaganda that flies thick in the hotel lobbies.

It is part of the game of each side to maintain a bold front and belittle the strength of the other. The McAdoo people predict that their man will be nominated on an early ballot, while the anti-McAdoo coalition assert with equal show of confidence that they have nailed down 450 votes against McAdoo. No opportunity is lost to get across the idea that the great weakness of the coalition is that it has found no candidate on whom the various elements against McAdoo can unite.

Cox may be the beneficiary of the anti-McAdoo drive, but he has not yet been so designated by the leaders. Palmer appears to be prevalent feeling that he couldn't be elected. The claims of Champ Clark have been canvassed by the anti-McAdoo leaders along with those of the other dark horses. Clark remains only a remote possibility. It is recalled that Clark, one of the speeches said that "so far as Missourians are concerned there is precious little difference between a conscript and a convict"—a sentiment that was not well received.

The McAdoo boomers still hope that Cox will be the second man on the ticket. Ed Moore, the Cox manager, last night exhibited a telegram from the Governor, saying that, under no circumstances would he take the vice presidential nomination. In the McAdoo camp the attitude of Cox was approved as a proper one so long as he is a serious contender for first place on the ticket, but it was said that as soon as he is eliminated, an effort will be made over the long distance telephone to get the Governor to change his mind.

Those who believe that McAdoo can't be stopped point out that Cox can't be counted on to hold the coalition. Pennsylvania's 76 votes are counted in the total of 450 said to be pledged against McAdoo, but in the opinion of men who profess to know the inner workings of the Pennsylvania delegation, a large number of the delegates are "honing" to go to McAdoo.

It is pointed out that Maryland too, is counted in the rock-ribbed anti-McAdoo column, but there is reason to believe that some of that delegation will climb aboard a McAdoo band wagon.

Factor of the Women. One present element of strength in the McAdoo campaign—its aloofness from the candidate himself—may in the end prove a weakness. For, after the balloting in a convention passes out of the initial stages, the result is apt to be determined by dicker and trade. And so far as known, there is no manager here who is authorized to make any promises for McAdoo. The McAdoo hope is that the sentiment for him will be strong enough to produce a landslide.

List of Nominations Completed at Yesterday's Session.

It was a disappointed lot of delegates and spectators that filed out of the auditorium last night after waiting two hours and a half for something to happen. They had come for a fight and they got only oratory and music. Somebody called it amateur night. The object of the convention, to get the platform adopted, has been accomplished. The platform was adopted, but the platform committee was wrestling with the wet-and-dry issue, and was not ready to report.

Part of the time was taken up with a roll call of the names to receive their announcements of the election of National Committee members and Committeewomen. The pipe organ, an important accessory to this convention, served the crowd with a succession of old-time airs. Previous meetings had showed that this gathering prefers the old songs to the new.

"After the Ball is Over" was sung with a swing, and "The Sidewalks of New York" again made a hit. "How Dry I Am" got a big hand, as always.

Mrs. George Bass of Illinois filled in with a speech lapping the Republican party for its "duplicitly" in connection with the surcharge against the McAdoo drive. Bryan, Chairman Robinson announced that Bryan was busy in the Resolutions Committee and could not appear, whereas there were yells of "Hoo-rah!"

Finally the chairman said that the Resolutions Committee would not have its report ready till morning, and adjournment was taken till 10 o'clock.

Women as Orators. Women outshone the men as orators in the brief first session held by the convention yesterday to catch the overflow of nominating and seconding speeches.

The great weakness of the coalition is that it has found no candidate on whom the various elements against McAdoo can unite.

It is impossible to tell how the voting will go, for much will depend in this convention on the mood of the moment as well as on the schemes that may be hatched "at 2:13 in the morning in a hotel room," but the logic of the situation just at present gives McAdoo the edge over his opponents.

Cobb Unable to Locate an Enemy to Old Glory at This or Any Convention

Orators Everywhere Seem to Be United in Praise of Flag, Motherhood and Glorious Sunsets.

BY IRVIN S. COBB.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Any one desiring to know how your correspondent was impressed by Thursday's feast of oratory is respectfully invited to read my dispatch of yesterday all over again, thereby saving labor for both of us.

The setting was the same. The environment was the same. The emotional effect created upon the mind of the unbiased ear-witness was the same. The oratory was of the same familiar convention brand, abounding in kind words for motherhood and for the flag and for sunsets and for the constitution and for all the other things which are being heartily indorsed this week at San Francisco just as they were heartily indorsed at Chicago. After a careful survey of the situation, I am able to report that, to the best of my information and belief, the American flag hadn't an enemy in the Republican national convention and hasn't one in the Democratic national convention either. This must, indeed, be very gratifying to the flag, not to mention Mr. George Cohan, the late Betsy Ross and any other persons who may have had a hand personally in bringing this popular issue before our people.

Candidates Come and Go.
The bright star of this candidate or that rises and falls. In the realm of national politics the bright, yet feeble sunlight of popular favor, rests for a space upon this or that favorite son, only an hour later to leave him groping in the black eclipse of forgotten things along with all the rest of the punctured balloons and the bursted tin idols. But this much, without fear of successful contradiction, I will say. Never in any convention of any party in this country will the American flag hear a harsh word spoken about it. We may straddle on the League of Nations, that immortal issue which, it seems, has been thundering down through all these centuries, only none of us heard anything about it, until here a few months ago, when we compromised on the prohibition issue, by the simple expedient of altogether leaving out wet planks and dry planks, and while bitterly deploring delirious tremors of the same kind, we heartily commend the raisin and the yeast cake to the attention of the voters at large. We may pause in passing to drop a few of the blossoms of fond remembrance upon the graves of states rights and free trade, or then again we may not do so. But one thing no insidious influence, no malignant secret force may prevail upon us to do, we positively will not throw down the American flag. And that goes also for the convention of the third party outfit that Mr. Hearst is now organizing, he having already obtained his own consent to be personally present and being now busily engaged in trying to get the following of Senator Reed of Missouri to come, too. I hear that a wire has been received stating that Senator Reed's following will probably attend and may bring his wife along.

Well, anyway, yesterday we concluded one tiresome but necessary phase of the convention by putting in nomination a few more hitherto anonymous candidates who accidentally got mislaid in the discard on Wednesday and then the Resolutions Committee proceeded to enrich history. History has my most sincere sympathy. When you have one of the faction trying to bore bungleholes in the platform and another faction trying to caulk it with moisture-proof declarations, when you hear Mr. Bryan endeavoring to demonstrate that those who live in glass houses should take out liability insurance, when you hit the spectacle of Gov. Cox endeavoring to walk straddles and a fashionably to keep one foot dry and the other foot wet, when all the while little boomlets are scuttling about under one's feet like cockroaches, history is due for an awfully hard afternoon and evening.

Snap and Go Features.
The convention abounds in picturesque, and in vocal enthusiasm which the Republican convention did not. It would seem that the fewer colored delegates a convention boasts the more real color it has. Both in the hall and on the outside little things are constantly occurring to give snap and go to the incidental features. For instance, a Brooklyn leader came, last night, intending to be of play-by-play fact the only three seconding speeches are permitted.

So she asked if she made the speech for Ambassador John W. Davis. No objection being made, she delivered the speech, substituting the name of Davis where she had originally written Palmer.

Republican National Committeeman, E. L. Morse, Nat Goldstein, Robert E. Moore and nearly every delegate in the hall, were reported to be in the hall, and the expenditure of money in the pre-convention presidential campaigns in Missouri have been suspended to make complete statements.

Reed said he had nothing to do with the issuance of a subpoena for Mrs. Babler. "It is the theory of the law that the confidences between a man and his wife shall remain confidences," he said, "and I for one am in favor of having a committee listen to Mrs. Babler tell anything her husband told her before they separated."

There was little of interest in the Missouri delegation yesterday, though for a time last night it seemed that Michael Whalen, a delegate from St. Louis, would protest to the convention against the election of Edward F. Goltz for National Committeeman from Missouri.

Goltz heard about the opposition, which was expected to develop when the names of the National Committeemen from all states were reported to the convention, and hurried to the convention hall, where he conferred with several delegates. Joseph B. Shannon, vice-chairman of the delegation, told Whalen that, if a protest was entered, he would explain to the convention that the opposition grew out of Goltz's activity for Attorney-General Palmer and that some members of the delegation believed he had been perniciously active.

Whalen decided, however, that opposition to Goltz would be useless, as he had been elected by the State convention at Joplin, and he did not make the protest.

State Senator Kinney of St. Louis and other members of the delegation were prepared to back up the protest.

"Goltz never would have been re-elected," Kinney said, "if it had not been for the opposition of Democrats over the State to Senator Reed. Through Joseph T. Davis of St. Louis and Luther Wilson of Nevada, he capitalized the opposition to Reed and made it appear that his re-election meant repudiation of Reed."

Official Photograph of the Opening of the Democratic National Convention

This photograph was made by Lethers & Young, San Francisco photographers, as soon as the convention came to order last Monday afternoon and the print for this reproduction was transported by army airplane from San Francisco to Reno, Nev., and there put aboard a mail train a few hours later for delivery in St. Louis. The airplane was furnished by the army recruiting office in San Francisco. In this way, readers of the Post-Dispatch see this picture 24 hours earlier than if it had come by train all the way.

WILSON CONTROLS THE NOMINATION COMMONER SAYS

No One Can Be Chosen Without Executive's Approval, He Says, Drawing a Comparison to Penrose.

By William Jennings Bryan.
(Copyright, 1920, by W. J. Bryan.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—The rule adopted by the Committee on Resolutions forbids the reporting of anything done in the committee until the platform is ready for the convention. As I am a member of the committee I cannot say anything from which conclusions may be drawn. As it is impossible to know when the committee will be able to report and impossible to do any writing between the conclusion of the committee's work and the action of the convention, I am compelled to turn from the subject in which we feel the deepest interest to a subject of secondary importance, viz., the ticket.

The personal element is very much overestimated. Supporters of a candidate become so infatuated with the idea that everything depends upon his nomination and we are told "Ad goes Podunk so goes the nation and so goes Podunk." This is especially true of the pivotal states. States like New York and Indiana and more recently Ohio have claimed to hold the elections in their hands. Indiana has had the vice presidency from the time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, and the New York delegation takes the Democratic party upon the mountains and offers it the earth every four years.

"Pivotal State" Fallacy.
Just now Ohio poses as a pivotal State, but it does not take much to make a pivotal state out of any commonwealth that has a candidate. Since the presidential election four years ago turned on a few votes in California, it's a poor state that cannot prove to its own satisfaction that its electoral vote may determine the presidential contest and, therefore, "nominate our man and save the party."

One thing is apparent: no one can be nominated without the approval of the President.

Palmer seems to be slipping, and this convention which is so unwilling, if we can judge by its leadership, to admit that any man has been elected during the past eight years does not seem to be rallying to the support of Palmer.

The Cox boom seems to have spent its force. The Governor of Ohio does not mean things worthy of commendation; speaking politically, he does not quite be said of him, as often the rich young man, that he "killed" youth, but he certainly does "kill" one thing, and that is loyalty to the home in its death grapple with the saloon. A man who can take oath to support the Constitution of his State and his country in the capitol and without protest lift a hand to prevent it, watch the brewers, the distillers and liquor dealers (temporarily out of business, but hoping their return will overthrow everything that the temperance forces of Ohio have accomplished in 50 years—such a man is not the man to put in the White House as such, certainly does "kill" one thing, and that is loyalty to the home in its death grapple with the saloon. TEXT OF DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM AS SUBMITTED TO NATIONAL CONVENTION

REPUBLICAN CONGRESS AND PARTY SHARPLY INDICTED THROUGHOUT DOCUMENT

Failure to Enact Tax Revision Measures Declared to Be Due to "Sheer Political Cowardice."

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Trained after days and nights of struggle with shifting interests and opinions, the Resolutions Committee draft of the platform was laid before the Democratic national convention today for adoption.

A wide range of subjects was treated, including agriculture, labor, soldier relief and a score more domestic questions. The preamble was brief. It was confined to a tribute to the leadership of President "Wilson."

Foremost among the planks came endorsement of the League of Nations and condemnation of the Republican Senate for having refused to ratify the League. The President's stand against "reservations" was applauded, but coupled with this declaration went the statement, written in after a prolonged committee struggle, that the Democratic party did not oppose "reservations" making clearer or more specific the obligations of the United States to the League associates.

Accompanying this was an assertion that the President had repeatedly declared and the convention now reaffirmed that American obligations as a League member "must be fulfilled in strict conformity with the Constitution of the United States."

On one point throughout the platform committee apparently were in full accord. It sharply indicted the Republican Congress and the Republican party on many counts, including a warning of an impending assault upon "vital principles" of the Federal Reserve system. In the event of a Republican victory in November, the financial plank condemned "the serious attempt of the Republican party to create discontent among the holders of the bonds of the Government."

Text of Platform.

Preamble.

The Democratic party, now in convention assembled, sends greetings to the President of the United States, Woodrow Wilson, and hails with patriotic pride the great achievements for country and world which he has achieved under his leadership. It salutes the mighty people of this great republic, emerging with invincible honor, from the severe trials and greatest strains of the world's tragic war in history, having earned the plaudits and the gratitude of all free nations.

It declares its adherence to the fundamental principles of social, economic and industrial justice and advancement, and proposes to resume the great work of consolidating these principles into effective laws, begun and carried far by the Democratic administration and interrupted only when the war claimed all the national energies for the single task of victory.

League of Nations.

The Democratic party favors the League of Nations as the surest, if not the only practicable means of maintaining the permanent peace of the world and terminating the insupportable burden of great military and naval establishments. It was for this that America broke away from traditionalism and spent her blood and treasure to crush a colossal scheme of conquest. It was for this that the President of the United States, in prearrangement with our allies, consented to a suspension of hostilities against the Imperial German Government. The armistice was granted and a treaty of peace negotiated upon the definite assurance to Germany, as well as to the Powers pitted against Germany, that "a general arbitration of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike."

Hence we not only congratulate the President on the vision manifested and the vigor exhibited in the prosecution of the war; but we felicitate him and his associates on the brilliant administrative success achieved under the broad visioned leadership of the President.

We commend the President for his courage and his high conception of good faith in steadfastly standing for the covenant agreed by all the associated allied nations at the peace conference with Germany and we condemn the Republican Senate for its refusal to ratify the treaty merely because it was the product of Democratic statesmanship thus interposing partisan envy and personal hatred in the way of the peace and renewed prosperity of the world.

To every accepted standard of international morality, the President is justified in asserting that the honor of the country is involved in this business, and we point to the accusing fact that, because it was a Democratic Statesman, the President was prevented from initiating the industrial progress of the American people and caused inestimable loss and distress.

Relations Committee himself publicly proclaimed that any proposition for a separate peace with Germany, such as he and his party associates thereafter reported to the Senate, would make us "guilty of the blackest crime."

On May 15 last the Knox substitute for the Versailles treaty was passed by the Republican Senate; and this convention can contrive no more fitting characterization of its obliquity than that made in the Forum Magazine of December, 1918, by Henry Cabot Lodge, when he said: "If we send our armies and young men abroad to be killed and wounded in Northern France and Flanders, with no result but this, our entrance into war with such an intention was a crime which nothing can justify."

The intent of Congress and the intent of the President was that there could be no peace until we could create a situation where no such war as this could recur. We cannot make peace except in company with our allies. It would brand us with everlasting dishonor and bring ruin to us also if we undertook to make a separate peace.

Thus to that which Mr. Lodge, in saner moments, considered the "blackest crime," he and his party in madness sought to give the sanction of law; that which 18 months ago was in "everlasting dishonor" the Republican party and its candidates today accept as the essence of faith. We commend the Democrats in Congress for voting against resolutions for separate peace which would disgrace the nation. We advocate the immediate ratification of the treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity, but do not oppose the acceptance of any reservations making clearer or more specific the obligations of the United States to the League associates. Only by doing this may we retrieve the reputation of this nation among the Powers of the earth and recover the moral leadership which President Wilson won and which Republican politicians at Washington sacrificed.

Only by doing this may we hope to aid effectively in the restoration of order throughout the world and to take the place which we should assume in the world of commerce and industry. We condemn the attempt of the Republican party to deprive the American people of their right to the peace and prosperity of the world. We condemn the attempt of the Republican party to create discontent among the holders of the bonds of the Government and to drag our public finance and currency into the arena of party politics.

Tax Revision.

We condemn the failure of the President to resist the off-repeated demand of the President and the Secretaries of the Treasury to revise the existing tax laws. The continuance in force in the time of peace of taxes devised and levied for the purpose of producing a revenue for war purposes is indefensible and can only result in lasting injury to the people. The failure of the President to resist this demand, through sheer political cowardice, to make a single move toward a readjustment of tax laws which it denounced before the last election and which he refused to revise before the next election.

We advocate tax reform and a searching revision of the war revenue acts to fit peace conditions, so that the wealth of the nation may not be withdrawn from productive enterprise and diverted to wasteful or nonproductive expenditure.

We demand prompt action by the next Congress for a complete survey of the tax system and its modification and simplification, with a view to securing greater equity and justice in tax burden and improvement in administration.

Public Economy.

Claiming to have effected great economies in Government expenditures, the Republican party cannot show the reduction of one dollar in taxation as a corollary of its false pretense. In contrast, the last Democratic Congress enacted legislation reducing taxes from $8,000,000,000 to $6,000,000,000 for the first year after the armistice, and to $4,000,000,000 thereafter; and there the total is left undiminished by our political adversaries. Two years after Armistice day a Republican Congress provides for expending the stupendous sum of $5,408,330,327.30.

Effecting great paper economies by reducing departmental estimates of sums which would not have been expended in any event, and by reducing formal appropriations, the Republican party has succeeded in making a statement of expenditures omits the pregnant fact that Congress authorized the use of $1,500,000,000 in the hands of various departments and bureaus, which otherwise would have been covered into the treasury, and which should be added to the Republican total of expenditures.

High Cost of Living.

The high cost of living and the depreciation of bond values in this country are primarily due to war itself, to the necessary governmental expenditures for the destructive purposes of war, to private extravagance, to the world shortage of capital, to the inflation of foreign currencies and credits and in large degree to the Democratic Statesman in Government.

The Republican party is responsible for the failure to restore peace and peace conditions in Europe, which is a principle cause of post-armistice inflation the world over. It has denied the demand of the President for necessary legislation to deal with secondary and local

By the enactment of the Federal Reserve act the old system, which bred panics, was replaced by a new system which insured confidence. It was an indispensable factor in winning the war and today it is the hope and inspiration of business. Indeed, one vital danger against which the American people should keep constantly on guard is the commitment of this system to partisan enemies who struggled against its adoption and vainly attempted to retain in the hands of speculative bankers a monopoly of the currency and credits of the nation. Already there are well-defined indications of an assault upon the vital principles of the system in the event of Republican success in the elections in November.

Under Democratic leadership the American people successfully resisted their stupendous part in the greatest war of all time. The Treasury wisely insisted during the war upon meeting an adequate portion of the war expenditure from current taxes and the bulk of the balance from popular loans, and, during the first full fiscal year after fighting stopped, upon meeting current expenditures from current resources, notwithstanding the new and unnecessary burdens thrown upon the Treasury by the delay, obstruction and extravagance of a Republican Congress.

The nonpartisan Federal Reserve authorities have been wholly free of political interference or motive; and, in their own time and their own way, have used courageously, though cautiously, the instruments of expansion of credit in the country. As a result of these sound Treasury and Federal Reserve policies, the inevitable war inflation has been held to a minimum, and the cost of living has been prevented from increasing here in proportion to the increase in other belligerent countries and in neutral countries which are in close contact with the world's commerce and exchanges.

After a year and a half of fighting in Europe and despite another year and a half of Republican obstruction, the Government of the United States stands unimpaired, the Federal Reserve note is the unit of value throughout all the world and the United States is the only country in the world which maintains a free gold market.

We condemn the attempt of the Republican party to deprive the American people of their right to the peace and prosperity of the world. We condemn the attempt of the Republican party to create discontent among the holders of the bonds of the Government and to drag our public finance and currency into the arena of party politics.

Conduct of the War.

During the war President Wilson exhibited the very broadest conception of liberal Americanism. In his conduct of the war, as in the general administration of his office, there was no semblance of partisan bias. He invited to Washington as his counselors and coadjutors hundreds of the most prominent and prominent Republicans in the country. To these he committed the responsibilities of the gravest import and most confidential nature. Many of them were of great vitality and vigor, and yet with the war successfully prosecuted and the armistice granted, the Republican party in Congress, far from applauding the masterly leadership of the President, has sought to impeach him by assailing nearly every public officer of every branch of the service intimately concerned in winning the war abroad and preserving the security of the Government at home.

We express to the soldiers and sailors and marines of the country the admiration of their fellow countrymen. Guided by the genius of such commanders as Gen. John J. Pershing, the armed forces of America constituted a decisive factor in the victory and brought new lustre to the flag. We commend the patriotic men and women who by their efforts and their Government in the crucial hours of the war and contributed to the brilliant administrative success achieved under the broad visioned leadership of the President.

Financial Achievements.

A review of the record of the Democratic administration during the administration of Woodrow Wilson presents a chapter of substantial achievements unsurpassed in the history of the republic. For 80 years before the advent of this Democratic administration had impeded the industrial progress of the American people and caused inestimable loss and distress.

The Republican party is responsible for the failure to restore peace and peace conditions in Europe, which is a principle cause of post-armistice inflation the world over. It has denied the demand of the President for necessary legislation to deal with secondary and local

Text of Planks on League of Nations, Ireland and Armenia

Following are the planks on the League of Nations, Ireland and Armenia contained in the Democratic platform:

League of Nations.

The Democratic party favors the League of Nations as the surest, if not the only practicable means of maintaining the permanent peace of the world and terminating the insupportable burden of great military and naval establishments. It was for this that America broke away from traditionalism and spent her blood and treasure to crush a colossal scheme of conquest. It was for this that the President of the United States, in prearrangement with our allies, consented to a suspension of hostilities against the Imperial German Government. The armistice was granted and a treaty of peace negotiated upon the definite assurance to Germany, as well as to the Powers pitted against Germany, that "a general arbitration of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike."

Hence we not only congratulate the President on the vision manifested and the vigor exhibited in the prosecution of the war; but we felicitate him and his associates on the brilliant administrative success achieved under the broad visioned leadership of the President.

We commend the President for his courage and his high conception of good faith in steadfastly standing for the covenant agreed by all the associated allied nations at the peace conference with Germany and we condemn the Republican Senate for its refusal to ratify the treaty merely because it was the product of Democratic statesmanship thus interposing partisan envy and personal hatred in the way of the peace and prosperity of the world.

By every accepted standard of international morality, the President is justified in asserting that the honor of the country is involved in this business, and we point to the accusing fact that, because it was a Democratic Statesman, the President was prevented from initiating the industrial progress of the American people and caused inestimable loss and distress.

The intent of Congress and the intent of the President was that there could be no peace until we could create a situation where no such war as this could recur. We cannot make peace except in company with our allies. It would brand us with everlasting dishonor and bring ruin to us also if we undertook to make a separate peace.

Ireland.

The great principle of national self-determination is a principle of constant reiteration as one of the chief objectives for which this country entered the war and victory established this principle. The limitations of international comity and usage, this convention repeats the several previous expressions of the sympathy of the Democratic party for the aspirations of Ireland for self-government.

Armenia.

We express our deep and earnest sympathy for the unfortunate people of Armenia, and we believe that our Government, in accordance with its Constitution and principles, should render every possible and proper aid to them in their efforts to establish and maintain a Government of their own.

visions upon the intelligent research of a nonpartisan commission, rather than upon the demands of selfish interests, temporarily held in abeyance.

Budget.

In the interest of economy and good administration, we favor the creation of an effective budget system that will function in accord with the principles of the Constitution. The reform should reach both the executive and legislative aspects of the question. The supervision and preparation of the budget should be vested in the Secretary of the Treasury as the representative of the President. The budget, as such, should not be increased by the Congress except by a two-thirds vote, each house, however, being free to exercise its constitutional privilege of making appropriations through independent bills. The appropriation bills should be considered by single committees of the House and Senate. The audit system should be consolidated and its power expanded so as to pass upon the wisdom of, as well as the authority for, expenditures.

A budget bill was passed in the closing days of the second session of the Sixty-first Congress, which, invalidated by plain common sense, defects and defaced by considerations of patronage, the President was obliged to veto. The House amended the bill to meet the executive objection. We condemn the Republican Senate for adjourning without passing the amended measure, when by devoting an hour or two more to this urgent public business, a budget system could have been provided.

Senate Rules.

We favor such alteration of the rules of procedure of the Senate of the United States as will permit the prompt transaction of the nation's legislative business.

Agricultural Interests.

To the great agricultural interests of the country the Democratic party does not make promises, it makes promises. It already is rich in its record of things actually accomplished. For nearly half a century of Republican rule not a sentence was written into the Federal statutes affording one coupler of bank credits to the farming interests of America. In the first term of this Democratic administration the national bank act was so altered as to authorize loans of five years' maturity on improved farm lands. Later was established a system of farm loan banks, from which the borrowings already exceeded 300,000,000 of dollars and under which the interest rate to farmers has been so materially reduced as to drive out of business the farm loan sharks who formerly subsisted by extortion upon the great agricultural interests of the country.

Thus it was a Democratic Congress in the administration of a Democratic President which enabled the farmers of America for the first time to obtain the same reasonable terms and insured their opportunity for the future development of the nation's agricultural resources. Tied up in Supreme Court proceedings, in a suit by hostile interests, the Federal farm loan system, originally proposed by the Republican candidate for the presidency, appeared in vain to a Republican Congress for adequate financial assistance to tide over the interim between the beginning and the ending of the current year, awaiting a final decision of the highest court on the validity of the contested act. We pledge ourselves to the prompt passage of an effective measure to sustain, amplify and perfect the rural credits statutes and thus to check and reduce the growth and course of farm tenancy.

Not only did the Democratic party put into effect a great farm loan system of land mortgage banks, but it passed the Smith-Lever agricultural extension act, carrying to every farmer in every section of the country, through the medium of trained experts and by demonstration farms, the practical knowledge acquired by the Federal Agricultural Department in all things relating to agriculture, horticulture and animal life. It established the Bureau of Markets, the Bureau of Farm Management and passed the cotton futures act, the grain grades bill, the cooperative farm program, the act for the regulation of the cotton futures act, and the Federal warehouse act.

The Democratic party has vastly improved the rural mail system and has built up the parcel post system to such an extent as to render its activities and its practical service indispensable to the farming community. It was this wise encouragement of the Democratic party for the farmers of the United States which enabled this great interest to render such essential service in feeding the armies of America and the allied nations of the war and succoring starving populations since Armistice day.

Meanwhile the Republican leaders at Washington have failed utterly to propose one single measure to make rural life more tolerable. They have signalled their 15 months of congressional profligacy by urging measures which would strip the farms of labor; by assailing the principles of the farm loan system and seeking to impair its efficiency; by covertly attempting to destroy the great nitrogen plant at Muscle Shoals upon which the Government has expended $70,000,000 to supply American farmers with fertilizers at reasonable cost; by ruthlessly crippling nearly every branch of agricultural endeavor; by literally crippling the productive mediums through which the people must be fed.

We favor such legislation as will confirm to the primary producers of the nation the right of collective bargaining and the right of co-operative handling and marketing of the products of the workshop and the farm and such legislation as will facilitate the exportation of our farm products.

We favor comprehensive studies of farm production costs and the uncensored publication of facts found in such studies.

Labor and Industry.

The Democratic party is now, as ever, the firm friend of honest labor and the promoter of progressive industry. It established the Department of Labor at Washington and a Democratic President called to his official council board the first practical workman who ever held a cabinet portfolio. Under this administration, however, have been established employment bureaus to bring the man and the job together; have been peaceably determined many bitter disputes between capital and labor; were passed the child labor act, the workman's compensation act (the extension of which we advocate so as to include laborers engaged in loading and unloading ships and in interstate commerce); the eight-hour law, the act for vocational training and a code of other wholesome laws affecting the liberties and bettering the conditions of the laboring classes. In the Department of Labor the Democratic administration established a woman's bureau, which a Republican Congress destroyed by withholding appropriations.

Labor is not a commodity; it is human. Those who labor have rights and the national security and safety depend upon a just recognition of the rights and the conservation of the strength of the workers and their families in the interest of sound-headed men, women and children. Laws regulating hours of labor and conditions under which labor is performed, when passed in recognition of the conditions under which life must be lived to attain the highest development and happiness, are just assertions of the national interest in the welfare of the people.

At the same time the nation depends upon the products of labor: a cessation of production means loss and, if long continued, disaster. The whole people, therefore, have a right to insist that justice shall be done to those who work, and in turn that those whose work is done shall be able to live upon the life of the nation depends must recognize the reciprocal obligation between the worker and the State. They should participate in the formulation of sound laws and regulations governing the conditions under which labor is performed, recognize and obey the laws so formulated and seek their amendment when necessary by the process of ordinary legislation, and the relations of labor and capital.

Labor, as well as capital, is entitled to adequate compensation. Each has the indefeasible right of organization of collective bargaining and of speaking through representatives of their own selection. Neither class, however, should at any time nor in any circumstances take action that will put in jeopardy the public well-being. Resort to strikes and lockouts which endanger the health or lives of the people is an unsatisfactory device for determining disputes, and the Democratic party pledges itself to settle, if possible, and put into effective operation a fair and comprehensive method of composing differences of this nature.

In private industrial disputes, we are opposed to compulsory arbitration as a method plausible in theory but a failure in fact. With respect to Government service, we hold distinctly that the rights of the people are paramount to the right to strike. We insist that the thirty-sixth amendment, which guarantees the right of public employment and pledge the Democratic party to instant inquiry into the pay of Government employees and equally speedy regulations designed to bring salaries to a just and proper level.

Woman's Suffrage.

We endorse the proposed nineteenth amendment of the Constitution, which grants the right of equal suffrage to women. We congratulate the Legislatures of 35 states which have already ratified said amendment and we urge the Democratic Governors and Legislatures of Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida, and such states as have not yet ratified the Federal suffrage amendment to unite in an effort to complete the process of ratification and secure the thirty-sixth amendment for all the women of the United States to participate in the full election. We commend the effective advocacy of the measure by President Wilson.

Women in Industry.

We urge co-operation with the states for the protection of child life through infancy and maternity care; in the prohibition of child labor; by adequate appropriations for the children's bureau and the woman's bureau in the Department of Labor. Co-operative Federal assistance to the states is immediately required for the removal of illiteracy, for the increase of teachers' salaries and instruction in citizenship for both native and foreign born; increased aid for vocational training; joint Federal and state employment service with women's departments under the direction of technical experts.

We advocate full representation of women on all commissions dealing with women's work or women's interests and all classifications of the Federal civil service open to women; the prohibition of discrimination on the basis of sex; Federal legislation which shall insure that American women resident in the United States but married to aliens shall retain their American citizenship and that the same process of naturalization shall be required for women as for men.

Disabled Soldiers.

The Federal Government should treat with the utmost consideration every disabled soldier, sailor and marine of the world war, whether in line of action or to wounds received in line of service; and for the dependents of the brave men who died in line of duty, the Government's tenderest concern and richest bounty should be theirs. The fine patriotism exhibited, the heroic conduct displayed by American soldiers, sailors and marines at home and abroad constitute a sacred heritage of posterity. Under this administration, however, have been established employment bureaus to bring the man and the job together; have been peaceably determined many bitter disputes between capital and labor; were passed the child labor act, the workman's compensation act (the extension of which we advocate so as to include laborers engaged in loading and unloading ships and in interstate commerce); the eight-hour law, the act for vocational training and a code of other wholesome laws affecting the liberties and bettering the conditions of the laboring classes. In the Department of Labor the Democratic administration established a woman's bureau, which a Republican Congress destroyed by withholding appropriations.

Labor is not a commodity; it is human. Those who labor have rights and the national security and safety depend upon a just recognition of the rights and the conservation of the strength of the workers and their families in the interest of sound-headed men, women and children. Laws regulating hours of labor and conditions under which labor is performed, when passed in recognition of the conditions under which life must be lived to attain the highest development and happiness, are just assertions of the national interest in the welfare of the people.

The Railroads.

The railroads were subjected to Federal control as a war measure without other idea than the swift transport of troops, munitions and supplies. When human life and national hopes were at stake profits could not be considered, and were not. Federal operation, however, was marked by an intelligence and efficiency that minimized loss and resulted in many and marked reforms. The equipment taken over was not only grossly inadequate but shamefully outworn.

Unification practices overcame these initial handicaps, and provided additions, betterments and improvements. Economics enabled operation without the rate raise that private control would have found necessary, and labor was treated with an exact justice that secured the enthusiastic co-operation that victory demanded.

The fundamental purpose of Federal control was achieved fully and splendidly, and at far less cost to the taxpayer than would have been the case under private operation. Investments in railroad properties were not only saved by Government operation, but Government management returned these properties vastly improved in every physical and executive detail. A great task was greatly discharged.

The President's recommendation of return to private ownership gave the Republican majority a full year in which to enact the necessary legislation. The House took six months to formulate its plan, and six months was consumed by the Republican Senate in equally vague debate. As a consequence, that Esch-Cummings bill went to the President in the closing hours of Congress, and he was forced to choose between the chaos of a veto and acquiescence in the measure submitted, however grave may have been his objections to it.

There should be a fair and complete test of the law until careful and mature action by Congress may cure its defects and insure a thoroughly effective transportation system under private ownership without Government subsidy at the expense of the taxpayers of the country.

Improved Highways.

Improved roads are of vital importance not only to commerce and industry, but also to agriculture and rural life. The Federal road act of 1916, enacted by a Democratic Congress, represented the first systematic effort of the Government to insure the building of an adequate system of highways. The act, as amended, has resulted in placing the movement for improved highways on a progressive and substantial basis in every state in the Union and has resulted in the construction more than 13,000 miles of roads suited to the traffic needs of the communities in which they are located.

We favor for a continuance of the present Federal aid plan and the testing Federal and state agencies as amended, so as to include, as one of the elements in determining the ratio in which the several states shall be entitled to share in the Federal aid, the area of any public lands therein.

Inasmuch as the postal service has been extended by the Democratic party to the door of practically every producer of goods and every consumer in the country (rural free delivery alone having been provided for 4,000,000 additional patrons within the past eight years without material added cost), we declare that this service is a public utility and that to the maximum of its capacity to improve the efficiency of distribution and reduce the cost of living to consumers while increasing the profits of producers, we will support the use of motor devices in the transportation in rural territories.

We strongly favor the increased use of the motor vehicle in the transportation of the mails and urge the removal of the restrictions imposed by the Republican Congress on the use of motor devices in the transportation in rural territories.

Merchant Marine.

We desire to congratulate the American people upon the rebirth of our merchant marine, which once again maintains its former place in the world. Under a Democratic administration, after 70 years of difference and neglect, 13,000,000 tons having been constructed since the war was passed in 1916. We pledge the Republican party to the continued growth of our merchant marine under proper legislation so that American products will be carried to all parts of the world by vessels built in American yards, flying the American flag and manned by American seamen.

Port Facilities.

The urgent demands of the war for adequate transportation of war material as well as for domestic need revealed the fact that our port facilities and rate adjustment were such as seriously affect the whole country in times of peace as well as war.

We pledge our party to stand fast for equality of rates, both import and export, for the ports of the country to the end that there might be adequate and fair facilities and rates for the mobilization of the products of the country offered for shipment.

Inland Waterways.

We call attention to the failure of the Republican National Convention to recognize in any way the rapid development of barge transportation on our inland waterways, which development is the result of the construction policy of the Democratic administration. We pledge ourselves to the further development of adequate transportation facilities on our rivers and to the improvement of the policies of our inland waterways, and we recognize the importance of connecting the Great Lakes with the sea by way of the Mississippi river and its tributaries, as well as by the St. Lawrence river. We favor an enterprising foreign trade policy with all nations and in this connection we favor the full utilization of all Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific ports and an equitable distribution of tonnage.

Democratic Platform as Submitted to the Convention

of shipping facilities between the various ports. Transportation remains an increasingly vital problem in the continued development and prosperity of the nation.

Our present facilities for distribution by rail are inadequate and the promotion of transportation by water is imperative.

We therefore favor a liberal and comprehensive policy for the development and utilization of our harbors and interior waterways.

Flood Control.

We commend the Democratic Congress for the redemption of the pledge contained in our last platform by the passage of the Flood Control Act of March 1, 1917, and point to the successful control of the floods of the Mississippi River and the Sacramento River, California, under the policy of that law, for its complete justification. We favor the extension of this policy to other flood control problems wherever the Federal interest involved justifies the expenditure required.

Reclamation of Arid Lands.

By wise legislation and progressive administration we have transformed the Government reclamation projects, representing an investment of $60,000,000 from a condition of impending failure and loss of confidence in the ability of the Government to carry through such large enterprises, to a condition of demonstrated success whereby formerly arid and wholly unproductive lands now sustain 40,000 prosperous families and have an annual crop production of over $70,000,000, not including the crops grown on a million acres outside the projects supplied with storage water from Government works.

We favor ample appropriations for the continuation and extension of this great work of home building and internal improvement along the same general lines, to the end that all practical projects shall be built and waters now running to waste shall be made to provide homes and add to the food supply, power, recreation, and taxable property, with the Government ultimately reimbursed for the entire outlay.

The Trade Commission.

The Democratic party heartily indorses the creation and work of the Federal Trade Commission in securing a fair field for competitive business free from restraints of trade and monopoly and recommending application of the statutes governing its activities so as to give it authority to prevent the unfair use of patents in restraint of trade.

Livestock Markets.

For the purpose of insuring just and fair treatment in the great interstate livestock markets and thus insuring confidence in growth through which production will be stimulated and the price of meats to consumers be ultimately reduced, we favor the enactment of legislation for the supervision of such markets by the national Government.

Mexico.

The United States is the neighbor and friend of the nations of the three Americas. In a very special sense, our international relations in this hemisphere should be characterized by good will and free from any possible suspicion as to our national purpose.

The administration, remembering always that Mexico is an independent nation and that permanent stability in her government and her institutions could come only from the consent of her own people to a government of their own making, has been unwilling either to profit by the misfortunes of the people of Mexico or to entangle their future by imposing from the outside a rule upon their temporarily distracted councils. As a consequence, order is gradually reappearing in Mexico; at no time in many years have American lives and interests been so safe as they now are; peace reigns along the border and industry is resuming. When the new Government of Mexico shall have given ample proof of its ability permanently to maintain law and order, signified its willingness to meet its international obligations and written upon its statute books just laws under which foreign investors shall have rights as well as duties, that Government should receive our recognition and systematic assistance. Until these proper expectations have been met, Mexico must realize the propriety of a policy that asserts the right of the United States to demand full protection for its citizens.

Petroleum.

The Democratic party recognizes the importance of the acquisition by Americans of additional sources of supply of petroleum and other minerals and declares that such acquisition both at home and abroad should be fostered and encouraged. We urge such action, legislative and executive, as may secure to American citizens the same rights in the acquisition of mining rights in foreign countries as are enjoyed by the citizens or subjects of any other nation.

New Nations.

The Democratic party expresses its active sympathy with the people of China, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Poland, Persia and others who have recently established representative government and who are striving to develop the institutions of true democracy.

Ireland.

The great principle of national self-determination has received constant reiteration as one of the chief objectives for which this country entered the war and victory established this principle. Within the limitations of international comity and usage, this convention repeats the several previous expressions of the sympathy of the Democratic party of the United States for the aspirations of Ireland for self-government.

Armenia.

We express our deep and earnest sympathy for the unfortunate people of Armenia, and we believe that our Government, consistent with its Constitution and principles, should render every possible and proper aid.

Seasonable Togs for the Summer Girl

Especially Desirable for Wear Over the "Fourth" and on the Vacation

THE Misses' Shop is featuring just the kind of cool, tubable, attractively styled Summer clothes that young women need these days to be smartly and comfortably attired. For the holiday so close at hand we suggest—

Gingham Dresses, $8.75 to $16.50

WHERE is the miss who will not look her prettiest in a gay Plaid Gingham Frocks? Knowing how they will be favored for outing and vacation wear we have arranged this attractive group. There is a good choice of youthful models—many with organdie collars and cuffs—at these very moderate prices.

Lovely Organdies at $18.75

TWO charming bouffant models in navy and brown come at $18.75. One forms a league with white organdie and flaunts set-in hemstitched blocks that make a chic ornamentation—the other has a deep hem extending to the hips and topped with scalloped ruffle. The organdie is of splendid quality—the Frocks quite unusual in value at this price.

SHANTUNG Suits in ultra-smart knee-length coat, models, or hip-length styles, for motoring, traveling or sports wear. $32.50 to $55.00

Misses Shop—Third Floor.

Sports Frocks of Linen, $8.75 to $14.00

YOU will find it difficult to choose between the linens and the ginghams. Slender in line, but usually managing to flare at the hips, the linens are as cleverly fashioned as the ginghams; one model shows a piquant apron effect—another smart style is an embroidered coat model.

Cool Linen Suits, $19.75 to $29.75

NO matter how many Frocks she has, every well-dressed young woman will find a Summer Suit necessary on certain occasions—and on a holiday outing a Linen Suit is ideal. Youthful belted models, with Tuxedo or roll collars, plain tailored, embroidered or with tucked and button trimmed pockets, $19.75 to $29.75

Cool--Tubable--Summer Frocks, Middies and Riding Habits.

That Girls May Happily Wear on the "Glorious Fourth"—on All Vacation Days

For the younger girl of 6 to 14 years, Regulation Dresses come in one or two piece models of linen, poplin, blue Bates cloth or galatea; with white or colored collars and cuffs and attractive emblems $6.95 to $18.75

Juniors' Regulation Dresses of linen or poplin, with outside blouses; sizes 16 to 20 years $19.75 to $22.50

Middy Blouses of white galatea, with colored collars and cuffs; sizes 6 to 20 years $2.75 to $5.95

Riding Habits

Smartly tailored Riding Habits of linen or khaki, sizes 12 to 17 years $25.00

"Adorable" Frocks for Dress Wear

For the times when younger sister is to be "all dressed up" there are dainty dotted Swisses or crisp organdies, youthful and charming in style. Sheer little veils, in pretty models, may also be chosen; sizes 10 to 17 years; prices range from $9.75 to $42.50.

Bloomer Dresses of Gingham

There need be no petticoats to worry about when these chambray or gingham Bloomer Dresses are worn. All girls will like them. They are pretty, too—with sashes and white eye collars and cuffs. Sizes from 6 to 12 years $3.95

Girls' Shop—Third Floor.

Items of Interest

All Dressed Up for the Fourth of July

The Fourth is a double holiday this year and Sonny is going to have worlds of things to do. Boys will be boys and must be dressed in clothes to withstand rough wear. We have Khaki Knickers which will bear up under numerous visits to the tub.

Boys' Clothing Shop—Second Floor.

Announcing the Arrival of the Fourth

The arrival of a great event, in years gone by, was heralded by the blowing of great, long trumpets. And so we are still blowing trumpets on very state occasions. Instead of harmful fireworks, why not get the kiddies Red, White and Blue Trumpets! They will have just as much fun with them.

Toy Shop—Second Floor.

Just a Bit of Old Glory

—but what a lot it stands for! Our forefathers were proud of their colors—now let's show that we are also proud of the Red, White and Blue! We have small, tied bits of the colors to put in the lapel of your coat. For five cents you can proclaim your Americanism to the world.

Toy Shop—Second Floor.

By the Light of the Moon

The moon is the most popular heavenly body sailing the skies. People dream under it, fates change under it, people listlessly sit and watch it. There is always some device for our comfort and small Grass Mats have been fashioned for us to sit on when we go out on the lawn to further our ethereal study.

First Floor Tables.

A Great Book

—is a ship of thought—it sails the ocean, breaking the sea of daily living into beauty wherever it goes—leaving behind it a trail of sparkling loveliness winning as the ship goes on. It is the inner self of a great thinker. Visit our Book Shop and you will find a representation of every great thinker.

Book Shop—Sixth Floor.

My Lady's Garter

As in olden days, these are not fashioned of priceless jewels, but are delicately made of soft silk, trimmed with tiny rosebuds. They are so much prettier than plain elastic bands.

Notion Shop—First Floor.

Offered in White and Flesh Tints Are

Wash Satin Petticoats

Durable and Good Looking, $4.95

EVERY feature for comfort and service is combined in these attractive Petticoats that will add to their desirability.

The essential reinforced panel in back and front is an interesting note, and their plain straightline simplicity will please.

Exceptional values at the small price of $4.95 The Petticoat Shop—Third Floor.

Bathing Corsets

$3.50 and $5

FOR the woman who requires a Corset with her bathing suit, we are offering just the needed model. They are made of rubberized material with detachable garters.

Lightly but sufficiently boned, these Corsets will be pronounced the best obtainable for the purpose. Arranged in two groups $3.50 and $5 The Corset Shop—Third Floor.

Buy a Summer Suit Tomorrow

—It'll Be Ready for July 4th

BECAUSE Vandervoort's give you real service in addition to real clothes value. If you come in here tomorrow before mid-afternoon, choose your Suit; if it needs some alteration—sleeves made longer, trousers longer and smaller at waist—you will be able to wear that Suit Sunday.

That is real service. It means extra effort to please you, but no effort is too great if the thing can be accomplished.

From the extreme heat today, it looks as though you would certainly need a cool Summer Suit if you are to enjoy the Fourth.

New Handmade Lingerie Blouses in Smart Summer Styles

Specially Priced $5 and $7.75

TOMORROW is the second day of this holiday selling event—why not take advantage of it and select a fresh, new and charming Tub Blouse for your Fourth of July costume—or the Blouses you will need on the vacation?

THESE are very attractive and are fine-looking Blouses, made of fine, sheer batiste, embroidered and lace-trimmed. Some more tailored, are decorated with dainty drawwork; some have frills, others have set-in colored blocks or filet lace motifs.

Full range of sizes—white and colors.

Blouse Shop—Third Floor.

For the Fourth of July Dip—Smart Bathing Suits

Both Useful and Ornamental

OF course part of the Fourth of July week-end will be spent in the water—and equally of course you will want to be correctly and attractively attired. There is where the Bathing Suit Shop is ready to help you—offering every kind of Suit—from plain tights to fascinating silk models. One of the other good things about these Suits are the prices, which you will find very favorable.

Taffeta and Satin Bathing Frocks, $13.50, $16.50, $20.00—up to $35.00

YOU can swim as well as look charming on the beach in these delightful creations. There is a youthful Norfolk model—a piquet ruffle model—yarn embroidered styles—gayly striped models and plain models.

California Suits, $7.50 to $25.00

THESE greatly favored Suits come in plain and striped effects—with light or fancy knees—made of wool, wool and cotton mixture and cotton jersey. At $12.50 there are some excellent models. Plain tights of cotton or wool jersey $1.05 to $5.00

Jersey Suits for the Little Tots, $3.95 to $5.95

SUGGESTS STATE LAW TO CURB RENT EXCESSES

City Complaint Board Wants Power to Regulate Charges
On Cost Basis.

State legislation, to prevent rent profiteering, is urged in the annual report of the City Complaint Board, filed with the Mayor today by Lewis T. Tume, chairman of the board.

"This board," Tume said, "has done remarkably good work so far as rent profiteering is concerned. We have not been able to stop it, but we feel that much has been done to curb it in certain directions."

"Many landlords have charged unreasonable prices for their houses and apartments, and the only way this can be handled, is by a State law that would enable the city to regulate charges on the basis of cost. We hope this will be done at the next session of the Legislature."

"The report does not go into details as to the methods employed to curb rent profiteering. The board has transmitted some complaints to the Assessor's office, to be considered in fixing assessments on property. The board also put forth a plan for closing the justice courts with landlords' eviction suits, but the plan was vetoed by the Mayor and the city Law Department."

The Complaint Board has received 438 complaints in the past year, the report says, most of them relating to rent increases and traffic law violations. The expense of conducting the board's work for the year was $3726.62, of which $3435 was for salaries.

PRISONER BEING RETURNED HERE JUMPS FROM TRAIN

Samuel Balsamo Leaps Through Window, Escaping From Detective in Ohio.

Samuel Balsamo, 26 years old, of 5248 Wilson avenue, who was arrested in New York City, June 15 on burglary and bond jumping charges here, leaped through the window of a train near Houston, O., last night, and escaped from Detective -Sergeant Edward Behnken, who was bringing him back here. Balsamo was arrested here originally Jan. 20 after a set of harness stolen from the Evans and Howard Fire Clay Products Co. had been found in his home. He was released on a bond signed by his neighbor, Joseph Ghiglione, 5214 Shaw avenue, and charged with burglary in the second degree.

When the case was called in court he failed to appear and the bond was declared forfeited. Ghiglione offered a reward of $100 for his arrest. On a circular sent out Balsamo was captured in New York. Different persons interested in the case wanted various policemen to take the trip East after Balsamo and after numerous conferences Behnken drew the assignment, leaving St. Louis June 28.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN CLAIMS COWAN WEALTH

Katherine Cowan Says She Is Cousin of Oil Man in New Suit Filed.

CHICAGO, July 2.—The fight over the $2,000,000 left by William P. Cowan, former president of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, is on again.

This time it is in the Circuit Court instead of the County Court of Du Page County. Judge Rath of the County Court found in favor of 11 cousins of the oil magnate. Four others who claim to be relatives have appealed and three more are expected to file intervening petitions. No will was found in Cowan's effects.

Hearing has been set for July 12 before Circuit Judge Cliffe. Those who have appealed are William Cowan Lowery of Neeleyville, Mo., who says he is a son of the late millionaire by a one-time Indian actress; Mrs. Mary McAdams of Peoria and her sister, Katherine Cowan of St. Louis, temporarily residing in Chicago, who claim to be cousins of William P. Cowan, and David Henry Cowan of Canal Winchester, O., who claims also to be a first cousin of the oil man.

Two sisters and a brother of Mrs. McAdams and Miss Cowan are expected to file intervening petitions. Next week will be deposition week in the East in the Cowan contest. Attorneys representing the various claimants will go to New York, Burlington, Va., and Cleveland and examine witnesses who are familiar with the Cowan family tree, or branches of it. These depositions will be taken at the various points respectively, July 7, 8 and 9.

The mystery of the absence of a will among Cowan's papers is still the subject of comment among residents of Wheaton, where he lived. This is particularly true among those who were personally acquainted with Cowan.

Actress Held as Swindler.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Miss Louise Walach, 19 years old, of Homer City, Pa., was arrested yesterday as she stepped from a train, at the request of Mason City (Ia.) police. They charge Miss Walach, an actress, with swindling a Mason City man out of "a large amount of money." Miss Walach said she met the man while playing in Mason City last week, and that the jewelry consisted of "a $10 watch and a $3 ring."

EUBANK PLANS TO SUE PINE BLUFF FOR GANG ATTACK

Head of Yardmen and Pastor Aregood Will Consult Lawyer Regarding Claim for Damages.

BEATEN WITH CLUBS,
SEIZED BY 16 MEN

Leader of Switchmen Says
He Was Invited to Arkansas City to Explain Purposes of Organization.

James S. Eubank, president of the St. Louis Yardmen's Association, and the Rev. Nelson E. Aregood, counsel of the insurgent striking switchmen, said today that they would consult a lawyer, with a view to filing suit against the City of Pine Bluff, Ark. They were seized by 16 men in a hall in Pine Bluff Wednesday night, carried out of town in automobiles and flogged with clubs because they had attempted to hold a meeting in the interest of the Yardmen's Association. They arrived in St. Louis last night.

They believe the City of Pine Bluff is liable for damages, for the failure of the authorities to protect them in the right of free speech.

They related their version of the mob incident to a Post-Dispatch reporter who met them at the Broadway Station on their arrival here.

Invited to Speak There.—"In response to an invitation from the organizer of the switchmen at Pine Bluff we were there to address a meeting of railroad employees on the aims and purposes of the St. Louis Yardmen's Association," said Eubank. "When we reached the town Wednesday afternoon we found that a hall had been engaged for the meeting and that printed announcements of our appearance had been posted all over town. When we reached the A. O. U. W. Hall, where the meeting was to have been held, there were about 200 men on the sidewalk.

"As we approached the hall—it was just across the street from the Pine Hotel where we had put up—two automobiles, each containing eight men, drove up to the curb and a man stepped from each car. They drew back their coats and displayed stars. They took us by the arm and wheeled us around and told us that we would not be allowed to hold our meeting. Brother Aregood demanded to know by what authority they were acting, and he was struck in the face. 'It makes no difference what our authority is, you're going with us,' Aregood was told.

"We were then forced into the automobiles and driven away. Eight of the men occupied seats in the cars and the other eight stood on the running boards. I appealed to the crowd on the sidewalk for assistance, but not a man made a move.

Revolver Pressed Against Head.—"As the automobile pulled out the occupants drew revolvers and pointed them at us. One of the weapons was pressed against my head. 'You picked out the wrong town when you came to Pine Bluff,' I was told. 'There's no room here for Bolsheviks and I. W. W.'s. We'll show you how we treat fellows like you down here.'

"The men who had charge of Brother Aregood talked to him the same way. I told the men with me that if they would lay aside their weapons I would fight them one at a time, although I was much older than any of them. I told them they were cowards. The only reply I received was a blow in the face. I reminded them that I had been invited to Pine Bluff and that they were interfering with the right of free speech.

Hit Behind Trees.—"When the automobile reached a thickly wooded section about three miles out from town Brother Aregood and I were ordered to alight and remove our coats and shirts. Four of the men then began beating us with clubs the thickness of broom handles, while the others kept us covered with their revolvers. We have welts an inch wide on our backs. The blows were accompanied by epithets and sarcastic remarks about the Pine Bluff method of dealing with meddlers. We were told that the railroad men of Pine Bluff had no desire to be associated with the Yardmen's Association.

"When they finished beating us they told us to run and to be sure and never return to Pine Bluff. As we started off through the woods they fired shots into the air to frighten us and whooped like a lot of Indians. We ran a short distance and then hid behind trees until the firing ceased. Then we started back in the direction of town, but were stopped by the men in the automobiles, who had laid in wait for us. They fired more shots in the air and ordered us to get back. We then retreated behind trees for half an hour and then made our way back to town on foot. There was no other place for us to go. We spent the night at the hotel and left Pine Bluff at 5 o'clock yesterday morning.

"At Little Rock, where we had to stop off for two hours on our way home, we were surrounded at the railroad station by a crowd of men who made slighting remarks about us, called us by name, although we had never seen them before, stepped on our feet and otherwise tried to provoke us to say something, so that they would have an excuse for assaulting us. We said nothing to them.

"At Pine Bluff there was not a policeman in sight when we were kidnaped. The town has a population of 30,000, and when we asked where the policemen were we were told that they were busy in another section of town. We called for the Mayor when we were being forced into the automobiles, but the only satisfaction we got were hoots and yells from the men who were abducting us.

"Inspired by Brotherhood Men.—"I believe the men were railroad detectives imported from Little Rock, although my only reason for saying that is that they flashed stars. They may have been members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. At any rate I do know that the mobbing was inspired by officials of the Brotherhood.

"Tuesday night we addressed a meeting of railroad men at Argenta, Ark., and, as we had been informed that Brotherhood officials had been bribing strike breakers to take the places of the switchmen, Brother Aregood referred to the matter in his speech. He said the Brotherhood men who were doing that were worse than strike breakers. Someone in the hall shouted that Brother Aregood was a liar and challenged him to come outside.

"We were warned when we left Argenta that we had better be careful how we spoke of Brotherhood officials when we reached Pine Bluff.

"The beating was severe enough, but it did not hurt me half so much as the indignity I suffered. I will consult lawyers to see if I cannot bring suit against the city of Pine Bluff for failing to give us protection from the mob."

Eubank and the Rev. Mr. Aregood were met at Union Station last night by a delegation of striking switchmen. As the two men stepped from the train they were greeted with a chorus "Are you happy?" That is a phrase frequently used by the pastor when addressing the switchmen at their meetings here.

to them in their efforts to establish and maintain a Government of their own.

The Philippines.

We favor the granting of independence without unnecessary delay to the 10,500,000 inhabitants of the Philippine Islands.

Hawaii.

We favor a liberal policy of home-owning public lands in Hawaii to promote a larger middle-class citizen population, with equal rights to all citizens.

The importance of Hawaii as an outpost on the Western frontier of the United States, demands adequate appropriations by Congress for the development of our harbors and highways there.

Porto Rico.

We favor granting to the people of Porto Rico the traditional territorial form of government, with a view to ultimate statehood, accorded to all territories of the United States since the beginning of our Government and we believe that the officials appointed to administer the Government of such territories should be qualified by previous bona-fide residence therein.

Alaska.

We commend the Democratic administration for inaugurating a new policy as to Alaska as evidenced by the construction of the Alaska railroad and opening of the coal and oil fields.

We declare for the modification of the existing coal land law to promote development without disturbing the features intended to prevent monopoly.

For such changes in the policy of forestry control as will permit the immediate initiation of the paper pulp industry.

For relieving the territory from the evils of long-distance government by arbitrary and interlocking bureaucratic regulation and to that end we urge the speedy passage of a law containing the essential features of the Lane-Curry bill now pending co-ordinating and consolidating all Federal control of natural resources under one department to be administered by a nonpartisan board permanently resident in the territory.

For the fullest measure of territorial self-government with the view to ultimate statehood, with jurisdiction over all matters not of purely Federal concern, including fisheries and game, and for an intelligent administration of Federal control we believe that all officials appointed should be qualified by previous bona-fide residence in the territory.

For a comprehensive system of road construction with increased appropriations and the full extension of the Federal road act to Alaska.

For the extension for Alaska of the Federal farm loan act.

Asiatic Immigrants.

The policy of the United States with reference to the nonadmission of Asiatic immigrants is a true expression of the judgment of our people and to the several states whose geographical situation or internal conditions make this policy and the enforcement of the laws enacted pursuant thereto, of particular concern, we pledge our support.

The Postal Service.

The efficiency of the Postoffice Department has been vindicated against a malicious and designing assault by the efficiency of its operation. Its record refutes its assailants. Their voices are silenced and their charges have collapsed.

We commend the work of the Joint commission on the reclassification of salaries of postal employees, recently concluded, which commission was created by a Democratic administration. The Democratic party has always favored and will continue to favor the fair and just treatment of all Government employees.

Free Speech and Press.

We resent the unfounded reproaches directed against the Democratic administration for alleged interference with the freedom of the press and freedom of speech. No utterance from any quarter has been assailed, and no publication has been repressed, which has not been animated by treasonable purpose, and directed against the nation's peace, order and security in time of war.

We reaffirm our respect for the great principles of free speech and a free press, but assert as an indisputable proposition that they afford no toleration of enemy propaganda or the advocacy of the overthrow of the Government of the State or nation by force or violence.

Republican Corruption.

The shocking disclosure of the lavish use of money by aspirants for the Republican nomination for the highest office in the gift of the people, has created a painful impression throughout the country. Viewed in connection with the recent conviction of a Republican Senator from the State of Michigan for the criminal transgression of the law limiting expenditures on behalf of a candidate for the United States Senate, it indicates the re-entry, under Republican auspices, of money as an influential factor in elections, thus nullifying the letter and flaunting the spirit of numerous laws, enacted by the people, to protect the ballot from the contamination of corrupt practices. We deplore those delinquencies and invoke their stern popular rebuke, pledging our earnest efforts to a strengthening of the present statutes against corrupt practices and their rigorous enforcement.

We remind the people that it was only by the return of a Republican Senator in Michigan, who is now under conviction and sentence for the criminal misuse of money in his election, that the present organization of the Senate with a Republican majority was made possible.

Conclusion.

Believing that we have kept the Democratic faith, and resting our claims to the confidence of the people not upon grandiose promises but upon the solid performances of our party, we submit our record to the nation's consideration and ask that the judges of this platform be appraised in the light of that record.

BANK PRESIDENT SHOCKS WHEAT

Civil War Veteran Also Aids in Madison County Harvest.

George W. Meyer, president of the Bank of Edwardsville, worked as a harvest hand yesterday on the place of Paul Pilz, following the binder and shocking the grain. He got through the day in good shape and was pronounced by Pilz a "first class hand."

William H. Shaffer, 79 years old, a veteran of the Civil War, shocked wheat yesterday on the farm of George M. Pfeiffer, to help out in the labor shortage.

While these men were busy in the fields it was reported that half a hundred stout young men were idle in Edwardsville, despite the fact that farmers are offering up to 75 cents an hour, and five meals a day for helpers.

PETIT LARCENY WARRANTS FOR PROMOTER OF "GOLDEN CROWN"Charles B. Winchester Pleads Not Guilty and Case Is Set for July 8.

Two warrants charging petit larceny were issued from the office of Prosecuting Attorney Sidener yesterday afternoon against Charles B. Winchester, "Lieutenant-General" of the Golden Crown Association, who was arrested at the suggestion of the Charities Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. The charges are based on $5 obtained from the House of Finkelstein, June 9, and $5 obtained from the Langenberg Hat Co., May 28. Winchester was released on $500 bond. He was arraigned in the Court of Criminal Correction today. He pleaded not guilty and his case was set for July 8. John B. Dempsey, an attorney, informed the Post-Dispatch that when the Golden Crowners first applied for incorporation it was under the name of the Christian Soldiers of Salvation. Dempsey, acting for the Salvation Army, opposed incorporation under the name on the ground that the organization would be confused with the Salvation Army. The name was then changed to the Golden Crown Association.

ACTION TODAY BY NAVY IN DECKER'S ATTACK PROMISED

Matter Referred to Secretary Daniels by Admiral Cootz at Washington.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Action probably will be taken by the Navy Department within 24 hours in the matter of Rear Admiral Benton C. Decker's recent attack on Secretary Daniels and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, it was said yesterday by Acting Secretary of the Navy Cootz.

Admiral Cootz declined to indicate what action he expected to be taken, but said the matter had been referred to Secretary Daniels, who is attending the Democratic national convention at San Francisco.

A reply from Daniels within 24 hours is expected, Admiral Cootz said. "I have not acted on my own responsibility in regard to Rear Admiral Decker's letters," he declared, "because many of his charges against the Secretary and Mr. Roosevelt were personal. For that reason I believe it to be the proper course to put the matter up to them."

Admiral Decker, now commandant of the Seventh Naval District with headquarters at Key West, Fla., in a recently published letter to Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Committee, charged Secretary Daniels with having "intentionally and deliberately misrepresented certain facts in his testimony before the Senate Committee" and alleged that Assistant Secretary Roosevelt was sacrificing the efficiency of the navy for political ends.

MOTHER HUNTING FOR DAUGHTERMrs. Viola Hines of Chicago Here Seeking Missing Girl.

Mrs. Viola Hines of 4254 West Grand avenue, Chicago, is in St. Louis searching for her 19-year-old daughter, Ethel Hines, who disappeared from her home in Chicago, Sept. 24, 1918, and who is said to have been in St. Louis ever since, going by the name of Dean Nelson. In December following the disappearance of the girl, who is an only daughter, Mrs. Hines followed a clue to New Orleans, without success. Recently a former girl chum of Ethel in Chicago told Mrs. Hines she had been corresponding with Ethel, who was in St. Louis under the assumed name. The missing girl is a blonde, 5 feet 4 inches in height, and when she disappeared weighed 132 pounds. She worked as a timekeeper in Chicago. Mrs. Hines is anxious for information concerning the girl, and says she will be fully forgiven if she returns home.

STANDARD EIGHT

A Powerful Car

RIDE of ownership is based on a car's power to do the seemingly impossible. Your feeling for a car that "has seen you through" every emergency is something more than impersonal.

The owner of a Standard Eight speaks of the car's flexibility, its quick acceleration and ability to level hills. Tremendous reserve power is a guarantee of economical driving service.

The beauty and finish of the Standard Eight are appreciated by the most casual observer.

POLICE RESCUE GIRL

AFTER AUTO CHASE

Italian Being Kidnaped by Ardent Suitor Calls Help by Screams.

An Italian "kidnaping" with a new twist caused an automobile chase out Franklin avenue at 7:45 a. m. today. In one machine were Miss Mary Bommarito of 1403 O'Fallon street; her ardent wooer, Joseph Puleo, 1006 North Seventeenth street; and four other Italians, who had aided Puleo in intercepting the young woman at High and Biddle streets while she was on her way to work.

In the pursuing machine, which had been commandeered, were two policemen who had heard Miss Bommarito's screams. The course of the chase was from Seventeenth street to Twenty-third street in Franklin avenue and there was a big gallery of spectators at the finish.

Abductions as preliminaries to Italian weddings are not unusual, but in this instance the policemen found that the prospective bride was not a willing party to the diversion. After they had forced the automobile to stop by crowding it to the curb, they were profusely thanked by the young woman.

All were taken to the Carr Street Station, where the men were found to be Puleo's brothers, Domenico and Charles; Domenico Agallita of Belleville and Roscoe Cottoni, 1228 North Eighth street, owner of the automobile.

Miss Bommarito said she was engaged to marry Puleo until last June, when the engagement was broken off because of his jealous temperament. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bommarito, said they would apply for abduction informations against Puleo and the others.

Puleo said he had intended to take Miss Bommarito to a priest for an early morning wedding. A loaded pistol was found on the seat of the automobile.

Miss Bommarito and her mother went to the Circuit Attorney's office. When asked if she wanted the men sent to the penitentiary, she replied that she did not and Assistant Circuit Attorney Connor said he would not issue informations until the young woman and her parents took further time to consider if they wanted to prosecute the men.

VACATION VILLAGE IN PARK TO OPEN TUESDAY

Red Cross Community Camp to Afford Two Weeks' Outing for 200 Persons.

Vacation Village, the Red Cross community camp in Forest Park, will open Tuesday for its second season. The camp is on the site formerly designated as picnic ground No. 10, a short distance west of the Zoo.

The purpose of the camp is to afford a fresh-air vacation to city families who would otherwise be unable to afford such an outing. The camp's capacity is 200 persons. There are 30 sleeping and living tents, some for 10 and some for eight persons; two large dining tents, a kitchen tent, a branch library tent and a Red Cross hospital tent. There are six shower baths, swings, lawns, sandpiles and a hose are among the diversion facilities provided for the children.

Names of families needing such an outing are supplied to the Red Cross by welfare organizations, and those selected are invited to the camp for a two weeks' stay. Their physical condition is noted upon arrival and at the end of the two weeks, and in some cases where a further outing appears to be needed, it may be given by prolonging the period of the stay, or by an invitation to return later in the summer.

Each guest receives towels, bedding and a 42-meal ticket. A charge is made for meals, which is figured on such a basis that families will be able to live at the camp as cheaply as home. Prepared by the community kitchen workers, will include roast beef with brown gravy, mashed potatoes, soups, tomatoes, salads, tapioca pudding and iced tea. The villagers will wear badges for identification. Girls will be required to wear bloomers, and these will be supplied to girls who lack them. There will be a twilight story hour for the children, and band concerts and moving pictures on some evenings. Lights will be out at 10 p. m., and strict quiet will be kept after that time.

Mrs. John A. Haskell of 4453 West Pine boulevard is chairman, with supervision of camp activities, and Mrs. Sarah Brennan is matron. A watchman will be furnished by the Division of Parks and Recreation, which has given the service of its employees in erecting tents and installing water and sewerage provisions.

The camp was first held last year, opening Aug. 1 and closing early in September. It accommodated about 250 persons.

PROTECT EYES ON JULY 4

As Many Missourians Blinded by Fireworks as in War.

The Missouri Commission for the Blind urges parents and guardians to use great care in preventing children playing with dangerous fireworks on the Fourth of July. One spark in the eye may cause a life of darkness.

From the records of the commission it was found that only six Missourians were blinded in the war. In the commission's shop at 1424 North Jefferson avenue there are six victims totally blind as a result of the Fourth of July celebrations.

LIQUOR SEIZED AT TWO HOMES BY DRY AGENTS

One Still Found on South Seventh Street and Four Men Arrested.

Prohibition enforcement agents and policemen came in with their same bags full after a still hunt on South Seventh street yesterday afternoon. The first arrest was made after John Kausch, proprietor of a soft drink saloon at 1724 South Seventh street, had sold a drink of whisky for 35 cents to a negro enforcement officer. After Kausch was arrested his rooms on the second floor were searched. The agents found three copper kettles and a coil, a quart of raisin mash, 42 bottles of flavoring extracts containing alcohol and two empty jugs with a whisky odor.

In the same block, at 1722A South Seventh street, a raid was made on Nicholas Schneider's home. There the agents found a copper still, 12 quarts of raisin wine, one gallon of mash and 15 bottles of homemade beer. Schneider said he bought the still in March, 1919, from Lawrence Goetter of 797 Carroll street, for $12. Goetter was arrested. He denied he made the still.

At the home of Antof Kozma, 1905 South Seventh street, the raiders found a still, two quart bottles and two gallon jugs of whisky, 10 quart bottles and a 15-gallon keg of wine and two bottles of coloring matter. Kozma was arrested.

Two cash contributions and the returns from lemonade and three lemonade stands pushed the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund total past the $1000 mark yesterday. This amount represents exactly one-seventh of the minimum amount of $7000 which has been set as the goal for this year's work by the friends of the babies.

Thirteen children, all residing in the neighborhood, presented a play-let entitled "The Fairy's Lesson" last Wednesday evening on the lawn at 2923 Victor street, earning $25.80 through their combined ticket and refreshment sale. Ice cream, candy, cake and lemonade were sold between the acts of the show, which was a gaily costumed affair. The children who took part were Nelda and Bernice Teutberg, Ella Vonbauer, Marguerite and Harriet Bick, Elvira and Adeline Krings, Gertrude Demmler, Marian Judell, Mary Schilling, Elsa Marie Reinhardt, Roberta McQuillan and Charles Horne.

A miscellaneous program given at 4429 Bessie avenue netted $8.18 for the Milk and Ice Fund. Those participating were Rosemary and Eleanor Reynolds, Anna and Helen Zoeller, Ruth Kassel, Erma Stoppel, Janice Helmes, Esther Zimmermann and Ruth Crabtree.

Six little girls on Bartmer avenue sent a check for $2. They are Ellen Collum, Mary Louise Lubbe, Eleanor Finley, Jane Myers, Elizabeth Brigham and Jeanette Kienstra.

Frances M. and Rosina A. Sheppardson of 527 Sunnyside avenue, Webster Groves, gave $3 to the fund.

A lemonade stand at 720 Belt avenue under the supervision of Rosalind Unterberger, Charles Mackey, Hirschel Maceley and Edwin Grussman earned $4.80.

Annie and Morris Sigoloff managed a lemonade stand at 513 North Vandeventer avenue and made $1, and Dolores Scholz and Charlotte E. Braun conducted a stand at 4226 Lafayette avenue and also earned $1.

GEN. WOOD WILL DO ALL HE CAN CONSISTENTLY FOR HARDING

Defeated Candidate Soon to Call on Successful Rival at His Home in Ohio.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 2.—A half-hour conference today between Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood and Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, caused a flurry of excitement in the offices of the party's national headquarters when a reporter filtered through the closed doors of Hays' office that more than passive support of the Harding campaign had been offered by the General.

"Gen. Wood will do everything consistent with his position as an army officer to further Senator Harding's election," one of the executives of the campaign announced while the interview still was in progress.

The report that the General had enlisted wholeheartedly in the Harding cause was strengthened when it was learned that he was planning to call on Senator Harding at the latter's home in Marion, O., within the next few weeks.

Gen. Wood would not admit that the call on Chairman Hays had any political significance. He said he was in New York solely as an escort to his daughter, Miss Louise B. Wood, who is to sail for France tomorrow on the La Savois.

"I am not in politics," the General said. "I merely dropped in for a personal chat with Mr. Hays while waiting for my daughter's boat to sail. She will engage in French war reconstruction work. Gen. Wood said.

U. R. WOULD CHANGE ROUTE OF UNION CARS SOUTH OF DELMAR

Wants to Run West on Delmar and Around Loop on De Baliviere and Pershing.

An application of the United Railways to change the routing of the Union avenue car line was heard today by the Missouri Public Service Commission, represented by Edward Flad, a commissioner, in Hotel Jefferson.

The company desires to change the routing of southbound cars from Delmar and Union boulevards so that they will run from that point west on Delmar to De Baliviere, south on De Baliviere to Pershing and returning, run east on Pershing to Union, thence north. This is to eliminate a wye at De Baliviere and Pershing. The present route from Delmar and Union is south on Union to Pershing, west to De Baliviere, where the wye is made, the cars returning over the same route.

De Baliviere avenue to reach the Pershing avenue as a transfer point Union boulevard entrance to Forest from the Union to the Olive-Union-Park, Keiser said. It would also city line and affect property values eliminate Union boulevard and nearby, he said.

WHOLESALE PRICES ON "PRUFROCK" UPHOLSTERED FURNITURE.

The Prufrock-Litton Furniture Company, at Fourth and St. Charles streets, is offering this week in a specially announced event, endless varieties of upholstered living room suites, including odd chairs and rockers, at actual wholesale price.
Their upholstered furniture has a national reputation, which is your assurance when buying.
If you are leaving St. Louis for the summer, this is your opportunity to select the over-stuffed and mahogany living room suite you intended purchasing on your return.
The Prufrock-Litton Company will make up the suite, odd chair or rocker in the velvet brocade or tapestry which you select and deliver it to you in September.
Their store is open on Saturday afternoon until 5 p. m. for the convenience of those couples who can only visit their displays together at that time.

SALINAS

is frequently worth its full weight in gold to man or woman. It settles the stomach, cleans out the bowels, stops a fierce headache—almost nine out of ten of them. It puts joy into life. Why not try Salinas?
Ninety per cent of us occasionally lack "nerve" and are "lifers" and most of us don't know the cause. It's the over-clogged, poison-infected stomach or bowels. Salinas corrects such conditions.
Salinas is a wonderful "salt." It's endorsed and prescribed by doctors. It's a pleasant laxative and it's so satisfactory! Your druggist has it! Order a bottle—one of three sizes. You are bound to like Salinas when you know what it does! It keeps you "in as a fiddle" and also keeps diseases away!

McCULLOCH APPLIES FOR $7500 SALARY

Also Asks for Traveling Expenses as Head of U. R. Corporate Company.

Richard McCulloch, president of the United Railways Co., filed an application today with United States Judge Faris for an order on Receiver Wells to pay McCulloch $7500 as his salary for the year from July 1, 1919, until yesterday.
McCulloch's application, filed by A. D. Norton as his attorney, also asks for $354 traveling expenses, for traveling to Atlantic City, New York and Cleveland, within the past year, in the interest of the corporation.
McCulloch was president and general manager of the company at $25,000 a year up to the time of the receivership, the application says. He continued to perform the duties of manager, under the receiver, at the same salary, from the time the receivership was decreed, April 12, 1919, until June 30 of that year, when he withdrew from active connection with the operation of the property. He continued to be president of the corporation. The directors of the corporation voted, Aug. 12, McCulloch says, to reduce his salary to $7500 a year, from July 1, 1919.
McCulloch, in his application, cites a clause in the receivership order to the effect that the receiver "shall pay, out of the funds coming into his hands, the cost of maintaining the corporate existence of the company, including salaries of such necessary corporate officers, and such office rent, as may be required, and necessary expenses for the preservation of the records of the company, also pay of necessary clerical help."

CAMPAIGN FOR CONSERVATION OF CLOTHES TO BE STARTED

Women's Organizations to Make Survey of Family Needs and Urgency of Sewing.
Conservation of clothes will be the next movement undertaken by the State Board of the High Cost of Living Campaign Committee, the members of the board decided at a meeting Wednesday at the home of its president, Mrs. John R. Leighty, 5032 Waterman avenue.
The presidents of the 22 women's organizations represented on the board were requested to call district meetings, at which an effort will be made to ascertain the average sum expended by each family for clothes, the average quantity of clothing on hand in each family, and to urge the study of textiles and the practice of efficient methods of sewing.
Expert milliners and dressmakers will be asked to attend and discuss the following subjects: Methods of sewing, use of patterns, dress construction and the making over of garments for adults and children, cleaning, pressing and dyeing clothes budget.
A resolution pledging anew the service and loyalty of members of the board to Mrs. Leighty as president was presented by Mrs. J. P. Higgins, State president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and was adopted.

MARINES WHO KILLED BANDIT GET CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL

Lieut. H. H. Henneken and Sergt. W. W. Button of St. Louis Brought Up Outlawry in Haiti.
The Congressional Medal of Honor, which is the highest award for valor awarded by the United States Government, was conferred in Washington yesterday upon two St. Louis marines, Lieut. Herman H. Henneken, 26 years old, son of William Henneken, 820 Allen avenue, and Sergt. William R. Button, 23, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Button, 4323 Manchester avenue.
The award was in recognition of their feat last Nov. 1 of killing Charlemagne Peralte, who for 18 months had terrorized the island of Hayti at the head of 15,000 bandits.
Lieut. Henneken and Sergt. Button, who hold, respectively, the rank of Captain and Lieutenant in the Haytian gendarmerie, after months of elaborate preparation, disguised themselves as natives and penetrated Charlemagne's camp, where they shot him. The death of Charlemagne broke banditry in Hayti, until now the island is virtually free from marauding.
Upon the occasion of a visit to their homes here last May 17, the Post-Dispatch published an exclusive account of the raid upon the bandit camp given by Lieut. Henneken. Scribner's Magazine for May contained a lengthy description of the St. Louisans' feat.

Express Company Receiver Asked.
ATLANTA, Ga., July 2.—A receiver was asked for the Southern Express Co. in a petition filed yesterday by the Victor-Monaghan Mills, which charged that the transfer of the express company's assets to the American Railway Express was illegal and for the purpose of escaping creditors.

THE PARADOX

Ice cream enjoys the paradoxical distinction of being classed both as a luxury and as a necessity.

Eaten alone, it is a luxury subject to taxation; as part of a meal, it is a necessity free from taxation.

In other words, it is a necessary luxury and a luxurious necessity—at least the delicious, nutritious ice cream served at CHILDS.

Pie, topped with vanilla ice cream—the end of a perfect meal.

Miss Grace Miller Woods.

Social Items

The marriage of Miss Ursula Hooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hooper of San Francisco, and Charles Chouteau Johnson will take place in San Francisco tomorrow at noon at the home of the bride's parents. A wedding breakfast will follow the ceremony. Mr. Johnson is the son of Capt. D. D. Johnson of New York and the late Mrs. Anne Chouteau Johnson. He is related to the Chouteau, Papin, and other prominent St. Louis families. He was educated at the University of Virginia, and during the war served first in the Lafayette Escadrille and later as a Captain in the Aviation Corps of the United States army. The couple will reside in San Francisco.

Miss Grace Miller Woods of Indianapolis will arrive tomorrow to be the guest for a few weeks of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Woods, of 5856 Bartmer avenue.

Mrs. William Stickney has closed her apartment at the St. Regis and is occupying the home of her sons, Arthur and Stuart Stickney, on the Country Club grounds. She will depart later in the summer for St. Andrews, N. B., after her son, Stuart Stickney, returns from Europe.

Mrs. Charles Nagel of 44 Westmoreland place will depart next week for Marlon, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Johnson of 25 Portland place departed today for Harbor Point, Mich. Their daughter, Miss Ada Johnson, who is visiting in Pittsburg, will join them in Michigan next week.

Mrs. George Horton Blackman of Southmoor entertained informally Tuesday with a tea. About 30 guests were present.

Miss Louise Elsie Waldron and her mother, Mrs. Neil A. Waldron of 5400 Pershing avenue, and grandmother, Mrs. F. H. Britton, will depart July 15 for Glenwood, Minn.

Mrs. Herman C. Stifel of 5406 Delmar boulevard is spending July and August at Gratiot Beach with her daughter, Mrs. A. F. Mengel.

Mrs. George Benham of 5858 Clemens avenue and her daughter, Mrs. Martin O'Mara of Kansas City, departed yesterday for Mitiwanga, O., where they will remain until September.

Miss Lydia Williams of 5733 Cates avenue will depart early in July for Washington Island for the summer. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Williams, will spend August with her.

Miss Marguerite Orthwein of 4387 Westminster place will depart next week for Chicago to visit her cousin, Miss Helen Helasler, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Orthwein and Miss Orthwein recently.

Mrs. Francis B. York of 8214 Washington avenue departed Wednesday for Charlevoix, Mich.

Mrs. Charles Sutter of 4 North King's highway will depart Sunday for California to visit her daughter, Mrs. William H. McCormick.

Mrs. W. R. Allen Jr. of 4516 Maryland avenue, with her family, departed last week for Charlevoix, Mich., where she has a cottage for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong of 1921 Kingsbury boulevard and their daughter will depart next week for Minneapolis to be gone several weeks.

SHOW FOREIGN WOMEN HOW TO PLAY GAMES

Y. W. C. A. Instructors Have Class Which Teaches New-comers to Amuse Themselves.

Teaching foreign-born women and girls how to amuse themselves, and how to play American games, is part of the work of the International Institute for Women and Girls conducted by the Young Women's Christian Association at 603 Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis. The work is under the supervision of Miss Selma Brewer of St. Louis, and assistants. The assistants are able to speak the native language of the women whom they instruct.

Miss Brewer has planned a party for each class of the institute, to be conducted at least once a month. This evening the Spanish-Mexican classes will have a party under the direction of Mrs. Consuelo Ellis. The institute teaches the women American habits and methods of conducting home affairs, as well as teaching them how to sew, cook and do fancy work.

The workers, Miss Brewer said, found that nearly all of the foreign women knew nothing about amusements. Occasionally they attended a picture show, church social or something of that nature, but they seldom laughed—and knew nothing about playing games.

At the parties which are conducted at the institute, the pupils, mothers and daughters, indulge in games such as American children play. They are given to understand that they are expected to forget their household cares, and give themselves over to having a good time. They are learning to converse in English, and thus are beginning to view America and Americans from a different point of view.

Miss Brewer said that at the first parties the older women sat with their hands in their laps and acted as though they never knew how to smile. These women, she said, are now the jolliest of the lot.

In some families, she said, it was necessary to overcome the opposition of husbands, who did not want their wives to become Americanized, fearing that they would neglect their homes and become extravagant, but when they learned that the instructors aided the women to become better housekeepers, better wives, better mothers, and taught them economy and the art of making things to wear, the opposition disappeared.

WIFE ATTACKS GIRL AT BEACH WITH HUSBAND

Fight Later Resumed in Office of Husband Who Is Arrested on Wife's Complaint.

Burt Frank King, 29 years old, of 5887 Minerva avenue, was arrested in his office in the Syndicate Trust Building today after a fight with his wife, who yesterday attacked a young woman whom she found with him on a Meramec River bathing beach at Fenton, St. Louis County.

As an outcome of yesterday's encounter a Police Court summons for King was issued today. Following this, about 11 a. m., policemen were called into the Syndicate Trust Building and told "something awful" was happening in King's office. They went there and found King and his wife. She said he had beaten her and he said she had struck him with her handbag. They were taken to police headquarters, where King was charged with peace disturbance.

King said his wife attacked him at Fenton yesterday when he came out of the water with a young woman he had wanted to meet there. He said there had been domestic trouble since his wife found him at a moving picture show with a young woman about a month ago.

Mrs. King said that for some time she had heard that her husband was appearing with other women, and that yesterday "some strange intuition" had led her to go to the bathing beach at Fenton. Her husband had his automobile, so she went on the Cherokee car to the end of that line, got a couple of lifts from persons going toward her destination and walked the remaining five miles to the beach.

As she walked down toward the water, she saw their automobile parked beside the road, she said,
and when she came to the beach,
there was her husband and a young woman of whom she had heard before, in the water. About 30 other bathers were within sight, she said.
"Oh, there's your wife," she said
the girl screamed.

After some conversation, Mrs. King said, she lost her temper, and, being close, she struck the girl with an umbrella.

Rushing to the girl's rescue, King struck her, Mrs. King said, to the indignation of the spectators, who, up to that time, had been enjoying the excitement, and who then interfered to stop it.

It was necessary for the girl to be in town by 6 o'clock to go to work as cashier at a cafe, Mrs. King said, so King started with her, but found upon reaching his car that some of the spectators had cut all four tires, so he had to hire another car for the girl and wait until tires could be brought out from town for his machine.

Mrs. King had numerous offers of a "lift" when she was ready to come to the city, and rode in the automobile of one of those who had sided with her in the argument. King did not come home last night, she said. He could not be reached for a statement.

BROTHER SUES TO SET ASIDE
WILL OF J. H. BARDENHEIER

Alleges Testator Had Been Adjudged of Unsound Mind Before Document Was Written.

Suit to set aside the will of John H. Bardenheier, who died May 11, leaving an estate valued at $25,000, was filed today by Charles William Bardenheier, a brother.

It is alleged John H. Bardenheier had been under the care of physicians since 1914 for a mental disorder, and that on June 24, 1919, he was adjudged of unsound mind in the Probate Court. The will was dated Dec. 27, 1918, and named another brother, Joseph A. Bardenheier, as executor without bond. A large share of the estate was bequeathed to Bardenheier's sister, Miss Clara Bardenheier, 6021 Per-shire avenue, and John E. Bardenheier, a son of Joseph Bardenheier, was made principal legatee.

The plaintiff was not mentioned in the will, and his petition requests that the document be set aside on the ground that the testator was not mentally responsible for his actions.

OPERATION ON EUGENIE'S EYE

Cataract Removed in Madrid by New Method, Restoring Sight.

MADRID, July 2.—The cataract which rendered the Empress Eugenie blind in one eye for some years, has been successfully removed. The initiative in the operation was taken by the Duke of Alba, with whom the Empress stayed here at the Palace of Iria for a few weeks.

It was performed by the Catalan doctor, Ignacio Barraquer, by a process invented by him while watching leeches at work. A small hole is scratched in the envelope of the eye, a special instrument is applied, and the cataract is sucked off.
The process is painless, and it was only when the bandage was removed and the Empress found that she could read small print that she realized that an operation had taken place and was completely successful.
The Empress Eugenie was 94 in May last.

"IRISH PARLIAMENT" CONVENES

After Secret Session Announces
$1,000,000 Loan Over-subscribed.

DUBLIN, July 2.—It became known yesterday that the "Irish Parliament" was in secret session here Tuesday and Wednesday and that decrees were passed authorizing the establishment of courts of justice and equity and courts of criminal jurisdiction. A national land commission was appointed.

It was announced that the million dollar international loan had been over-subscribed by $250,000.

CONDUCTOR CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Roland D. Souders Accused of Taking $217.40 on Kirkwood Line.

Roland D. Souders of 6534 Crest avenue, a conductor on the Kirkwood-Ferguson line, gave bond today to answer a charge of embezzlement, made in an indictment returned by the grand jury Wednesday. Souders is accused, on the testimony of "spotters" of the United Railways Co., of having taken $217.40 belonging to the company.

Henry C. Jensen, a conductor on the same line, indicted at the same time, was arrested earlier. He is charged with having taken $101.23.
The Kirkwood-Ferguson conductors collect passengers' fares and ring the fares up on registers, pay-as-you-enter cars not having been placed in service on that line.

To Avoid Staining Your Lingerie With Deodorants

Many women complain of staining their lingerie with preparations used to correct excessive perspiration. This may be avoided by discontinuing ordinary deodorants and using PRIM in their place. PRIM is a colorless liquid, harmless and transparent as distilled water, that instantly effects underarm dryness, destroys perspiration odors and which cannot stain. Most department and drug stores have PRIM, or send 50c for a large bottle, prepaid, to PRIM Laboratories, 4472 Olive St., St.
Louis.

After the Stroll

Of course, St. Louis Dairy Company's Ice Cream is always cooling and delicious, but it seems particularly so after a stroll in the warm Summer sunshine.

And although it offers endless variety, you are always sure of making a successful choice, for it is equally delightful whether it is served plain, with a sauce or crushed fresh fruit, or in one of its many delicate flavors.

Because it is made of rich pure cream, it meets both the State and Federal standard of 14% butter-fat content.

For your own protection, always be sure to ask for it by the

BED BUGS

Bedbugs (Cimex lectularius). The origin of the name bedbug is unknown, but is supposed to be naturally suggestive as it is descriptive. There are many local names for these parasites, as for illustration, around Boston they are called "Chinchies," from Baltimore comes the name "Mashiey Pies," in New York they are styled as "Red Coats," around Pittsburgh they are called "Pest Devils," in Cincinnati and the South
"Nightriders," in St. Louis and Chicago district "Crimson Ramblers," the great West "Pirites." The old saying, "A bedbug has no teeth, but they get there just the same," is correct. Instead of teeth, they possess a piercing and suckling beak to draw and rob you of your blood for their own body.

Bedbugs, no matter what you may call them, or where they came from, science has found a way to rid them if you will use faithfully the "Bed Bug Destroyer," Dettie Quince, "P. D. Q." A six ounce can makes one quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, reaches, flees, ants and beetles, and their eggs as well. It does not injure bedding, and each package contains a packet of powder to make you get them in the hard-to-get-at places. Important for Public Health wherever P. D. Q. is used. Sold by Jones & Smith, Wolff-Wilson, Johnson, Brew, Morley, Hart, etc., Louis, etc.
visit leading druggists.

Wear Mohair Suits for Supreme Comfort

Splendid Assortments of These Ideal Summer Clothes Are Featured at St. Louis' Foremost Men's Store at

$22.50 to $35.00

One hundred per cent comfort is assured in a mohair suit, and if you have not bought yours for the "Fourth," tomorrow is the day to do it. In fact, it's the last day you'll have before the "Fourth," but we are so splendidly prepared to fill your last-minute needs, that you'll find it an extremely simple matter to make your selection. These mohair suits are most carefully tailored. They are the styles preferred by both men and young men. Of course, the suits are made of Priestley's cravenette mohair, the higher priced ones being quarter-silk lined and having silk-lined sleeves. They are shown in blue, black and gray, pencil stripes, self stripes or pin checks. All sizes, including stouts, shorts and slims and extra sizes.

METHUDY SAYS WIFE EMBARRASSED HIM

Testifies Display of "Snobbishness" Led Him to Make Trips Without Her.

The divorce suit of Eugene R. Methudy, president of the Methudy Tire and Rubber Co., 3549 Lindell avenue, against Mrs. Edna Methudy, was resumed today in Circuit Judge Calhoun's court, with the plaintiff, who began testifying yesterday morning, still on the witness stand, under cross-examination.

Methudy charges that his wife's relatives interfered with his domestic affairs and referred to visits to his home at 1722 Waverly place by his wife's mother and two aunts as "board of directors' meetings." He also charges that he was "shadowed" by private detectives, who informed him that they had been promised $5000 if they could "get something" on him.

In response to questions from his wife's attorney Methudy today admitted that he had refused to pay $500 for a fur coat she had ordered. He admitted that he got excited when he saw the bill, and said that he had warned his wife several days before not to get the garment.

Conduct With "Marguerite." He denied having told his wife, three days after their marriage, that he did not love her. He also denied having offered her $5000 to divorce him. He was asked whether he had shown great interest in a woman by the name of "Marguerite," whom he and his wife met in San Francisco when they were about to sail for Honolulu on their honeymoon. He denied that his attitude toward her had made his wife jealous, and also denied that he had told his wife that he had felt braced after "Marguerite" had given him a farewell kiss before the boat sailed.

He said in response to questions, that Mrs. Methudy had not denied that she should be contented with a wife's kisses only, or that she had said that she would go crazy if he did not show more interest in her. When asked if his wife had not lost weight as a result of his lack of attention, he replied that he had not observed any change in her appearance.

Asked why he had not taken his wife on business trips, he said that he had taken her on one, but that she had so greatly embarrassed him by a display of snobbishness that he concluded to travel without her after that. He mentioned a dance at the Riverclub in September, 1919, when, he said, Mrs. Methudy refused to mix with other women, but preferred only the society of men. She acted haughtily toward the other women on that occasion, he said.

Auto Trips With Uncle. He was asked about automobile trips he took to Illinois with his uncle, the late E. C. Kehr, from whose estate he inherited about $75,000, and he denied leaving his wife at home because he had tired of her company.

He said that he had not taken her along on the trips, he said, because they were business trips and necessitated walking over plowed ground and through dense woods.

He admitted, in response to questions, that he frequently sat alone reading at home. He said that he and his wife had their favorite chairs and that he preferred to be alone when absorbed in a book. He denied having expressed a dislike for children.

In his testimony yesterday afternoon Methudy said that his wife frequently played golf at the Midland Valley Country Club with a man, and that he warned her that her association with this man was causing comment among his friends.

He admitted, under cross-examination, that he "shot" dice at the club and kept his wife waiting.

He said that, although his wife spent $115 a month for household expenses, exclusive of rent, she complained that amount would not buy "soup meat and rotten eggs."

Played Golf in Bloomers. Questions asked by Mrs. Methudy's lawyer in cross-examination of Methudy indicated that Mrs. Methudy kept a diary. Her lawyer, in referring to incidents of seemingly trifling character, specified exact dates in a period covering three or four years. His questions were framed after he had consulted a memorandum. When Methudy would answer that he was unable to recall certain incidents his lawyer would ask him if he kept a diary, to which he replied in the negative.

Methudy, in response to a question asked by his lawyer, testified that his wife wore bloomers when playing golf. He denied that he had refused to buy golf shoes for her. He said that he could not recall dates when he purchased the shoes, but that he was quite certain she never played in her bare feet.

"LOST" RINGS FOUND IN DRESSER Police Discover Jewelry That Woman Thought Had Been Stolen. Mrs. John M. Wood of 5535 Clemens avenue, wife of an attorney, called special policemen from the Page Boulevard Station to her home yesterday evening and reported the disappearance of three diamond rings valued at $900 from beneath a mattress in her bedroom, where she said she usually hid them in fear of burglars.

The policemen, finding no trace of burglars, asked permission to search the premises. In a dresser drawer in Wood's bedroom the police found the rings in a bag in which they had been kept. It developed later that Wood found the rings on a bathroom window sill, where they had been misplaced, and put them in his dresser for safekeeping, forgetting to tell his wife of the incident.

GOOD-WILL CREDIT CO.
804 NORTH BROADWAY

In 1904--16 years ago--St. Louis had 9,356 users of electric light

May 1, 1920, Union Electric Light & Power Company had 117,663 electric service customers, distributed as follows:

City of St. Louis	102,482
St. Louis county	11,768
Jefferson county	1,311
Franklin county	1,137
St. Charles county	672
Perry county	281

117,663

These figures suggest three interesting facts: First, the rapid growth of St. Louis and the St. Louis industrial district; second, the rapid growth of the electrical industry; third, the success of Union Electric, ON MERIT, in acquiring, WITH PUBLIC APPROVAL, almost the entire volume of electric service business in St. Louis and the St.
Louis industrial district.

The public has approved because Union Electric's gradual absorption of this great field of public service has meant MORE SERVICE AND BETTER SERVICE every year; good service at less cost every year until wartime operating costs halted the Company's regular yearly rate reductions, and GOOD SERVICE, STEADILY IMPROVING EVERY YEAR, AT LOWEST POSSIBLE COST, IN-CLUDING A FAIR YEARLY RETURN ON IN-VESTMENT.

Union Electric has good neighbors because Union Electric has always tried to BE a good neighbor.

Nearly 4,000 of Union Electric's customers and other friends have bought shares of its 7 per cent preferred stock. Others are daily coming in or writing in to buy shares of the issue now on sale. They know their savings invested in this business are safe, and their dividends dependable.

Issuance and sale of this stock was authorized by the State to finance growth of the Company's public service properties.

PRICE: $100 a share for cash; $102 on a ten-payment plan, under which buyers draw 5 per cent interest on installment payments, and can withdraw all payments, WITH INTEREST, any time before the final installment is paid.

SALES OFFICES: Room 201 Union
Electric Building, St. Louis, and Union Electric's offices in Franklin, Jefferson, Perry, St. Charles and St. Louis counties.

MAIL ORDERS: Bank draft, certified check, postoffice or express money order should be sent with mail orders. Prompt delivery of shares will be made by registered mail.

SUPREME COUNCIL REVIEWS REPARATION

Memorandum From Germany Indicates Further Resistance to Treaty.

By the Associated Press.
BRUSSELS, July 2.—The Supreme Allied Council met this morning at 11 o'clock and began consideration of the program to be discussed with German delegates at the meeting at Spa next week.

A very favorable impression was created in conference circles when it became known that a memorandum prepared by German experts regarding the economic situation of Germany and her ability to meet the reparation demands had been submitted to the allied governments.
The step was regarded as a maneuver intended to prepare the way for strong resistance to the execution of the treaty by the German delegation at Spa.

It also was taken as confirmation of reports from Berlin that the attitude of Konstantin Fehrenbach, German Chancellor and head of the German Spa delegation, will be that of a man who is not prepared to accept a final settlement must be based on a basis of the present economic situation of Germany without taking into account any future economic improvement.

The United States is informally represented here at the meeting of the "Traveling Peace Conference."
After having sat in the three other countries most affected by the war, it met here today in the Palais des Academies. W. C. Boyden of Chicago and Col. James A. Low are the American unofficial members.

Form of Bonds to Be Furnished by Germany Determined.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, July 2.—It is officially announced that the Reparations Commission has determined upon the form of bonds Germany must deliver pursuant to annex 2, part 8, of the Treaty of Versailles. The announcement does not disclose, however, what form this is.

The commission has also decided favorably upon the Belgian request for the delivery of brood stallions and mares, in addition to the restoration in kind of the animals removed by Germany during the war.

French, British and Italians Also Get Memorandum.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, July 2.—The memorandum submitted to the Supreme Allied Council at Brussels this morning was presented to the French, British and Italian Governments today at their respective capitals. It was signed by experts, having been drawn up for submission at the Spa conference. It is understood it tries to establish Germany's inability materially to fulfill her treaty obligations.

CLASHES BETWEEN KOREANS AND JAPANESE REPORTED

Sporadic Fighting on Northeast Border of Korea—Mission
Students Strike.

By the Associated Press.
SEOUL, Korea, June 11.—Sporadic fighting has broken out on the northeast border between Korean bandits and Japanese troops. About 20 armed Koreans attempted to force their way into the garrison at Koyodo June 4, but were repulsed. Another large force stormed the garrison on the night of the sixth but were again driven back. On the following morning Korean outlaws numbering about 20 clashed with a Japanese force at a point some 2000 meters north of Ansan but were defeated. The Japanese pursued the Koreans, when another group of Koreans, occupying a tableland in the vicinity, fired on the Japanese. They were driven off after about four hours hard resistance, leaving 24 dead and a quantity of arms and ammunition.
The Japanese casualties were 62.
The garrison commander the same day issued an order which said:
"The present Korean outbreak made it inevitable for the Japanese to enter Chinese territory since the rioters made their way into the Japanese garrisoning quarters from within Chinese territory."
The students of several of the foreign mission schools have gone on a strike. The movement is attributed to a determination on the part of the pupils to dictate the policy and conduct of the institutions.

POLISH BOND SALE TO CLOSE

Campaign for Local Quota of Loan Ends Monday.

The campaign for the sale in the St. Louis district of $500,000 in bonds of the new republic of Poland will close Monday. St. Louis' quota of $500,000 is part of the $50,000,000 loan now being floated in America directly by the Polish Government, and the entire proceeds of which,
after actual expenses are deducted, will be expended in the United States in the purchase of machinery, food and supplies with which to rehabilitate the country.

The bonds are issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500 and $1000, and bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. Both principal and interest are payable in the United States.
The bonds are being offered for sale by all the St. Louis banks, or may be obtained from the St. Louis headquarters, 1012 Cass avenue.

Dr. Carroll to Go to Texas.

The Rev. Dr. W. I. Carroll, pastor of the Washington and Common Presbyterian Church, will remove to Marshall, Tex., soon, having accepted a pastorate there. His congregation here wished to keep him, but the necessary consent was finally given at a meeting Wednesday night, because of considerations connected with the minister's health.

GRAND-LEADER

For Your Fourth of July Outing

Tennis

When your racket whirs to the tune of straight, swift balls placed just out of your opponent's reach, you know the thrill of tennis and the keen pleasure of the game. If you need a new racket or an extra supply of balls for the Fourth, the Sporting Goods Department has them.

Special at $1.75

A group of Tennis Rackets is marked at a special price that will interest tennis players. There is a variety of shapes, handles and weights. They are full size, regulation Rackets, with second-growth ash frames and good gut stringing. These Rackets are subject to slight imperfections, but these will not impair their playing qualities.

Golf

When you begin to talk in terms of "bogey" and "stance," you are initiated—you belong to the great fraternity of golf fans to whom 5 o'clock is the usual hour of rising for a round of early-morning golf.
For equipment, you will find the Sporting Goods Department a good place to select your clubs, balls and bags.

Special at $1.75

An assortment of Golf Clubs of the well-known "Burke" make is offered at a special price. There are

PRIME MINISTER BORDEN OF CANADA RETIRES

Arthur Meighen, Minister of Interior Strongly Favored as His Successor.

By the Associated Press.
OTTAWA, Ont., July 2.—Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada, definitely announced his retirement from public life at a general caucus of Unionists here last night and his decision was regrettably accepted by the caucus. No definite appointment of a successor has been made.

The caucus also decided to form a new party under the name of the National Liberal and Conservative Party.

Although Sir Robert has been in failing health, there was a strong general desire for him to retain his post.

A canvass of the caucus showed that sentiment strongly favored Arthur Meighen, Minister of the Interior, as Sir Robert's successor.

He represents in Parliament the District of Portage La Prairie, Manitoba, and is the youngest member of the Government, being 44 years old.

Another possible leader mentioned is Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance.

The political career of Sir Robert Borden began in 1896, when he entered the House of Commons as a conservative, member from Halifax. Later, he became leader of the conservatives in the Canadian Parliament, and in 1911, succeeded Sir Wilfrid Laurier as Premier.

Largely through Sir Robert's efforts, Canada sent 420,000 soldiers overseas.

Observers of the day's developments were of the opinion last night that the caucus will be recorded as one of the most momentous and significant in the Federal history of Canada.

The choice of a new name for the party provided as much discussion as did the Premier's retirement. The caucus finally agreed on "National Liberal and Conservative Party," which was sponsored by J. A. Calder, Minister of Immigration and Colonization. It will be commonly known as the National Party.

Sir Robert has promised to retain his seat in the House and to support his successor to the best of his ability. Among the Cabinet members there is also an agreement to stand firmly by the man who is ultimately named by the whole of the Government supporters.

The resignation of the Prime Minister, which is soon to be placed in the hands of the Governor-General, will necessarily be accompanied by that of all members of his Cabinet.

WAR RISK BUREAU ISSUES NEW REINSTATEMENT RULES

Applications Made Before Jan. 1, 1921, Require Two Months' Premiums.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 2.—A ruling defining new conditions under which lapsed or cancelled war risk insurance policies may be reinstated by former service men and women has been issued by the War Risk Insurance Bureau.

Under the ruling applications for reinstatement made within 18 months of discharge, and prior to Jan. 1, 1921, need only be accompanied by two months' premiums, and a statement that the applicant is in as good health as on the date of the discharge or resignation. No medical examination is required.

After Jan. 1, 1921, and until July 1, 1921, in cases where insurance lapsed or was cancelled prior to July 1, 1920, regardless of length of time since discharge, the applicant must forward two months' premiums, and also the report of a full medical examination made by a licensed physician at the applicant's expense.

Insurance lapsing or cancelled after July 1, 1920, may be reinstated on statement of physical condition within three months; after three months and within six months the application for reinstatement must be accompanied by a short medical examination certificate, and after six months, and within 18 months, by a full medical examination certificate. In all cases two months' premiums must accompany the application.

HOMES FOR CHILDREN WANTED

Children's Aid Society Seeks to Place Number of Boys and Girls.

An appeal was made today for boarding homes for St. Louis children by the Children's Aid Society. Homes are needed for babies under one year of age, and also for a number of older children. Among the latter is a lame girl, 12 years of age, for whom a home is wanted for an indefinite period, and another is a boy of 13, who is convalescing after an illness at a hospital.

Homes for the children are wanted in responsible private families, and their board will be paid, and clothing supplied by the Children's Aid Society. Anyone willing to take a child is asked to apply at society headquarters, eighth floor, Columbia Building, Eighth and Locust streets.

POLICE SEEKING MISSING MAID

"Amy" Disappeared Yesterday With Clothing Valued at $275.

Mrs. Max Broad, 5510 Pershing avenue, yesterday asked the police to search for her new maid whom she employed last Tuesday. She was known as "Amy" and is described as a blonde.

Mrs. Broad on returning from a visit to friends yesterday learned Amy had disappeared in her absence. Three dresses valued at $200 and lingerie valued at $75 were gone also. Mrs. Broad said she would pay a reward for the arrest of Amy and the recovery of her clothes.

Shall Poland Live?

POLAND'S dream of centuries is realized. The Polish Republic is established. The Polish people are free and independent.

The question before the world is whether or not the Polish people are to meet the obligations of independence—whether or not they are strong enough to defend their freedom against aggression.

Poland must have money—NOW. Five times during the World War armies crossed and recrossed her domain. She needs the money to rehabilitate her devastated country. She has enormous natural resources and great industries, but she must have money IMMEDIATELY to build up the machinery of production and to purchase necessary supplies.

The people in Poland are fighting the world's battle against Bolshevism. But the fight is not confined to Poland. Bolshevistic and communistic agents in the United States are spreading insidious propaganda to prevent the sale of Polish bonds. They have tried to array Pole against Pole in America. You, sons of Poland, must choose the Motherland or her enemies. You have but one choice.

Your Motherland is not begging for charity. She is offering you $50,000,000, 6 per cent, twenty-year gold bonds, pledging all her enormous resources as security.

The Honorable Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State of the United States, says:

"The United States looks with sympathy upon Poland's efforts to re-establish her industries and make a place for herself among the producing nations of the world. Material aid for legitimate development will constitute a most effective pledge of America's interest in the new republic."

His Eminence, James Cardinal Gibbons, who has himself subscribed to the Loan, says:

"The Polish Loan is deserving of our hearty support. It is a practical way for Polish Americans to show warm attachment for the land of their birth. I wish it a complete success. The new Polish Republic deserves the hearty sympathy and support of America and all friends of freedom and justice."

Whether Poland is to live depends on you, her sons and the sons of her sons in America. It is YOU to whom the Motherland appeals.

Answer, You Poles of America— "Shall Poland Live?"

A Peculiar Thing About the A B C

No other machine does it, yet it is the greatest washing advantage in any washer you could buy. It explains the secret of gentle but thorough washing of the A B C Super Electric.

It is the reversing of the cylinder at every revolution, which gives the greatest agitation with the least wear.

Women have always wanted a washer that would do a washing without any hand rubbing, and do it quickly. The A B C does it that way exactly.

Visit either of our stores and see for yourself that this washing principle combines all the best features in washing machines.

HARDING TO GO BY AUTO TO OHIO FOR CELEBRATION

Will Leave Washington Tomorrow With Mrs. Harding, Reaching Marion Monday.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 2.—Warren G. Harding, the Republican presidential candidate, will go by automobile to Marion, O., where on Monday he will attend a home-coming celebration in his honor.

Accompanied by Mrs. Harding, he will leave here tomorrow morning and expects to reach Marion soon after noon on Monday.

Part of the trip will be made over the Lincoln Highway, but the exact itinerary was withheld. Senator Harding said that in deciding to motor to his home, he and Mrs. Harding were following a custom they had practiced ever since he has been in the Senate.

In order that the candidate may get as much rest as possible, a leisurely trip will be made with several stops en route.

The Senator's office force will go to Marion by train.

LACLEDE COMPANY OFFERS GAS TO CITY AT 85 CENTS

City Would Have to Bear Maintenance Costs Under Proposed Contract.

The Laclede Gas Light Co., through its vice president, George B. Evans, today submitted a proposition to furnish gas for city street lighting at 85 cents for 1000 cubic feet after Sept. 1, next, when the city's lighting contract with the Welsbach Street Lighting Co. expires.

Under the existing contract, the city pays $5.62 for each 1000 lamp hours, or a total of about $750,000 a year. The service is furnished by the Laclede Gas Light Co. as sub-contractor. The service includes lighting and maintenance of the lamps and globes.

The new proposition by the gas company is that this lighting and maintenance expense must be borne by the city. The gas company asks that a tentative one-year contract for gas at 85 cents for 1000 cubic feet be entered into, subject to the action of the State Public Service Commission in fixing rates. A valuation of the gas company's property, to be made by the commission, will be the basis of the rates to be fixed.

The proposition to the city stipulates that if, during the life of the one-year contract the commission should fix a rate lower than 85 cents a thousand the company would refund the difference to the city. If a rate higher than 85 cents should be fixed the city would pay the higher rate.

Director Hooke said the 85 cent rate offered by the company would call for about the same expenditure as is now made for street lighting and lamp maintenance, but that increasing cost of labor might cause additional expense to the city. If it should be required to light and maintain the lamps, he said he would recommend that the city accept the proposition.

EXTRADITION OF OPLE, CLYNE AND MILLER APPLIED FOR

Governor of Illinois Seeks Men Arrested in St. Louis in Connection With Granite City Killing.

Word reached Edwardsville today that Gov. Lowden of Illinois had sent a request to Gov. Gardner of Missouri for the extradition of Joseph J. Ople, Leo Clyne and Earl Miller, under arrest in St. Louis, in connection with the killing of Clarence W. Turner, growing out of the strike at the St. Louis Coke and Chemical Co. in Granite City on May 20.

Ople has been identified as the driver of the larger of two automobiles from which shots which struck Turner were fired into a group of strikers. Miller and Clyne are private detectives in the employ of Ople's Interstate Syndicate Employers' Secret Service.

It is expected that Lieutenant-Governor Crossley will act on the request in the absence of Gov. Gardner, who is in San Francisco.

Former United States District Attorney Houts, in the Court of Criminal Correction today, asserted it was unfair to hold Ople and Miller without bond, and said he was prepared to furnish bond up to $100,000 for them. The State objected and Judge Krueger refused to accept bail.

HEMMELMANN APPROVED AS APPRAISER OF U. R. PROPERTY

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today approved the appointment of Theodore Hemmelmann of 3227 Hawthorne boulevard to place a valuation on the lands and buildings owned by the United Railways Co. in St. Louis.

The appointment was recommended by the Board of Public Service. Hemmelmann is to receive $1000 for his services and in addition he will receive $50 for each day he is a witness before the State Public Service Commission, which also is making a valuation of United Railways property.

The city's independent valuation is to be made as a check on the State's valuation and as a basis for the city's presentation of its argument in future street car fare adjustments.

FRENCH AMBASSADOR AND WIFE GUESTS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 2.—President and Mrs. Wilson entertained informally at luncheon yesterday Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand, who will sail Saturday for France for the summer. It was the first time since the President was taken ill last September that a member of the Diplomatic Corps has been entertained at the White House.

After receiving word that the Democratic convention had adjourned until 8 p. m., San Francisco time, the President and Mrs. Wilson went for an automobile ride.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Manager Burke made an eleventh-hour shift in his battle plans here today and sent Urban Shocker to the firing line against Gleason's White Sox instead of nominating Carl Weismann. The Browns' right-hander was opposed by Claude Williams, who now boasts a string of 15 victories. Severeid and Schalk were the catchers. It was another hot day and only 4000 fans turned out.

FIRST INNING.
BROWNS—Ed Collins batted this period. He threw out Tobin. Gedeon and Seiser. NO RUNS.
CHICAGO—Jacobson pulled down Liebold's fly. Ed Collins hoisted to Gedeon in short right. Severeid got Weaver's easy fly. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.
BROWNS—Jacobson lined to Jacobson. Liebold dropped K. Williams' line drive after a long chase and it went for a double. Ganche singled to left, counting K. Williams. Severeid smashed to Weaver and both runners were safe when Ed Collins muffed Weaver's throw to force Gerber. Thompson hoisted to Ed Collins. Shocker fanned. ONE RUN.
CHICAGO—Jacobson, lofted to K. Williams. Shocker tossed out Felch. J. Collins lined to Jacobson. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.
BROWNS—Tobin singled to center. He was forced by Gedeon. Ed Collins to Rieberg. Sier fanned. Jacobson hoisted to Felch. NO RUNS.
CHICAGO—Jacobson took Rieberg's fly. Schalk beat out a punt to Thompson. C. Williams sacrificed. Severeid to Sier. Liebold lined to Jacobson. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.
BROWNS—Jacobson took K. Williams' liner. Gerber dropped a single back of first. Severeid singled to right, putting Gerber on third. Severeid stole second, while Williams was holding the ball. A wild pitch scored Gerber and put Severeid on third. Thompson walked. Rieberg grabbed Shocker's grounder and pegged to Ed Collins too late to nip Thompson. Ed Collins threw home and Severeid was safe when Schalk muffed the ball. Tobin doubled to right, scoring Thompson. Gedeon fanned. Sier walked, filling the bases. Jacobson flied to Rieberg. THREE RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.
CHICAGO—Gedeon and Sier retired Ed Collins. Weaver singled past Gerber. Gedeon made a great stop of Jacobson's grounder back of first and threw him out. Felch walked. J. Collins flied to Jacobson. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.
BROWNS—Shocker trotted. Tobin forced Shocker. Ed Collins to Rieberg. Tobin was out stealing. Schalk to Rieberg. Schalk grabbed Gedeon's foul in front of the St. Louis dugout. NO RUNS.
CHICAGO—Williams got J. Collins' long fly. Rieberg walked. Schalk grounded to Thompson, who threw too late to catch Rieberg at

HENLEY REGATTA EVENTS

HENLEY, England, July 2.—American oarsmen in the Henley regatta yesterday lost two pluckily fought contests. The eight-oared crew of the Union Boat Club of Boston was beaten by the eight of Jesus College, Cambridge, in the second heat for the Grand Challenge Cup, and the four-oared crew of the Union Boat Club was vanquished by T. M. Nussey of King's College, Cambridge, in the preliminary heat for the Diamond Sculls. American participation in the regatta is thus reduced to the four-oared race for the Steward and Challenge Cup and the eight-oared event for the Thames Challenge Cup.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON IS PLEASED WITH SHAMROCK

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 2.—The new topmast rig devised by Designer Charles E. Nicholson has been set on the Shamrock IV, which is giving some indication of the great spread of canvas she will carry aloft when she sails forth in two weeks to try to life the America's cup, defended by Resolute. It is in all appearance the Marconi rig used on the 22-masted trial horse, but Designer Nicholson seems to have avoided collision with the rule against employing the Marconi rig by the way he has placed his top mast blocks.

The Shamrock IV yesterday was given a short spin under her new racing rig. The new rig allows the yacht to point higher. All sails set much better during the brief trial and Sir Thomas Lipton, said it was highly pleased with the tryout.

PRINCETONIANS TAKE

HEATS IN PRELIMINARY

GAMES WITH OXONIANS

STAMFORD BRIDGE, England, July 2.—Princeton's athletes, in England to engage Oxford in a dual event, today began their preliminary heats of the events in the British Amateur Athletic Association championships, for which the Americans entered.

In the preliminaries of the 220-yard run Randolph Brown won his heat in 23 seconds. He was followed by D. Clark, Princeton, won his heat in 23 seconds.

In the final of the 16-pound weight lift, Paul of France, was first with 43 feet 10 inches. Second was William Thompson of Princeton, second with 43 feet 6 inches, and C. D. Halsey of Princeton, third with 42 feet 8 inches.

R. G. D. Rudd of Oxford, the noted South African runner, won his heat of the half-mile in 1 minute 59 seconds.

The final in the quarter-mile hurdles was won by the Princeton team of Surrey, who beat Adams of Princeton by four yards. The time was 57 2-5 seconds.

In the second round of the 220-yard dash Brown of Princeton won his heat in 23 1-5 seconds. Clark of Princeton was eliminated.

UNION BOAT CLUB CREW

LOSES AGAIN AT HENLEY

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 2.—Magdalen College, Oxford, defeated the four of the Union Boat Club of Boston in their heat today for the Steward Challenge Cup. The regatta here, Magdalen won by three lengths. The time was 8 minutes 41 seconds.

I. A. C. Swimmers Favored.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Swimmers representing the Illinois A. C. are favorites for honors in the Central A. A. U. swimming and water polo championships tomorrow. The polo aquatics which won the national title by one point from the Olympic Club of San Francisco, is expected to win the championship.

Army Athletes in Four-Day Trials

For Olympic Meet

First U. S. Championships Will Serve as Test in Four Athletic Branches.

United States soldier-athletes, representing every camp and garrison of the Government, from Manila Bay to Coblenz-on-the-Rhine, will start this afternoon their four-day competition for the U. S. Army championships in all branches of athletic endeavor. The meet will be opened at Francis Field at 2:30 p. m. when the track and field performers start their activities with seven heats in the 100-yard dash. Jumpers, runners and weight men will be continuously in action for two and one-half hours, afternoons' competition winding up with the finish of the marathon race which is expected at 5 p. m.

Tonight the wrestlers and boxers will have their first opportunities, this evening's program being in the nature of elimination bouts in all classes of both the mat and ring sports. The wrestlers will occupy the stage at the foot of Art Hill in Forest Park from 7 to 8 p. m. after which the boxers will begin the attraction.

The wrestling, boxing and track championships will be continued tomorrow afternoon and Monday. Tomorrow afternoon, the swimmers get their first opportunities with the holding of the preliminaries at the Marquette Pool. On Sunday evening the tank performers who survive tomorrow's contests will strive for the finals.

Besides serving as the first annual Army athletic championships, these sets of games also will be the basis for a selection of service men for the Olympic team, which will represent the Stars and Stripes at Antwerp, next month. The athletes who win here will compete in final tryouts with civilians who have won in the sectional competitions.

This afternoon's track meet will probably bring 200 athletes on the track, jumping pits and weight circles. They are the representatives from every department in the United States.

The American Army of Occupation in Germany, and detachments from Hawaii, Panama, and the Philippines are represented. About 40 of the contestants are officers who at some time or other have engaged in varsity competitions and are the wearers of college letters.

The 100 and 220 yard events have drawn the largest entries. Over 400 runners will engage in the seven preliminary heats of the two sprints this morning. About eight of this number are reported to have done the century dash in even time.

Stars in High Hurdle.

Another interesting event this afternoon will be the 120-yard high hurdle trial heats. Four entrants in this contest are former college stars and each has done better than 15 4-5 while running as undergraduates. They are Lieut. Stroull, Kansas University; Capt. C. J. Smith, University of Washington; Lieut. Trenholm, Dartmouth; and E. C. Welsh, Syracuse.

Only three runners will start the marathon race, over 26 miles, 255 yard course. The trio are from the Southern Department, two of them being new to the army. It was announced by the athletic authorities that the marathon results would not be included in the final tally for the department championship.

The course will be from Jefferson Barracks to Washington University, a distance of 14 miles. Contestants will run six miles around the barracks, track before taking to the course and run 13 1-2 laps around the Parkway track after reaching Francis Field.

Their course will be as follows: North on Broadway to Loughborough, west through Garondale Park to Grand, north to Gravois, west to Kings Highway, north to Lindell west to Francis Field.

The wrestlers will occupy the stage at the foot of Art Hill in Forest Park from 7 to 8 p. m. after which the boxers will begin the attraction.

The wrestling, boxing and track championships will be continued tomorrow afternoon and Monday. Tomorrow afternoon, the swimmers get their first opportunities with the holding of the preliminaries at the Marquette Pool. On Sunday evening the tank performers who survive tomorrow's contests will strive for the finals.

Games Are Olympic Tryouts.

Besides serving as the first annual Army athletic championships, these sets of games also will be the basis for a selection of service men for the Olympic team, which will represent the Stars and Stripes at Antwerp, next month. The athletes who win here will compete in final tryouts with civilians who have won in the sectional competitions.

This afternoon's track meet will probably bring 200 athletes on the track, jumping pits and weight circles. They are the representatives from every department in the United States.

Summit Hill Golfer Finishes Fifth With 308, Behind Duncan, 303, in British Open.

PLAYS POORLY ON GREENS

Missed Putts Costly to St. Louis "Pro" — Walter Hagen Takes 329 Strokes.

By Walter Hagen.

Open Golf Champion, United States. LONDON, July 2.—George Duncan won the open golf championship of Great Britain over the wind-blown links yesterday afternoon with the brilliant score of 292, while Jim Barnes, who was a great fight for the United States, was five strokes away, with 308, where he was tied for fifth place with L. Holland, who finished with 308.

The least said is soonest mended. My golf was still bad, but I must now await another occasion with the hope of doing better. For the sake of the record, my total for the 72 holes was 329—just 26 strokes behind George Duncan.

Mr. Mitchell, who led the fight at the end of the 36 holes on the first day, went all to pieces, and with 160 for the double round, finished fourth with 307. His downfall was tragic, as he appeared nervous at the start, and after missing up the first three holes, he took an eight on the fifth and absolutely spoiled his score, and, as a result, he was out, killed his chance for the title.

Golf is uncertain over this course, as luck plays a big part in the scoring. Mitchell was one of the victims. Barnes has had breaks. Jim Barnes really did himself in, and at the fifth hole yesterday morning was actually in the lead, with a royal chance to carry off the honors. After that things began to go wrong. He overplayed the green at the seventh hole, and, going to the eighth, landed in ground under the hole, but was allowed to lift without penalty. He missed a three-foot putt on the sixteenth green, and another of the same kind at the seventeenth, thus losing two strokes which he counted heavily. He really picked up one at the eighteenth by running down a 25-foot putt from the edge of the green.

Jim continued his good play in the fourth round and went out in 37, still with a great chance to win, but the rain came on and the wind increased in force, and, bothered by both, he needed 41 to come back from a total of 13 and a grand total of 308.

His card today was as follows:
Barnes—(Third round):
Out.....4 5 3 4 4 5 3 5—37
In.....4 4 4 4 5 5 5 4—40—77
Barnes—(Fourth round):
Out.....4 5 3 5 3 3 3 6—37
In.....4 5 5 4 4 5 4 5—41—78

Duncan in Wonderful Form. George Duncan, who was 13 strokes behind when play began yesterday morning, rose to great heights, and with two brilliant rounds of 71 and 72 for a total of 143, fought his way to the front and earned the high honor of being the power of his fighting spirit and the power, too, of the soundest kind of golf.

His victory was popular, as he had had many chances, and now has established a lifelong ambition, after being counted out by the critics last year.

"Buddy" Herd, now 55 years of age, deserves particular credit for finishing second with 305. He was the only one of the old guard to stick it out, as Harry Vardon, J. H. Taylor and James Braid, among others, champions of the past and great players, too, were forced to give way to the younger school.

Cril Tolley, the amateur champion, who beat our own Bob Gardner at the thirty-seventh green in the final round for the amateur title, was tied down the list, with me. His total was 324. Armand Massey of France also had a stormy time and wound up with 324.

The leading scores follow:

JAMES HOLLAND WINS JUNIOR MARATHON RUN. James Holland, 15 years old, a member of the Yastman High School track team yesterday afternoon won the Junior Marathon held in connection with the Tuberculosis Society benefit at Sportsman's Park. Holland led the field of about 600 boys, making the distance from Central High School to Sportsman's Park and once around the field in 3 minutes. Gordon Hathaway of Cleveland High School finished second, 3 seconds behind Holland.

Paul Maschoff of Kirkwood landed second place, Anthony Keller fourth, Harry Richards fifth, John Mooney sixth and Milton Kierlin seventh. Other loving cups were presented to Maschoff, seven to finish and bronze medals to the 13 next to cross the finish line.

It was the fifth annual running of the event and because of the heat was a shortened course.

Robinson to Play Banks. PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—D. P. Robinson Jr., Harvard, and L. M. Banks, Yale, were the winners in the final round of the Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis Tournament yesterday at Merion. They will meet in the championship round Saturday. Robinson won from Edmond Levy, University of California 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, while Banks defeated Kirk Reid, Cornell 2-6, 6-4.

Kingscote and Parke to Meet Williams and Garland in Final Defeat of Tilden and Johnston by U. S. Second-String Doubles Team Still Subject of British Comment—Mlle. Lenglen Again Wins Women's Honors.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2.—A. F. R. Kingscote and J. C. Parke, the British Davis cup players, will meet C. S. Garland and R. Norris Williams II, the American pair, in the finals in doubles in the British lawn tennis championship tournament now nearing its close here. The Americans won their semi-final yesterday from the other American pair, Johnston and Tilden. Today Kingscote and Parke, in the other semi-final, defeated P. M. Dawson and T. M. Mavrogordato, another British pair, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

In the third round of the ladies' doubles Suzanne Lenglen and Miss Ryan of California beat Miss Monac and Miss K. McKane, 6-3, 6-3. In the semifinals of the mixed doubles, Patterson and Mlle. Lenglen beat A. E. Beamish and Mrs. Beamish in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4. In the other match of the mixed doubles semi-final, Randolph Lycett and Miss Ryan of California beat the South African, B. I. C. Norton, and Mrs. Larcombe, 6-3, 6-4.

By Herbert L. Bourke.

LONDON, July 2. THE unexpected again cropped up in the semi-final round of the doubles in the world's championship lawn tennis tournament at Wimbledon yesterday. "Big Bill" Tilden and "Little Bill" Johnston were beaten by their compatriots, R. Norris Williams and Charles S. Garland, in a five-set match, the score in favor of the latter reading 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2.

I sincerely hope it may not be serious, but following the victory of Tilden over Zeno Shimidzu in the final round of the singles, Wednesday, I heard that the American had suffered a knee strain. Tilden's play in the doubles yesterday afternoon appeared to support this. On a number of occasions he was cautious on his feet, and occasionally limped slightly, while letting a number of balls go by as if he did not care to run any risk in view of his match in the change round with Gerald R. Patterson, tomorrow.

Johnston and Tilden were counted on to win easily after their brilliant display against the Frenchmen, but this surprising match went the other way, while fully 10,000 lovers of the sport looked on. The result created a sensation, but I hardly think it will change the plans of the American team for the Davis cup matches. Any effort to diagnose this sensational result is very difficult. But much of it was due to Garland's striking and really splendid form. He was fast and steady, and yesterday at least was the best of the four. Some of his ground strokes across court to the far corners were magnificent, and I have never seen him volley with greater crispness and precision, no matter how hard the returns came.

This youthful player can go to great heights on the court if he continues to improve as he has since he arrived here. Johnston and Tilden were so superior in the first set that the play seemed to lack seriousness. Williams was erratic and made a number of double faults. Then a Dramatic Change. They led at 3-1 in the second set and then came a dramatic change. They began getting in each other's way and poaching on each other's territory, and altogether their game slackened to comparative quiet. Garland began making brilliant returns and finally finished off the set at 6-4 with a glorious stroke. Williams and Garland kept their good work in the third set and won easily, whereupon Johnston and Tilden, realizing that they had a hard task than expected, settled down to something approaching their real form. Tilden's game had more bite and between them they won a 6-4 and so squared the match at two sets each.

Johnston made a great effort to pull out the fifth set, but Tilden, although clever at times, was decidedly uneven and appeared to be perturbed as Williams and Garland, driving hard and placing well, led at 4-1 on games.

Tilden tried to smile away his troubles, while Johnston looked serious. Nothing, however, could save the situation and as the winning

LONDON, July 2. I WAS told yesterday on good authority that Gerald R. Patterson will not play in the United States this year unless he is beaten in the challenge round on Saturday. I am also told that Norman E. Brookes has decided to stay in Australia this summer and consequently it will not be possible for Patterson and Brookes to defend their title as doubles champions of the United States.

stroke came for Williams and Garland, Tilden and Johnston rushed up and vigorously congratulated the victors.

Mlle. Lenglen Easy Winner. Mlle. Lenglen, the brilliant girl player of France, won the women's championship in singles for the second year in succession by defeating Mrs. Lambert Chambers at 6-3, 6-0.

Mason Concedes Weight and Beats Patsy Flannigan. Flyweight Champion Gives Many Pounds and a Boxing Lesson to Local Bantam.

By John E. Wray.

Frankie Mason put everything he had behind a vicious offensive against Patsy Flannigan, on the East St. Louis front, last night; but although a knockout was the palpable objective of the flyweight ring champion, his big push came to a standstill after 10 rounds of fighting, without his main purpose having been accomplished. At the final gong Patsy was still there, a trifle tired, anxious, winded and bleeding from minor cuts, but otherwise unharmed.

Mason won every round of the fight and gave the St. Louis boy a complete boxing lesson throughout. He showed him a bewildering array of tricks, feints both of body and hands, and generalship supreme. He gave an exhibition that delighted those followers of the ring who see purpose behind a fighter's moves; but, sad to say, 1500 fans did not think much of his display, because Mason did not make a slaughterhouse of the ring. Outside of some solid and clean-cut rights to the head, which shook Flannigan, Mason did no particular damage. He scored no knockdown, nor did he daze his foe. The knockout apparently is not there. Flannigan was tired from the rough going at the close, but apparently was never near a "kayo."

Flannigan Played It Safe. Flannigan fought a perfectly safe and sane fight. From the beginning, seeing that he could not beat Mason, he beat a retreat—continuously. He incensed in front of the insistent foe and, when cornered, folded up in an armor of arms and gloves through which Mason could only occasionally shoot an effective blow. Patsy now and then, while fleeing, would lead with his left, but there was nothing but hope back of it as he was too intent on getting out of the danger zone to consider landing. During the fight Flannigan awoke aggressively two or three times and connected solidly with Mason's head. But the effect was negligible.

Better Showing Than Asher. At that Flannigan's fight was a better one than Babe Asher made against the flyweight title holder due, however, to Patsy's safety-first style of milling. As a test of fighting ability the bout meant little except that

Better Showing Than Asher. At that Flannigan's fight was a better one than Babe Asher made against the flyweight title holder due, however, to Patsy's safety-first style of milling. As a test of fighting ability the bout meant little except that

Patsy was a master at keeping his gloves in front of his jaw and at stepping backward in record time. At times the crowd appealed to Patsy to turn and "show his Irish." But Patsy, whose real name, according to Harry Uhlensmyer, resembles Wunderbaldinger more nearly than Flannigan, did not pause in his Parthian fighting tactics. His possibilities on the offensive still remain a secret, on his showing last night.

The bout was held by the Century A. C. under a big canvas on Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, and the downpour of rain dripped through the canvas into the ring during the bouts.

The ring was so poorly padded that when Ivan Candler slammed Kid Myers in the second round of their semi-final bout, Myers fell, striking his head on the floor for a knockout. The floor did it, not Candler. Myers was so dazed when he arose that Referee Walter Heiser stopped the bout.

Willie Colonna, fat and rotund, put up a game bout against Young Dundee. Although his left eye was badly disarranged, Colonna's experience gained him a slight shade.

LATONIA ALLOTTED 46 DAYS OF FALL RACING

CINCINNATI, July 2.—Forty-six days of fall racing were allotted by the Kentucky Racing Association at a meeting held at Latonia race track yesterday. Lexington will open the fall season Sept. 13, with a seven-day meet. Latonia is given 28 days beginning Sept. 29 and Churchill Downs (Louisville), 11 days, Nov. 2 to 12.

Tilden May Have To Default Match For British Title

Wrenched Knee May Compel Him to Withdraw From Challenge Round.

NEW YORK, July 2.—A private cable dispatch received here late today from London indicates that William T. Tilden may default to Gerald Patterson in the challenge round at Wimbledon, England, tomorrow. The cable received at the offices of the National Lawn Tennis Association was signed by Samuel Hardy of Chicago, captain and manager of the American Davis cup tennis team, and read:

"Tilden knee wrenched; may default Saturday; surely playing Davis cup."

As the American team was sent to England primarily to play in the Davis cup matches, which open July 3, the executive committee of the U. S. Tennis Association therefore decided to notify both Hardy and Tilden not to play tomorrow if in their opinion such competition would endanger the loss of Tilden's services in the Davis cup matches.

FEWER THAN 200 CARPENTERS ON STRIKE

Secretary of District Council Says Most Contractors Have Granted $10 Scale.

William M. Davis, secretary of the Carpenters' District Council, said today that fewer than 200 union carpenters were on strike as a result of the refusal of the Master Builders' Association to grant their demand for a wage increase from $8 to $10 for an eight-hour day. Davis said yesterday that he did not believe the strike would involve more than 400 or 500 carpenters, as contractors not affiliated with the Master Builders' Association had agreed to pay the new scale.

On the other hand, Frank C. Boyd, secretary of the Master Builders' Association, said that at least 1000 carpenters were idle as a result of the wage controversy. Boyd repeated that the bulk of the independent building contractors of St. Louis were guided by the Master Builders' Association and had agreed to stand by the organization in its refusal to pay the men more than $8 a day. He said that offer had been withdrawn after its rejection by the union, but that there is yet a possibility of its being allowed if the union is willing to accept it.

Boyd said that in the last six months plans involving $15,000,000 worth of contemplated building work had been held up by the prospective owners on account of the excessive cost of construction.

When the city passed its wage standardization bill last April the measure provided for the payment of $10 a day to carpenters after June 30. This was done after Chairman Charles H. Hartenstein of the Efficiency Board had reported that he had verified the statement of union officials that a majority of the building contractors of St. Louis had agreed to pay the increased scale.

About 40 carpenters employed on 80 houses being erected in various parts of the city by the Home and Housing Association struck yesterday. General Manager Cuniff said the association offered to compromise with the carpenters on the basis of $9 for the 8-hour day, but that the offer was refused. He said that in a few days it will be necessary to lay off the workmen of other crafts now employed on the houses.

PRIEST, CENSURED BY BISHOP FOR HIS UTTERANCES, RESIGNS

Father Scoglio of Waterbury, Conn., Expresses Views on Strikes and Profiteering.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WATERBURY, Conn., July 2.—Censured by Bishop John J. Nihil for giving expression to his views on the brassworkers' strike, the Rev. Felix Scoglio of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, has forwarded his resignation to the Bishop.

Father Scoglio, a young priest born in this country of Italian parents, has occupied the limelight here since two weeks ago when he refused to allow the body of a man killed in the strike to be taken into the church of Our Lady of Lourdes or buried in consecrated ground.

Later, his decision relative to the burial place was reversed and the body was interred in sacred ground in St. John's Cemetery.

Father Scoglio was acting pastor of the Italian church. Most of the adult male parishioners of the church are on strike. Father Scoglio, in a frankly written letter to the press, said the strikers had no reason to complain of the wages paid them. He then incurred the displeasure of merchants and landlords by referring to them as "profiteers who, in their greed for gold, possibly cannot attain a higher degree of vice."

OLDEST FIREMAN IN YEARS AND SERVICE IS RETIRED

The oldest fireman in years and service of the St. Louis department retired yesterday and will receive a pension of $50 a month.

He is Adam Newman of 1154 North Leonard avenue, who is 85 years old. He first began his service in the department on Oct. 24, 1857, and since has served 53 years, 8 months and 29 days. His service was continuous from the date of his entry to the present except for the period between March 31, 1865, and March 9, 1872, and was active until 1896. Since then he has been a night watchman at various fire stations. It is said that he organized the St. Louis Firemen's Mutual Benefit Association, now a thriving organization.

TEMPORARY 12TH STREET DRIVE

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today instructed Street and Sewer Commissioner Talbot to build a temporary roadway for four blocks between Chouteau avenue and Park avenue along the line of the new Twelfth street driveway.

This temporary road will be of concrete and 56 feet wide. The cost, $115,000, is to be taken out of the Street Department's funds. The permanent Twelfth street roadway will be 100 feet wide.

STORM NEAR EDWARDSVILLE IS DESTRUCTIVE TO CROPS

Wheat Levelled, Fruit Trees Stripped and Damage Is Done by Lightning.

A destructive wind and rain storm passed over Edwardsville, Ill., last night about 10 o'clock, accompanied by severe lightning.

Farmers of Madison County today are reporting the destruction of much uncultured wheat which was leveled. A large number of fruit trees were blown down and much of the fruit on standing trees was stripped from the branches.

The north and south brick walls of the three-room Moro School in Edwardsville were blown in, causing damage estimated at $1000. Lightning killed three cows on the farm of Joseph Mauche near Edwardsville, and set fire to four straw stacks on Mauche's and adjoining farms. Lightning struck in the yard of Louis Schmidt, and observers, thinking the house had been struck, turned in an alarm of fire.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Another One Is "Through."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 A "Native American Republican" is good. It suggests that Americanism, better yet, "Native Americanism" and Republicanism, are one and the same, inseparable and indivisible, or possibly the idea is that we got our politics just as we do our nativity: "We are born that way."

This is exactly what suits the Old Guard. They want men whose partisanship is so raw, so rank, so bitter that they cease to function as human beings. They can no longer think. They go to the polls exactly as a bunch of sheep to the slaughter. They vote for anyone or anything simply because they are "Republican." If the self-appointed guardians of Americanism decide that the keynote of the party is to be the battle hymn of hate, they join right in and sing away to the top of their voice just the same as if they were getting $2500 apiece for it. If instead of "Gott strafe England," they are told to "damn Wilson," away they go with the monotonous chant.

This is what it is to be a "Native-Born American Republican" in the year of our Lord 1920.

I, too, am a "Native American," and have always voted the Republican ticket, as did my father before me, but I am beginning to find that those who cannot or will not think for themselves usually become the beasts of burden for those who do think, and so we find the men who collect mileage for nothing, who travel, and money for stationery they never use, and employ clerks who never make, are men who have sense enough to think, while the "Native-Born American Republicans" are satisfied to dig up the money for the mileage, the stationery, pay the thousands and thousands of clerks who do nothing but sign the payroll, pay for printing and distributing the speeches which are used only for the purpose of advertising the wonderful patriotism of the author, and then, as if to show their gratitude for the privilege of being allowed to pay the bills, they stand in the street and cheer themselves hoarse while "the servants of the people" ride by in their automobiles.

All this may suit the "Native-Born Republican" fine. It will undoubtedly be approved by the Old Guard. No wonder they like it better, but not for me. I propose to vote for some man, and some party, who stands for some principle and has the courage to say what it is.

ANOTHER MAN WITHOUT A PARTY.

Rent Legislation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Referring to the article in your Sunday's paper relative to the Governor, including the matter of rent legislation in his call for a special session, will someone take the lead in this important matter and provide a place for people to sign a petition or call a mass meeting for that purpose, or will it be allowed to go by default? A RENTER.

The Funny Phone Company.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Here is the funniest thing ever! Am changing my residence and in notifying the different public utilities of discontinuance of service I found that the Bell Telephone Co. is the only one who will not accept such notice over the phone. The "voice" over the phone informed me that I would have to give a written 10-day notice. I asked if I would be supposed to pay for the 10 days on another month. The "voice" said very emphatically, very sarcastically, etc., "You must certainly will." No wonder the telephone company has to get out and beg alms from the public when there is such a lack of sense in its management. The electric company, from whom we get ten times the service for one-half the price, said, "All right, we'll send a man out." The gas company the same.

MRS. A. W. C.

Dangers of the Fourth.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I am reminded by an inquest held this morning on a little boy who died at the St. Louis Children's Hospital, as a result of tetanus following gunshot wound caused by blank cartridge in the hands of a 6-year-old boy, that the approach of the Fourth of July celebrations will again sacrifice human lives.

In reviewing last year's verdicts for the month of July, I find that our toll here was five little girls between the ages of 4 and 8 years, four of whom died as a result of shock and burns following clothes becoming ignited by sparkler. This, I believe, is considered by the laity as a perfectly harmless method of celebrating. However, our records show that whenever children handle these careless, flammable, and are clothed in flimsy, easy-to-ignite dresses, they are far, very far from being innocent.

Will you not be good enough to make an appeal to all our good people to exercise extraordinary caution, and particularly call attention to the great danger of the little dresses becoming ignited, not only from the so-called harmless sparklers, but fireworks in general? Thanking you for the many good suggestions in the past, I beg to remain, very respectfully,
 R. S. VITT, M. D., Coroner.

RESPECT FOR THE LAW.

The Democrats hold the center of the stage this week, but the San Francisco pageant, nevertheless, should not obscure the pregnant remarks of Gov. Coolidge of Massachusetts at the Washington conference Wednesday in which Mr. Harding and Chairman Hays participated. The candidate for Vice President said:

We have many problems ahead. Many men have many remedies. The best remedy is the observance of the Constitution and the laws, not the enforcement, mind you. I am not now speaking of that. Of course, the Government will enforce the laws. This is far from enough. There must be a return of public opinion towards a self-control by the people, towards a great, overmastering desire to observe the law. When that is done the problems will fall away; there will be peace, prosperity and progress.

Gov. Coolidge, we think, has rendered an important service in stressing the distinction between enforcement of the law and voluntary, enthusiastic observance of the law. The latter condition reflects a wholesome public sentiment. But may such a desirable civic morale be hoped for unless the law be worthy of that respect?

When a man with Gov. Coolidge's long experience in public life recognizes the necessity of a change in public attitude towards the law, indeed, prescribes such a change as the best solution of our many problems, it may be accepted as a fact that public respect for the law is today wanting in the United States. The reason for it is not hard to find. We have today a constitutional provision and a statute which many deride, many others denounce. There are those, too, who extol this provision and statute with fulsome, ornate frequency and insist that those requirements are vitalized by an overwhelming public sentiment. The facts belie such assertions. Were observance of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act left to the volition of the people they would be the deadest of dead letters. And nobody appreciates the truth of such judgment more keenly than the sponsors of those repressive measures, as is evidenced in the extraordinary, unprecedented machinery that has been created to secure the enforcement. By a vast secret constabulary which may cross any threshold, enter any privacy without warrant or credential other than suspicion, by an espionage which has adopted the methods and general technique of monarchical spy systems—by such means are the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act enforced. To say that a people wants such restrictions as can be maintained only by inquisitorial powers heretofore unknown under our Government is either the madness of the zealot or the rankest hypocrisy.

The reputation of those restrictions by the professionally lawless is a matter of nation-wide daily record, but the weightiest reputation has come from Gov. Coolidge's own State, where in the annual spring elections town after town throughout all Massachusetts marched to the polls and voted prohibition down. To be sure, the leaders of the Anti-Saloon League scoffed at this expression of the people as an impotent gesture. They may be right. But if they are, if it is true that what a great proportion of the people want, and respectfully declare for at the ballot box, cannot be had, then we have come upon evil days. It is folly to hope for a return to a voluntary observance of the law which the people themselves have solemnly, though ineffectually, repealed.

But it is said that only a minority of the people are opposed to the prohibition code. If that were true, which it isn't, and if, as falsely claimed, a majority of the people endorsed those laws, even then the prohibition code would be indefensible. Democracy is a good deal more than a majority rule, though many seem to be satisfied with that dull, superficial definition. Jefferson's assertion that the best-governed people were the least-governed people is of the essence of democracy. Equal opportunity is democracy. The fact is that majority rule is a modus operandi of democracy. There are loose thinkers, or shrewd demagogues who blare out that the majority can do no wrong, but there is no sound reason why the tyranny of a majority cannot be as intolerable as the tyranny of an oligarchy or a monarch.

The possibility of precisely the kind of tyranny that exists here today was long ago discerned by a brilliant Frenchman, Alexis de Tocqueville, whose "American Democracy" is in many respects the most penetrating study of our system of government. It was his prediction that "if ever the free institutions of America are destroyed that event may be attributed to the omnipotence of the majority which may at some future time urge the minority to desperation and oblige them to have recourse to physical force. Anarchy will then be the result, but it will have been brought about by despotism." Discussing the character of the majority, De Tocqueville said:

A majority taken collectively is only an individual whose opinion and frequently whose interests are opposed to that of another individual who is styled a minority. If it be admitted that a man possessing absolute power may misuse that power by wronging his adversaries, why should not a majority be liable to the same reproach? Men do not change their character by uniting with each other, nor does their patience, in the presence of obstacles increase with their strength.

Truly, patience does not increase with strength. The obsequiousness of the prohibition lobbyists of other days, begging for the crumbs of legislative favor has gone. Today the Anti-Saloon League, having attained the stature of a dictatorship, drunk with power.

er, is ruthless. Entrenched in the Constitution, it believes its position impregnable. It cracks the whip over Congress and threatens vengeance upon political organizations that presume to question its orders. In a word, it is the State. And to a disquieting degree civil government has been suspended and in its place we have the military rule of the Anti-Saloon League. Under that rule the daily life of the people has suffered serious dislocations. Customs as old as orderly government have been proscribed. The ancient ritual of hospitality has been condemned. The eye of the law is peering at us all through every keyhole. The American people have been paroled, as it were, to the Anti-Saloon League. The genius of our democracy has been perverted. A decent regard for the viewpoint of others has been destroyed by our organic and statutory law.

For the unrest and discontent of the American people the unreasonable prohibition mandates are largely responsible. Respect for such laws, with many of our people, is unthinkable. Voluntary observance of such laws, desirable though it be, can only be looked for through self-deceived eyes.

How may we expect the "return of public opinion towards a self-control by the people," which Gov. Coolidge believes to be the best solution of our problems, when the Constitution and the statutes declare we have no self-control, that we are moral incompetents, and when our law makers set official regulators over our conscience and our conduct?

LITTLE AMERICAN PARTY.

The new party fathered by William Randolph Hearst, for the leadership of which Senator James A. Reed has been suggested, ought to be designated as the Little American party.

The common ground upon which Mr. Hearst tries to rally the supporters of his cause is opposition to any League of Nations and to American participation in joint efforts of nations to guarantee peace. America is to retire within itself, work for it if and keep free from any connection or co-operation with other nations, which is not based solely upon unqualified self-interest. Let the rest of mankind go to the demimoon bowdows. America is sufficient for itself and will keep everything it has for itself. Such things as idealism, good faith or humane co-operation in the relations of nations and peoples are delusions. The earth is a jungle and every beast must take care of himself.

In short, the Hearstites want a little America, living all by itself, on its own territory, with a Chinese wall of selfishness and indifference between it and the remainder of the world. They are little Americans and their party is the Little American party. No big Americans who see America as a great factor in civilization and world peace and progress can affiliate with them.

What with the police shooting and motorists scooting, the St. Louis pedestrian will admit that peace is hell, too.

OUR ARMY AT THE OLYMPIAN GAMES.

Certain athletic contests in which men of the regular army will engage and which begin in St. Louis today mark a military departure of large interest for the public, and it may be believed of exceptional value to the army itself.

For the first time representatives in a special sense of the physical strength and skill of the army will become serious contenders for the honor of upholding the supremacy of the United States at the Olympian games, held this year at Antwerp, Belgium, in August. As a result of elimination contests already held in seven territorial subdivisions of the army, an assembly of soldiers said to number 400, the pick of the whole army, meet here to engage in the finals.

Washington University stadium, the foot of Art Hill, the Marquette Pool and Jefferson Barracks will be the scenes of these decisive tests, which will continue through Friday, Saturday and Monday. Those who establish their superiority here in the athletic contests of many forms will represent the army in the finals for all America, to be held at Harvard University Stadium on July 17. The War Department's interest is shown by the detail of two Major-Generals, John L. Hines and E. F. McGlachlin Jr., to supervise and witness the events.

Just how great a departure it is and what it will mean in broadening the interests of the army can be appreciated by contrasting it with the narrow policies of the old army. Plans now being put in effect will make our regular army a great school of learning for the enlisted men as well as an organization for national defense. The educational comparison is emphasized by the elaborate and far-reaching plans for giving attention to college sports.

The athletic stimulus will extend to the company, the squad, the individual. The former army life of monotonous, routine military duty is diversified and given real attractiveness. The contact with civilians will tend to break up the old idea of army isolation and exclusiveness and give us soldiers who will be better trained for military service and better Americans.

The applicant for citizenship in Chicago who, when asked if he had ever heard of Wilson, replied, "Yes, he's the King," must have read the speeches at the Republican convention. And the Judge who accepted the answer was educated at the same high seat of learning.

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"It looks as if we had about come to the place where some readjustment of prices will have to be made," Mr. Antwerp said. "The fact that the great mass of people have long ago sold their Liberty bonds and exhausted their savings did not worry us; but we shall see if we can be worried by the fact that business is no longer able to sell at high prices and overstocks are closing factories."

"I have repeatedly said that the end would come when the people could no longer pay; and I think it has come. If some of the people who were profiteering on war prices have been caught by a falling market, let us hope they will not expect sympathy from us. We have too many troubles of our own to share the concern of those who have been largely responsible for what has happened. Greed was always bound to overreach itself. That has been our sole comfort through the period in which the profiteers have taken from us everything we had."

"When some of the concerns which have been picking us get back to earth, they will find us waiting for them. If they hit the ground half as hard as most of us have hit it, they won't feel like much for a considerable time. While they are resting their broken heads they can recall that whereas they had the Federal Reserve bank stretched as a net for them when they came down, the great mass of us had our descent arrested only when hitting the earth itself."

"It has been an orgy. I don't imagine there has been another instance in history when man chased his bread and butter to such attitudes as he has reached in pursuit of it these last two or three years. Certainly there has never been another time when wealth took such a terrible toll. We shall have something to think about when it is over. We know human nature now. I think. We knew something about it before, but it never stood before us in its shameless nakedness as it does today. Man is the king of beasts. He seeks whom he may devour."

While in Philadelphia last week Just a Minute amused himself reading the Philadelphia papers. There must be seven or eight daily papers there, and they are as unlike the press of St. Louis as day differs from night. We are so unaccustomed here to news suppression that we become readily conscious of it away from home. The Gimbels have a big store in Philadelphia, just as they have one in New York. When they were indicted for profiteering a few days ago the newspapers of Philadelphia said nothing about it. The people there had to get the news from the New York papers, where the leavening influence of a free press affects the whole press just as it has done here. The Nation says the World published the Gimbels story upon its front page, while the Tribune ran it in a column beside the Gimbels ad. One feels the tightness of the Philadelphia press. Of course, one can't tell what has been left out of it—but you know how it is. They are talking in Philadelphia about repairing the crack in the Liberty Bell. If they do, the old bell could not do better than to ring for the freedom of the Philadelphia press.

Having with us at Washington the other day as good a judge of art as Thrasymachus, we were able to enjoy the following with respect to the Washington and Lincoln monuments: (As you doubtless know, the Lincoln memorial has just been completed. It stands upon the bank of the Potomac River a short distance from the Washington monument.) Washington will outlive Lincoln if they are to live in these materials, since what is simply beautiful always outlives what is beautiful with too much elaboration. The Washington memorial is a simple shaft, whereas the Lincoln memorial borrows what is beautiful from so many quarters that one is at first dazzled by it and then turns to the Washington memorial for relief. The one is as beautiful as a whole as it is unadorned in detail, whereas the other is so beautiful in detail that as a whole one can scarcely tell whether it is beautiful or not. Imagine its four-sided colonnade of white marble in the best manner of the Greeks, a frieze such as Phidias might have designed and an ensemble presenting a richness and immutability beyond almost anything we have ever seen, and you gain some idea of the monument which is to perpetuate the name of Lincoln. In the judgment of Thrasymachus it won't do it and happily does not have to, since it is in our hearts that Lincoln lives and forever. The odd thing about it, too, is that Lincoln himself was the apotheosis of simplicity and as unlike that great white mass of glory set upon a green height as a man well could be. Still, two men can't have what Washington has, any more than the country can have two fathers. So, after all, after we had all heard Thrasymachus; and as usual he said, we think, what there was to say at the last.

Operating under Sign-Hunter's license, No. 48,252, I herewith submit without malice a few I have recently gilded on my way about town: On a restaurant, Sarah street: Est. 25 C. Up. That's what you might call real service. Easily done. Around the corner an advertising clock in a store window bears this legend beneath it: It's Time To See Us Come In. What time does he come in? Would it keep us out late? In a colored residence zone on Olive street this one is displayed on the front of a house: Rooms to Let And Razors Honed. That's what you might call real service. A morning paper carried a headline this week: Pettis County Girls Win Ribbons at Calf Shows. Not at all surprising. We always maintained that men could never justly claim beauty and perfection for their calves.

DISILLUSIONMENT. WHEN Jove descends to play the fool it is a sorry sight, I swear. Ambrosial locks become mere hair. His kingly glance, a vacant stare. And fiery words are bromides cool. When Jove descends to play the fool We like to worship from afar. Familiarity, they say. Even with gods, will never pay. We're very apt to see the clay When we draw near unto a star. Yes, we must worship from afar. JULIA CLOPTON CRESAP.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

From the New York World.
 FOUR months of life in Bolshevik Russia seems to have radically altered Emma Goldman's views of the blessings of Socialist miracle. She is "sick of it all," finding by actual experience that communism there "has taken away even the little freedom the man has under individual capitalism and has made him entirely subject to the whims of a bureaucracy which excuses its tyranny on the ground that all is done for the welfare of workers." And in the extremity of her disillusion the erewhile anarchist prophesies sits with an American flag on her desk, pinning for the country of her exile, which she now "loves as she loves no other land."

It is a sad case of disenchantment, but it will no doubt have its good effect. No one has ever disputed Miss Goldman's keen intelligence, whatever the general opinion of her rabid political tenets. Her disappointment at the practical upshot of applied Marxian theories is only the disappointment other intelligent observers are bound to experience at the transmutation of a program of perfect liberty into an actual condition of absolute tyranny. Dictatorships under any other name are just as bad. But no doubt the deportation of the violent dreamers who rallied at American institutions will have the educative value of enlightening them and others as to the superiority of capitalism under a Constitution over absolutism in the guise of communism.

EXCESS PROFITS TAX.

From the Nation's Business.
 IN 1916, when there was no excess profits tax, 4.1 per cent of the corporations that showed any profit at all reported expenses as 73 per cent of gross income. In 1917 the percentage had jumped to 87 per cent. There are indications that a large proportion of the increase is traceable directly to the tax. Within the period given, due to rising prices and increased output, the gross income of all the country's corporations, mounted from $35,000,000,000 to $44,000,000,000. The significance in the change of ratio of expense is apparent, for if the corporations which made a profit in 1917 had operated at the same low expense as in 1916, their net profits would have been larger by $11,000,000,000. This sum, had it been saved by the corporations as income, could have been made to yield a very large sum in taxes, perhaps as much as $1,000,000,000, which would have been collected in excess profits taxes. It is possible that the rate of expense to gross income is even higher today than in 1917. From the public point of view the excess profits tax may be a beautiful example of the ancient practice of saving at the apogee and wasting at the bungle.

SELF-GOVERNMENT IN PHILIPPINES.

O. GARFIELD JONES in Asia for July.
 THERE is strong possibility of the complete Filipinization of the Philippines and the development of one unified, self-governing people in the Philippine Islands, if the present policy of haste in democratizing the Government of the Moro Provinces does not prove disastrous. It is a good sense to turn over a large business requiring education and experience to a young man who has neither qualification, but merely wants to try his spurs and vindicate his conceit. It is equally bad to turn over the Moro Provinces to untrained Filipinos and uneducated Moro voters who are too direct a bearing upon the self-governing ability of the Philippines and the achievements of Governor-General Harrison before the presidential election in the United States next fall. Teaching Christians and Mohammedans to live peacefully together under a democratic Government has too direct a bearing upon the self-governing problem of world peace to be used as a plaything in the game of Philippine or American politics. SIR JULIAN KAND PREFERS NEW YORK BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

"MARGARET VAN CLARENCE SMITH," the beautiful lady murmured an hour or so later, across the supper table. "I like you—I like you very much—only your name is so long."

"It is a kind of mouthful, isn't it?" he agreed. "Call me anything you like for short."

"I shall call you Jimmy," she declared, her really wonderful eyes quite close to his, her chin supported upon her clasped hands, the fingers of which were aflame with several priceless emeralds. "You make me very sorry that I am going away."

"Why are you going?" he asked carelessly. She shrugged her shoulders. For a moment she was silent.

"I fatigue myself here," she confided. "London is very well, but it is not Vienna. It is not even Paris. The acquaintances which I make here do not much please me."

"And so you are going?"

"Yes, I go away," she admitted. "They are not pleased at the theater. Why will you not take me to Paris—Jimmy? I do not like to travel alone."

He became Machiavellian.

"Stay in London another month," he begged, "and I'll take you all the way if you like."

She made a little grimace at him, then unclasped her finger, took a cigarette from her tortoise-shell case, accepted a light from him, and smoked meditatively. She had found time to change her clothes since her departure to the theater. Her black gown and hat were of the Rue de la Paix, her makeup slight, but effective. She was quite the most beautiful woman in the supper room, the cynosure of many eyes.

"Jimmy," she said, "I would not stay in London for another month if you gave me—well, what have you that is precious?"

"Not much!"

"Your heart, say, then. No, not even for your heart, my friend!"

"Why on earth not?" he asked. "London isn't such a bad place. A bit cramped after New York, or somber after Paris, but when you begin to find your way about, London has its points."

"And yet I tell you," she insisted, "I would not stay here another month for all the great things which the gods could give."

"I am not good at riddles," he confessed. "Here, waiter! Another liqueur before you take that bottle away."

Their glasses were filled. The lights had been lowered. The atmosphere of the place was a little heavy with the perfume of cigarette smoke, the incense of the women's clothes and perfumes.

"You, too," she went on reflectively, "you are a foreigner. You are not English."

"But your life I'm not," he assured her. "Then what is good for me is good for you in a lesser degree," she continued. "It is good for me to get away before August; so, also, for you. Come with me to Paris, my child."

"Why won't it be good for me to be here in August?" he asked bluntly.

She leaned further still across the table.

"Listen," she said. "I did not mean to tell a soul before I left. My word is really pledged that I should tell no one. I will not count on you because you are not English. I have a great friend who is highly placed in the Austrian Government. From him I received last week a private letter. He begged me to destroy it the moment I had read it, and he warned me to leave London before Aug. 1, because any day after that war might be declared."

"War?" he repeated incredulously.

"Austria and Germany are going to fight," she went on, "against Russia, against France and against England. It is not we, mind, who wish it. It is Germany. But we are pledged and we must keep our word. My friend has warned me before. He promised to send me word in time. He has kept his promise. So, you see, dear Jimmy, that it will be better for you, too, to be out of this country when the blow falls. You will come with me to Paris? Yes?"

"There are difficulties," he admitted.

"Difficulties!" she scoffed, with narrowed eyes, a soft, noiseless laugh. "You are the first man who has ever spoken to me of them!"

There was a single moment during which Van Clarence Smith missed his cue. Then Providence intervened. The maid appeared, looking through the doors. As soon as she had recognized her mistress she hastened to the table, and, leaning over her, whispered something in her ear. Miss Ella Rumboldt frowned angrily. Her eyes flashed, she struck the table with her fist. The two women engaged in a whispered conversation. Van Clarence Smith, to distract his attention, called for the bill. Presently the maid retreated, leaving her mistress white and angry. She turned to her companion and at her first words he recovered his cue.

"I am broken hearted, dear Jimmy," she said. "A friend has called, a very distinguished gentleman, whom I dare not offend. He has been my patron. In Austria he will mean success or failure to me. He desires to see me urgently."

"You must go," her companion exclaimed in well simulated dismay.

Her eyes soothed him with an unspeakable regret, promised him the next moment a wonderful future.

"I must go," she sighed, "but tomorrow—the next day—yes?"

Van Clarence Smith bent over her hands.

"Until the earliest moment," he murmured.

Left alone, he lit a cigar, paid his bill, stretched himself, and made a leisurely departure. In the lobby he suddenly felt an arm thrust through his. "Let me drive you home," a familiar voice invited. "My car is here."

Capt. Ashford led the way to a waiting automobile and ushered his companion in.

"Where to?" he asked.

"I am staying at some rooms in Clages street," Van Clarence Smith answered.

"Good! Then we'll call at my little shop in Whitehall court and have a drink. Had a pleasant evening?"

"Great!" was the enthusiastic reply. "She's some girl!"

Capt. Ashford smiled, made a few remarks about Miss Rumboldt's professional career, and said nothing more of interest until they were seated in armchairs in his very handsome study and his man servant had wheeled a little table between them, upon which were set out cigars and cigarettes and other forms of refreshment.

"Brandy or whisky?"

"I see ice," the young American observed complacently. "Guess I'll mix myself a Scotch highball."

"I am not altogether sure," his host ventured, "whether I interpreted your wishes correctly in breaking up your tete-a-tete this evening."

"Say, had you anything to do with that?"

"Naturally! Miss Ella Rumboldt has a great admirer, very highly placed in the Austrian embassy here. I managed to have news of your little supper party conveyed to him. I thought perhaps his advent might afford you the means of a strategic retreat."

"You certainly do see things through!" Van Clarence Smith acknowledged. "You bring the young lady to me and you take her away! Incidentally, you gain your purpose. I can tell you exactly why Miss Rumboldt is giving up her place at the Frivoliety."

"Yes?"

"She has received an intimation from a friend in the Austrian Cabinet that England will be at war with Germany and Austria within a month. She is advised to be out of England by Aug. 1."

Suppose the Girl You Had Proposed to Asked:

"Do You Want Children?
"Must I Quit My Job?
"Do I Lose My Individuality?"

What Sort of Love Does the Modern Woman Want Anyhow?
What Is the New Courtship—and Why?

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

THAT is the first of three interesting questions answered by Marguerite Mooers Marshall in her novel of up-to-the-minute romance, "This Marrying," published by George H. Doran. Anybody who has watched the love affairs of the Modern Girl realizes that for her the intoxication of moonlight is certainly not over 1/4 of 1 percent; that her Cupid is more likely to carry a questionnaire than bows and arrows. Or, as Mrs. Banning puts it: "So many girls have preliminary problems before they marry—so many courtships are painful, harassed affairs these days—so many moonlit nights are spent" (she might have written "spoil") "in putting questions which do not read, 'Will you love me always?' but 'Will I be able to maintain my individuality?'"

If she doesn't say that, she says, "After we're married, are you going to be boss?" "I've always earned my own money—will you let me keep it?" "Do you expect me to do my own work?" "Do you want children?"

Yet the explanation is simple and even reassuring. The New Courtship—a sort of Higher Catechism, as it were—doubtless is the result of the flirteuse, the very latest thing in flirteuse points out Mrs. Banning. "Perhaps the modern substitute for the coquetry of the old-fashioned woman before marriage," she writes, "is the introduction of 'problems' in her love-making. The man still courts—a little more discreetly than he used to, but much after the same plan—but whereas the woman of a generation ago was supposed to bid him a whimsical chase, now, giving, now withdrawing her favor, refusing to admit her feelings, the typical woman of today is apt to admit her feelings readily enough, but she precludes her submission to them by the introduction of a host of 'problems.'"

"Sometimes it is the problem of whether she wants to have children or not—sometimes the question of giving up a separate wage-earning existence—sometimes a theory against the inequality of marital concessions, sometimes this, sometimes that. One wonders if the whole thing is not a development of the old feminine practice of playing with a man from behind a feather-fringed fan."

"Formerly women teased their lovers for assurances of perpetual love. The woman now, more wise, more honest, more skeptical, too, about perpetual love, puts a different face on her question. She asks: 'And if my love does not turn out well, what then? Shall I be wrecked?'"

What Sort of Love Does the Modern Girl Want?

Mrs. Banning has a wise answer to that question. "Each of us loves his or her own kind of love. I've known people who found great delight in being up thine for the people they

SOAP SUBSTITUTE FOR COLORED CLOTHES

EVERY woman who has had any experience with trying to wash colored clothes knows how great the danger of fading them is. Fading is caused by alkaline soaps or sunlight. The rules for washing colored clothes require a soap solution free from alkali, and forbid rubbing soap directly on the clothes, or drying them in the sun.

The color in most clothes can be set by placing them in a salt solution for some minutes before washing them. Many people shrink and set colored clothes before making them. It is possible in washing them to dispense altogether with soap and use substitutes, such as bran water, starch water or soap bark.

Bran water: Cook four cups of bran in a gallon of water for 20 minutes, strain off the water and use it to wash colored clothes.

Starch water: Add to warm, not hot, washing water, enough well-cooked and very smooth starch water to make it feel slippery. Make the starch water as usual, by dissolving starch in cold water, adding boiling water gradually, stirring all the time until it is thick and transparent. If clothes are washed in starch water, a certain amount of the starch will remain even through two or more rinsings, so that no more starching is necessary.

Soap bark: Soap bark comes in packages which can be bought from a druggist. It should be covered with water and steeped for some minutes on the stove. The water should then be drained off and used instead of soap suds. There is nothing better for washing a soiled black skirt than soap bark. Prepare the warm soap bark solution, let the skirt on a board, and scrub it well all over with a brush, dipping constantly in the soap bark solution. When the skirt is clean, rinse it in several waters, but do not wring it at all. Hang it well pinned, without wringing, out of doors in the shade, just letting it drip. It will look fresh and new.

Always hang colored clothes to dry in the shade, whether washed in soap solution, or any of the substitutes.

IS THIS YOUR TYPE?

By MARIE LA ROQUE.

The Gibson Girl.

WHY does the average American girl like to be called a Gibson girl—for it is a fact that nine out of ten of our young women would rather be of the Gibson girl type than any other you could mention?

For one thing, the Gibson girl is 100 per cent American—she possesses the traits that we like to think typically American. Then she is aristocratic—aristocratic, of course, as we may use the term in a land where there is no aristocracy. That is, she is well bred and well born. She shows good antecedents and good bringing up. She is not an artificial beauty. Her good looks are the sort that blossom from good heritage plus wholesome education.

They are perhaps pretty and appealing rather than strikingly beautiful. There is a straight nose, a pretty curving mouth, never with the voluptuous fullness that seems to be admired by some of the other illustrators of the day. And the eyes are likewise free from the heavy-lidded Oriental languor that is gaining popularity among popular portrayals of pretty women. They are pretty eyes and frank, honest eyes, with usually an arch to the eyebrow that seems to brook high spirits and pride.

Maxims of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

FALLING in love by moonlight is like buying silk by gaslight—when you see the result by the plain light of day you want to take it back for exchange.

Recent revelations as to the New York woman's poker-playing abilities should surprise nobody. Ever since the first woman married the first man, she has been playing a game which, for finesse, facial control and sheer, magnificent bluff, makes poker seem as primitive as handball.

One reason why a man likes to be a father is because it is so easy to obtain a reputation for generosity. After browbeating his wife about the bills, he can regain his status as a good fellow by handing his daughter a dime for candy or 15 cents for the movies.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Old Man Coyote Is Sure of Peter Rabbit.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

NO one knows better than Old Man Coyote that hurrying often leads to carelessness and carelessness to failure. So it is seldom that he makes the mistake of allowing eagerness to overhurry him. When he drew near the place from which he had heard the faintest made by Peter Rabbit, and the splash made by Jerry Muskrat, he crept. He took the greatest care to put each foot down so as not to make the tiniest sound.

He was positive was Old Man Coyote, that somewhere among those rushes on the shore of the Laughing Brook, where it flows into the Smiling Pool, Peter Rabbit was hiding. He knew Peter and his ways so well that he could be quite sure what Peter was doing and would do. "He is sitting perfectly still," thought Old Man Coyote, "and he will continue to sit perfectly still for some time. He will sit that way, listening with those big ears of his until he is sure that it is quite safe for him to move. Then that everlasting curiosity of his will lead him right back where he was when he was frightened. He will go back, there to see if Jerry Muskrat is over his fright. The thing for me to do is to find out where that place is and then be patient."

So slowly and very carefully Old Man Coyote worked his way through the rushes. Presently he stopped and held his nose high. Then he grinned. He saw Jerry Muskrat had left behind him on that little landing of his a little of that strong scent of his called musk. You know it is that from which he gets his name. He had left it on that little landing that other Muskrats who might come along should know at once that that landing was his.

With that to guide him Old Man Coyote had no trouble at all in finding that little landing. He went to it as straight as if he had known all the time exactly where it was. He didn't expect to find Jerry there, so he didn't hesitate to walk right out and examine it. It was well to know all about that little landing.

Old Man Coyote was greatly pleased when he found that it was a new one not yet quite finished. That meant that Jerry probably would make use of it every night. He would sit on it to eat his meals. By hiding close to it some other evening it should be an easy matter to catch Jerry.

But Old Man Coyote didn't expect to catch Jerry that night, so as soon as he had examined that little landing he turned his attention to Peter Rabbit. His wonderful nose soon found the place where Peter had been sitting when he had seen Hooty the Owl and warned Jerry Muskrat. Again Old Man Coyote grinned.

"He isn't more than a few good jumps from here this very minute," thought he. "I haven't so much as rustled a leaf, so he doesn't know I am here or anywhere about. All I need do is hide and be patient. Peter Rabbit will furnish me a dinner tonight as surely as I draw my breath."

So Old Man Coyote hid close by and settled himself down to be patient. He could afford to be patient. A Rabbit dinner was worth a little patience. His mouth watered as he thought how good that dinner would taste. And all the time he kept his keen ears open for the tiniest sound which Peter might make and with his wonderful nose, kept testing the soft night air for the faintest scent of Peter. It certainly did seem as if Peter Rabbit's end was very near.

And then from out in the Black Shadows of the Smiling Pool came the loud startling splash, which was Jerry Muskrat's danger signal. (Copyright, 1929, by T. W. Burgess.)

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

THE OYSTER AND THE TROMBONE

Scientists have found that oysters can be made to ring electric bells by the movement of their shells when feeding.

On being told that oysters
With cunning are imbued,
And with their shells can jingle bells,
When famishing for food,
We trapped and trained a bivalve,
And with a tinkling chime,
The little cuss would signal us
When it was dinner time.

The creature's taste for music Developed more and more;
We taught him soon a simple tune,
And then an opera score.
And the score of summer
Without the least fatigue,
He learned to play from Massenet
And Handel, Bach and Greig.

But there are limitations
Which every oyster has,
And one of these is grace and ease
In synopsizing jazz.
Though oysters may be masters
Of harmony and tone,
They're not, we find, at all designed
To blow a slide trombone.

Our oyster found the jazz-tunes
We're quite beyond his art,
And so he sighed, and quit and died;
His failure broke his heart.
The moral of this fable—
A simple one and true—
We now supply. It's do not try
A thing you cannot do.

Who Goes First?

The etiquette of the revolving door has yet to be standardized. At present there are two schools of opinion on the subject. One holds that when a man and a woman approach a revolving door it is the man's place to go first, pushing the door slowly so as to allow his partner to follow in the next compartment without any effort on her part.

The other contends that ladies still holds sway. It is good manners, these theorists say, for the man to step aside, let the woman pass into the compartment behind him. In this way, it is contended, the man may assume control of the door and guide it until the woman ahead of him is safely out.

The bitter rivalry prevails between the two schools.—New York Evening Post.

When in Canada last, Mr. Kipling was so dissatisfied with the hotel accommodations that he gave the landlord a severe calldown. Said he: "Of all the hotels under the shining sun, I have never been in one that for unmitigated, all-round, unendurable discomfort could equal yours."

After the landlord had withdrawn in great indignation, Kipling asked for his bill, and he discovered that the last item was, "To impudence—three dollars."—Boston Transcript.

New York Stock Exchange Will Remain Closed From Friday Night to Tuesday.

The New York Stock Exchange will be closed Saturday, July 3, and Monday, July 5, on account of the annual meeting of the exchange. The exchange also will remain closed Saturday and Sunday. The exchange will hold sessions Saturday.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"While call money ruled around 10 per cent today and the time money market held firmly at the week's highest rates, prices advanced on the Stock Exchange. The bidding process was pretty much confined to the highly speculative industrial shares and it was wholly due to the activities of professional operators. But the result was both an increase of business and an advance of 3 to 5 points in many stocks of the class referred to. The largest advances occurred in stocks whose character is the most speculative."

"Foreign exchange was firmer, sterling in particular rose 1/4 to 1/2 pence. Silver declined 1/2 penny at London to 5 1/2 pence per ounce, as against 5 1/2 last Monday and 4 3/4 on Saturday. Foreign silver was down 1/2 further today at New York."

Cotton Report Favorable.

The Government's monthly cotton crop estimate was an incident of real importance. A month ago the average cotton acreage was estimated as 22.5 per cent of normal, which was the lowest June percentage on record. Since it was commonly supposed that acreage also had been reduced because of labor scarcity, the inference was drawn that a very short cotton crop was on the cards for 1920. The bearings which such a shortage would have on the price of textile goods, including clothing, was manifest; it caused very general perplexity over the recent violent decline of the cotton market."

Today's Government estimate threw a light on the market, it shows, first, that the almost perfect growing weather of last month in our agricultural West and South has raised the new cotton crop's average condition from 22.5 per cent to 30, which is fractionally better than that of a year ago. The planted acreage, on which the season's first report was made today, is shown not to have decreased; it is 371,000 acres larger than last year's and exceeds the acreage of 1917 or 1918 or 1912. Based on these favorable changes in acreage and conditions, the department reckons the indicated yield at 13,450,000 bales as against a 10,950,000-bale forecast last July and a final estimate of 11,227,775 bales on the yield of 1919. This is no "bumper crop"; it will possibly still mean inadequate supplies unless the present curtailment of purchases by home and foreign spinners is arrested. But they forebode, a very different picture from that which seemed probable a few months ago. Next week we shall hear from the wheat crop, which has also been favored in an unusual degree by the weather conditions of June."

European Bank Figures.

"Two of the weekly European bank statements published today bore testimony to the world-wide character of the present money stringency. At the European central banks such conditions are always greatly emphasized during the half-yearly money market settlements, because, in addition to the period's ordinary requirements, the central banks at that time redouble very heavily with the central institution in order to favor their own half-yearly statements."

"The Bank of Germany's loans increased no less than $73,000,000 during the week covered by today's report, and $212,000,000 was added to its outstanding note circulation. This brings the paper currency issued by the bank up to $12,900,000,000, which compares with $12,800,000,000 a month ago and with $8,900,000,000 at the end of 1919."

"With the Bank of England it was undoubtedly the 'window dressing' of private banks which increased the loans this week by $115,000,000. That occurred in loans to private banks. But the Government has also borrowed heavily from the bank, and moreover, the resultant $400,000,000 increase in deposit liabilities for the week occurred while the holiday demand for cash had drawn $24,000,000 currency out of the bank's reserve. The net result is a fall in the bank's cash reserve to deposits from 15.5 per cent to 14.5. It is as it happens, is the lowest reserve ratio reported by the Bank of England during the war and in more than half a century. The lowest ratio of the war period was 14.5 per cent, the lowest of the war was 8.5 per cent at the end of last December. Nothing lower than this week's ratio has been reported by the Bank of England since the Overend-Gurney panic of May, 1866, when the bank act was suspended and the reserve percentage fell to 2 1/2."

HOLIDAY BULLNESS

THE CURB MARKET

Movements in Oil Narrow — Bonds Steady, Mining Shares Dull.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The approaching holidays caused a further restriction in dealings on the curb market today. Many of the usually active traders were absent and there was little outside business. Even the specialists were missing in some crowds after the first hour of business.

Movements in the oil list were narrow. Simms Petroleum was steady, while White Oil was slightly lower. Carbide was less active and moved over a fractional range. The Standard Oil group was practically motionless, the bid and asked prices unchanged. The Magna Oil and Refining Co. announced its earnings for May. They showed a gross income of $221,734, with general and operating expenses $145,576, leaving a net income of $76,158. The net oil production for the month was 57,734 barrels from 124 producing wells. General Asphalt on small dealings moved over a range of only one-half point. United States Petroleum, a point. Indian Packing rose a substantial fraction, a moderate demand for oil offerings in the market. United States Petroleum was steady, but Times Square Auto declined fractionally.

Mining shares were dull and about unchanged. Bonds were quiet but steady.

WHEN ENGINE CREW
RESISTS ATTACK*First Serious Disturbance of Switchmen's Walkout Results in Wounding of Striker and Railroad Employee.*FIGHT OCCURS NEAR EAST SIDE PLANT*Crowd Stones Locomotive and R. H. Robinette and A. I. Nichols Are Wounded in Exchange of Bullets.A striking switchman and a Southern Railroad yard employee were shot yesterday afternoon, when a number of men attacked a switching crew at Twentieth street and Broadway, East St. Louis, near the plant of the American Steel Foundries.Both the wounded men are in St.
Mary's Hospital. The yard employee, R. H. Robinette, is the more seriously wounded, the bullet having entered the left groin and lodged in his back. He recently came from Virginia. The striker, A. I. Nichols, of 1310 Bond avenue, was wounded in the right leg above the knee.First Serious Conflict.The fight was the most serious disturbance that has thus far grown out of the insurgent switchmen's strike, conducted by the St. Louis Yardmen's Association, which began April 8. The officers of the Yard-men's Association laid down at the outset a policy of obedience to law and non-interference with any workers who might take the switchmen's jobs. This has been strictly carried out in St. Louis, but on the East Side there have been some minor conflicts.The whipping of President Eubank of the Yardmen's Association and the Rev. Nelson E. Aregood, at Pine Bluff, Ark., Wednesday night, caused expressions of bitterness among the strikers yesterday.A considerable number of men, 40 according to a police report, attacked the Southern switching crew about 4 p. m., as the switch engine was passing the foundry company's plant.
Stones were thrown at the locomotive and Robinette got off.Shots From Both Sides.
Shots were fired from the attacking group, and Robinette was wounded. The members of the engine crew lifted him into the cab, and as the stone throwing continued,
a shot was fired from the cab, which wounded Nichols. The police say Robinette fired this shot. The engine took Robinette to Twenty-ninth street.Nichols was first taken into the dispensary of the foundry plant.
Both the wounded men were arrested. The police, on reaching the scene of the disturbance, found no one else to arrest.MAN WHO ATTACKS WORKER

Union Card.Police are searching for a man about 30 years old, supposed to be a union worker, who was stabbed in the abdomen in a fight between non-union and union workmen while three nonunion workers were putting in the foundation for a boiler for F. N. L. Peoples, engineer in charge of the International Life Building, with offices at 706 Chestnut street. The fight occurred in a soft drink stand at 13 North Eighth street, and the man who was stabbed ran away with the knife remaining in the wound.Onia Hahn, 29, of 2108 Olive street; Terrell Wyatt, 2011 Park avenue, and Ben S. White, 1224 South Eighteenth, who were engaged in the work, were accosted in the drink stand by three strangers who walked in at 4 p. m. One of the men asked Hahn for his union card. Hahn said he was not a union man. The spokesman picked up a bolt and hurled it at Hahn, missing his head and breaking a $200 mirror in the place. The stranger then hit Hahn with a bottle and Hahn drew his knife and stabbed the stranger. The man ran out of the place with his two companions and escaped.Hahn was treated for a scalp wound at the dispensary.WIFE TO DISMISS DIVORCE SUIT AGAINST INJURED HUSBANDWhen a touring car, descending into the creek bottoms west of Edwardsville, yesterday, endeavored to avoid colliding with another automobile and plunged into a ravine, whirling over three times before it reached the bottom, it put a stop to a divorce case set for today at Edwardsville.Ben Canis, owner and driver of the car, was pinned under the machine, badly crushed. He was removed to his home and attended by surgeons.
Within half an hour an excited woman burst into the injured man's room and flung herself on the bed.It was Mrs. Canis, who had been separated from her husband, and whose suit against him for divorce, based on allegation of cruelty, was set for today. When Canis regained consciousness a reconciliation took place. It was said by friends of both that the divorce suit would be dismissed today.
